

People in Political Science

Activities

Alan J. Abramson has been named director of the Nonprofit Sector Research Fund, a Washington, DC-based program of The Aspen Institute.

Alan J. Abramson

Mamie Locke, assistant dean, School of Liberal Arts and Education and assistant professor of political science, Hampton University, was elected to the Hampton City Council. Locke has been appointed to the City Planning Commission, Hampton Roads Planning District, and Government Policy Committee for the Virginia Municipal League.

Thomas R. Morris, president and professor of political science, Emory & Henry College, was elected to the executive committee of the Appalachian College Association and appointed to the Southern Regional Education Board.

Kenneth Peter, associate professor of political science, San Jose State University, has been appointed chair, academic senate for 1996–97.

Elinor Ostrom, Arthur F. Bentley Professor of Political Science and co-director, Workshop in Political Theory and Analysis, Indiana University, will direct a new program on how institutions and humans at the household and community level affect deforestation and replacement, initiated by the new Center for the Study of Institutions, Population and Environmental Change, Indiana University.

David L. Weeks, dean, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, Azusa Pacific University; formerly professor and chair, department of history and political science, Azusa Pacific University.

John J. Weltman, Stanford University, served on the faculty of the International Summer School in International Relations, July-August 1996. The School, a project of the Stefan Batory Foundation, was held in Poland.

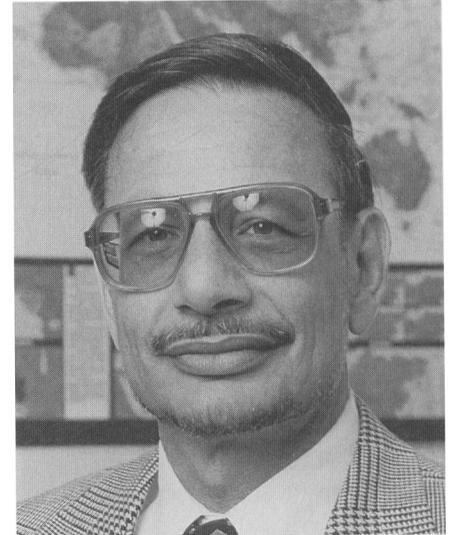

Administrative Appointments

Donna Bahry, chair, department of political science, Vanderbilt University.

Philip R. Baumann, chair, department of political science, Moorhead State University.

Kenneth Peter

Richard Ned Lebow

Richard J. Collings, vice chancellor for academic affairs and professor of political science, Western Carolina University; formerly provost and vice president for academic affairs, Kutztown University.

Blease Graham, Jr., dean, College of Criminal Justice, University of South Carolina.

Ronald Hedlund, professor, department of political science and vice provost for research and graduate programs, Northeastern University.

Calvin Jillson, chair, department of political science and director, John Goodwin Tower Center for Political Studies, Southern Methodist University.

Rasma Karklins, chair, department of political science, University of Illinois at Chicago.

Lance LaLoup, chair, department of political science, Washington State University; formerly University of Missouri-St. Louis.

Richard Ned Lebow, director, Mer-shon Center, and professor of political science, psychology, and history, The Ohio State University.

Lela G. Noble

W. Wesley McDonald, chair, department of political science, Elizabeth College (PA).

William Mishler, head, department of political science, University of Arizona; effective January 1, 1997; formerly University of South Carolina.

Eusebio Mujal-Leon, chair, department of government, Georgetown University.

Lela G. Noble, acting dean, College of Social Science, San Jose State University.

Robert F. Pecorella, chair, department of government and politics, St. John's University.

Barbara J. Way, dean, College of Letter, Arts and Sciences, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona.

New Appointments

Gerald Taiiiake Alfred, assistant professor, School of Public Administration, University of Victoria.

Greg O. Asuagbor, assistant professor of political science and director, Multicultural & International Affairs, Bluffton College; formerly University of Nevada-Reno.

William James Booth, professor, department of political science, Vanderbilt University; formerly McGill University.

George Borjas, professor of public policy, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Stephen Engelman, assistant professor of political science, University of Illinois at Chicago; formerly University of Michigan.

Corinna-Barbara Francis, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Missouri-Columbia.

Tim Groseclose, assistant professor, department of political science, Ohio State University; formerly Carnegie Mellon University.

Joel B. Grossman, professor of political science, The Johns Hopkins University; formerly University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Barbara Headrick, assistant professor, department of political science, Moorhead State University; formerly Texas A&M University.

