

S. RAJARATNAM SCHOOL OF INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

A Graduate School of Nanyang Technological University

The S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS), a Graduate School of Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, is a leading research and teaching institution in strategic and international affairs and policy-oriented think-tank in the Asia-Pacific region.

The School invites applications for the positions of:

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR / ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR / PROFESSOR

in the following specializations:

1) Comparative Politics in Asia / China

Applicants will have an interest and expertise in comparative politics in Asia with a focus on China. He or she will be expected to develop and teach courses on subjects related to comparative politics in Asia in the School's Master of Science Programmes. The successful candidate should hold a Ph.D. in political science, with the dissertation or published work focusing on China. Proficiency in written and spoken Chinese is a must. The successful candidate will also have the opportunity to play a major role in building the School's China Programme, which aims to be policy-relevant besides offering cutting edge research and quality teaching.

2) International Political Economy

Applicants are expected to have a research interest in the economic aspects of regionalism in East and Southeast Asia who could join the school's Multilateralism and Regionalism and International Political Economy Programmes. He or she should also have an interest in trade, international/regional monetary affairs, as well as in regional economic integration, and be able to teach an introductory quantitative methods course in the School's Master of Science Programme.

3) Terrorism and Internal Conflict

Applicants are expected to be scholars whose research focus on the analysis of political violence, terrorism and internal conflict. The successful candidate is also expected to be able to manage a team of research analysts, provide research direction, conduct threat analysis, as well as write and vet papers on political violence, terrorism and internal conflict.

Successful applicants will teach up to two courses in the School's Master of Science Programmes. A relevant PhD and a good publication record are therefore essential requirements. For positions 1) and 2), training in quantitative methods will be an advantage.

Applicants are also expected to contribute to the School's research agenda, contribute to team research and policy-oriented projects, teach in short executive programmes, and organize conferences and seminars. Experience in policy-relevant research and publication would be useful. Additional research funding may be available through policy-oriented think tank functions of Centres and Programmes within the School.

The initial appointment will be for three years, which is renewable, subject to mutual agreement. A candidate with the appropriate qualifications and experience may be appointed at the Associate Professor or Professor level.

All applicants should submit the following:

- A detailed curriculum vitae
- 2 published articles or writing samples
- A cover letter specifying how your qualifications match the job description
- 3 reference letters

Notes for contributors

Manuscripts

The Editors welcome submission of articles for consideration. The length required for articles is normally 9–12,000 words, articles over 12,000 words will only be considered if there is a clear rationale for the extra length. These are also sent to independent referees. The Review is a refereed journal, and contributors should allow time for the process of refereeing to take place. It is the author's responsibility to provide the editors with an accurate total word count for all articles on submission.

Prospective authors should submit their manuscripts online via the website: <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/ris>. Detailed instructions for submitting your manuscript online can be found at the submission website by clicking on the Instructions and Forms link in the top right hand of the screen; and then clicking on the Online Submission Instructions for Authors icon on the following page.

An abstract of 100 words plus a short biographical note (appropriate for Notes on Contributors) should accompany the manuscript. To guarantee anonymity, authors should include a title page without their names, and remove any reference to themselves from the manuscript.

The Editors reserve the right not to accept articles not presented in the house style, details of which are given below.

References and notes

These should be amalgamated and signalled serially within each article by superscript numerals. References and notes should be at the foot of each page. References should give full biographical details, including place of publication and publisher, at first mention. Thereafter the author's surname and a short title should be used (not op. cit.). A cross-reference to the original citation, e.g. '(see n.4 above)', may also be added if the short title reference is not immediately clear. The title of an article should appear in single inverted commas; the title of a book or journal should be underlined. Main words should be 'first-letter' capitalised in article and book titles.

References and notes should be typed in the form of the following examples:

1. Lawrence Freedman, The Evolution of Nuclear Strategy (London: Macmillan, 1981), pp. 51–3.
2. Freedman, Evolution of Nuclear Strategy, p. 152.
3. Bruce Cumings, 'Japan and the Asian Periphery', in Melvyn P. Leffler and David S. Painter (eds), Origins of the Cold War (London: Routledge, 1994), pp. 226–9.
4. New York Times (13 May 1987).
5. Cumings, 'Japan', p. 216.
6. J. P. Cornford, 'The Illusion of Decision', British Journal of Political Science, 4:2 (1974), pp. 231–43.

Subheadings

Contributors are encouraged to include up to two levels of subheading in articles to provide 'signposts' for readers. They should be typed flush left with only the first word and any proper names capitalised.

General

First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the editors a current address and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs, by airmail where appropriate, within three days of receiving them.

Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to the British International Studies Association so that their interest may be safeguarded.
