IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

With five issues left to publish under my editorship, I now have sufficient material, either in the form of accepted manuscripts or manuscripts in the process of review, to fill these remaining issues. Therefore, I cannot consider any new manuscripts for publication in American Antiquity.

At our 45th annual meeting in Philadelphia, the election of a new editor-elect will be announced and instructions for submitting new manuscripts to this journal will be published subsequently. If prospective contributors do not wish to wait until that time, I urge them to consider sending their manuscripts to other archaeological journals.