John Holdren, Teresa and John Heinz Professor of Environmental Policy, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

James Hollifield, Ora Nixon Arnold Professor of International Political Economy and director, international studies program, Southern Methodist University; formerly Auburn University.

Helen Ingram, Drew, Chace and Erin Warmington Chair in Social Ecology of Peace and International Cooperation, University of California at Irvine. Ingram will hold appointments in the department of politics and society, School of Social Sciences, and departments of urban planning and environmental analysis, School of Social Ecology. In addition, Ingram recently received the 'Frontera' International Excellence award, an international prize for excellence in a scientific field whose work contributes significantly to the quality of life on the U.S.-Mexico border. The prize was awarded by the Fundacion Margarita Miranda de Mascarenas and recognizes the contribution of Ingram's recent co-authored book, Divided Waters: Bridging the U.S.-Mexico Border, to international understanding.

Helen Ingram

Christopher Jencks, professor of public policy, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Bryan Jones, professor, department of political science, University of Washington; formerly Texas A&M University.

Lael Keiser, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Missouri-Columbia.

Geoffrey Layman, assistant professor, department of political science, Vanderbilt University; formerly Southern Mississippi University.

Richard Leitch, assistant professor, department of political science, Gustavus Adolphus College; formerly University of Illinois.

Paul G. Lewis, research fellow, Public Policy Institute of California; formerly Florida International University.

Stefanie A. Lindquist, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Georgia.

Richard Locke, associate professor, department of political science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Patrick Lynch, assistant professor, department of government, Georgetown University.

Jane Mansbridge, professor of public policy, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Edward Mansfield, associate professor, department of political science,

Ohio State University; formerly Columbia University.

Gary McKissick, assistant professor, department of political science, Emory University; formerly University of Michigan.

Blake J. Nelson, assistant professor, department of political science, Moorhead State University; formerly University of Minnesota.

Katherine Newman, professor of public policy, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Thomas Patterson, Bradlee Professor of Government and the Press, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

James Lee Ray, professor, department of political science, Vanderbilt University; formerly Florida State University.

Dani Rodrik, Rafiq Hariri Professor of International Political Economy, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Christina Romer, professor of public policy, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University (1997).

David Romer, professor of public policy, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University (1997).

Mark J. Rozell, associate professor of political science, School of Public Affairs, American University.

Patricia Siplon, assistant professor, department of political science, Wilkes University.

Daniel C. Thomas, assistant professor of political science, University of Illinois at Chicago; formerly Williams College.

William Julius Wilson, Malcolm Wiener Professor of Social Policy, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

James Yoho, assistant professor, department of political science, Wilkes University.

Christopher Zorn, assistant professor, department of political science,

Emory University; formerly Ohio State University.

Promotions

Mary E. (Betsy) Carroll, associate professor of political science, and director, master of public administration program, San Jose State University.

Wolfgang Drechsler, professor and chair, department of public administration, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Tartu, Estonia.

John G. Geer, professor, department of political science, Vanderbilt University.

David N. Gibbs, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Arizona.

John R. Gilliom, associate professor, department of political science, Ohio University.

Roy Godson, professor, department of government, Georgetown University.

Glen A. Halva-Neubauer, associate professor, department of political science, Furman University.

David King, associate professor of public policy, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Harvey Klehr, Andrew W. Mellon Professor of Politics and History, Emory University.

Stephen F. Knott, associate professor of political science, United States Air Force Academy.

Paulette Kurzer, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Arizona.

William J. Long, professor School of International Affairs, Georgia Institute of Technology.

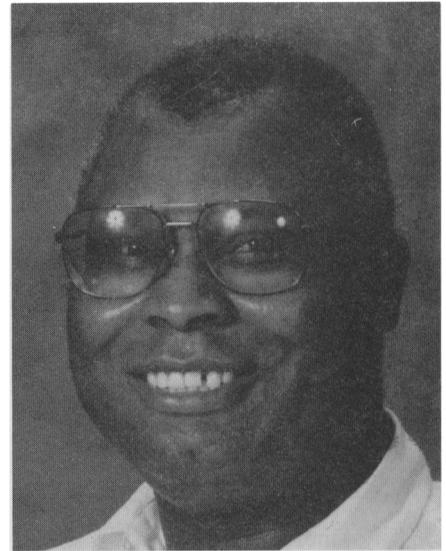

John Anthony Maltese, associate professor of political science with tenure, University of Georgia.

Roy T. Meyers, associate professor of political science with tenure, University of Maryland-Baltimore County.

William F.S. Miles, professor, department of political science, Northeastern University.

Joshua Mitchell, associate professor, department of government, Georgetown University.

