Studies in American Political Development is a semi-annual periodical which publishes theoretical and empirical research on political development and institutional change in the United States. A diversity of subject matters and methodologies is invited, including comparative or international studies that illuminate the American case. Manuscripts of up to 75 pages in length, excluding footnotes, will be considered. There is a "Notes" section for shorter presentation of research perspectives and findings. Also welcomed are review essays on bibliographies of unusual interest, and comments on previously published articles.

Studies in American Political Development is indexed in Social Science Citation Index, Sociological Abstracts, and International Political Science Abstracts.

Authors should send three copies of their manuscripts (double spaced), which will not be returned. After initial screening by the editors, selected manuscripts will be reviewed anonymously. Publication decisions will be made with regard to the overall composition of each issue. Cambridge University Press provides 25 free offprints to authors of published articles.