Iren Omo-Bare, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Milsaps College.

Iren Omo-Bare

V. Spike Peterson, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Arizona.

Clyde Wilcox, professor, department of government, Georgetown University.

David Wilkins, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Arizona.

Retirements

H. Kent Schellenger, department of political science, San Jose State University.

Frank Tachau, Emeritus Professor of Political Science, University of Illinois at Chicago.

Visiting and Temporary Positions

Christopher J. Anderson, assistant professor of political science, Rice University, will be a visiting assistant professor of management at the J.L. Kellogg Graduate School of Management, Northwestern University during the 1996–97 academic year.

People in Political Science

Joel Fetzer, visiting assistant professor of political science, Pepperdine University, for 1996–97 academic year; formerly Yale University.

Erwin Hargrove, professor, department of political science, Vanderbilt University will spend the 1996–97 academic year at the University of Leeds.

Manindra Mohapatra, professor of political science and director, master of public administration program, Indiana State University, will be visiting scholar at Demontfort University in England for the Fall 1996 semester.

Awards

ACLS Names Winners for 1996 Programs

The American Council of Learned Societies has named winners in various ACLS fellowship and grant programs. Below is a listing of political scientists who will be supported by ACLS.

Postdoctoral Fellowships

Gerald P. Berk, assistant professor of political science, University of Oregon Guenter Lewy, professor emeritus of political science, University of Massachusetts-Amherst.

Travel Grants for International Meetings Abroad

Stephen E. Bronner, professor of political science, Rutgers University, to attend the Symposium on Neoliberalism/Neoconservatism.

Dongsung Kong, assistant professor of political science, San Jose State University, to attend International Conference on National Security and Globalization.

Samuel Krislov, professor of constitutional law, University of Minnesota, to attend the Interim Meeting of the Research Committee on Comparative Judicial Studies of IPSA.

Leonard J. Schoppa, assistant professor of political science, University of Virginia, to attend Conference on Globalism, Regionalism, and Nationalism: Asia in Search of its Role in the 21st Century.

Henry J. Steck, professor of political science, SUNY-Cortland, to attend the Conference of the Alliance of Universities for Democracy.

Dirksen Congressional Research Grants

Twelve political scientists, historians, and journalists received grants totaling $25,000 through The Dirksen Congressional Center's 1996 Congressional Research Grants program. Funding for the program comes from the Caterpillar Foundation and The Center. Political scientist winners include:

Ross Baker, department of political science, Rutgers University

Lori Brainard, Ph.D. candidate, University of South Carolina

Debra Dodson, Eagleton Institute, Rutgers University

Diane Hollern, Ph.D. candidate, University of Maryland

Lewis Irwin, Ph.D. candidate, U.S. Military Academy

Alana Jeydel, Ph.D. candidate, American University

Burdett Loomis, department of political science, University of Kansas

Michael Rosenstiehl, Ph.D. candidate, Texas A&M University

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Scholars in Health Policy Research Program

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation selects up to 12 highly qualified social scientists each year to participate in the Scholars in Health Policy Research Program, a national program that provides talented individuals with two-year fellowships at one of three nationally prominent academic institutions—the University of California at Berkeley, The University of Michigan, and Yale University. While in the program, the Scholars have the opportunity to work closely with faculty from the social sciences as well as from medicine, public health, public policy, management, and law, in an environment conducive to multidisciplinary learning and collaborative research. Of the 11 individuals selected for entry to the program in 1996, five were political scientists. The new Scholars and their placement institutions are:

Cathy J. Cohen, Yale University

Matthew J. Gabel, The University of Michigan

Karl S. Kronebusch, Yale University

Timothy S. Prinz, University of California at Berkeley

Charles R. Shipan, The University of Michigan

Charlotte W. Newcombe Fellowships

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation has announced the names of 34 graduate students who have received 1996 Charlotte W. Newcombe Doctoral Dissertation Fellowships for research and writing on some aspect of ethical or religious values. Among the winners was Jose M. Eisenberg, department of political science, Graduate Center of the City University of New York.

PSO Names Peltason 1996 Humphrey Award Winner

The Policy Studies Organization has named Jack W. Peltason winner of the 1996 Hubert H. Humphrey Award. The award is presented to a political scientist who is an outstanding public policy practitioner. Peltason, president emeritus of the University of California system, was recognized especially for his significant contributions to policy making and administration in the field of higher education.

Other Awards

Shlomo Avineri, Herbert Samuel Professor of Political Science, Hebrew University, has been awarded