Customary Law on Kilimanjaro, 1880-1980

Sally Falk Moore

Sally Falk Moore examines a hundred years in the history of an African people, the Chagga of Kilimanjaro, in order to understand how their present system of "customary" law came to be the way it is, and how the idea of custom is used today in the very midst of Tanzania's experiment with African socialism.

Development Economics on Trial

The Anthropological Case for a Prosecution

Polly Hill

Polly Hill's book calls for increased use of economic anthropology by economists. Working with information collected in West Africa and South India, Dr. Hill demonstrates how the assumptions of most development economists are unreliable and Western-biased. She goes on to illustrate the relevance and potential of economic anthropology for economists.

From Blessing to Violence

History and Ideology in the Circumcision Ritual of the Merina of Madagascar

Maurice Bloch

In this detailed description and analysis of Madagascar's Merina tribe and its centuries-old circumcision ritual, Maurice Bloch discusses the significance of his analysis for anthropological theories of ritual in general. Professor Bloch argues that in order to understand the properties of ritual, it is necessary to view it over a longer time scale than anthropologists have done previously.

Language and Colonial Power

The Appropriation of Swahili in the Former Belgian Congo 1880-1938

Johannes Fabian

Professor Fabian examines the more subtle uses of power through controls on communication, by looking at the history of Swahili as it spread from the East Coast to Central Africa and demonstrates connections between changing forms of colonial power and the development of policies toward Swahili.

The Shell Money of the Slave Trade

Jan Hogendorn and Marion Johnson

This study examines the role of cowrie-shell money in West African trade, particularly the slave trade. Colonial governments disliked cowries because of the inflation and encouraged their replacement by low-value coins. They disappeared almost totally, only to reappear during the depression of the 1930s, and have been found occasionally in the markets of remote frontier districts, where they have avoided exchange and currency control problems.

Empire on the Nile

The Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, 1898-1934

Martin Daly

This is the first comprehensive survey of the political and economic history of the Sudan from the establishment of the Anglo-Egyptian Condominium in 1898 until 1934. Illustrated with historic photographs and including an extensive bibliography of unpublished sources, Empire on the Nile should remain the standard history of this crucial period in the political and economic development of Africa's largest country.

Marrying Well

Marriage, Status and Social Change among the Educated Elite in Colonial Lagos

Kristin Mann

After contrasting two types of marriage practiced by the elite, Yoruba and Christian, and setting out their distinctive and often conflicting legal rights and duties, domestic relationships and roles, and attitudes toward polygamy and monogamy, Dr. Mann concludes that the sexes responded quite differently to marriage, because Christianity, Western education, and colonial legal and economic changes differently affected the roles and opportunities of women and men.

RULES AND PROCESSES

The Cultural Logic of Dispute in an African Context

John L. Comaroff and Simon Roberts

Rules and Processes is at once a compelling essay in social theory and a pathbreaking ethnography of dispute in an African society. On the basis of a sensitive study of the Tswana of southern Africa, John Comaroff and Simon Roberts challenge most of the orthodoxies of legal anthropology.

AFRICAN STUDIES ASSOCIATION

THE AFRICAN STUDIES ASSOCIATION was organized in 1957 as a non-profit membership corporation to bring together persons with a scholarly and professional interest in Africa, to provide useful services to the Africanist community, and to publish and distribute appropriate scholarly and informational materials. Membership is open to individuals and institutions.

AN ANNUAL MEETING in the Fall provides an occasion for panels, plenary sessions and discussion groups, exhibits and films. Participants from America, Africa and Europe gather for this Meeting which is held in different regions of the U.S. each year, in cooperation with major colleges, universities and museums, and under the program direction of a distinguished Africanist. The annual business meeting of the members of the ASA takes place at that time.

MEMBERS RECEIVE THREE REGULAR PUBLICATIONS:

AFRICAN STUDIES REVIEW: Prints review articles and essays of scholarly and bibliographical substance. Incorporates the former ASA REVIEW OF BOOKS, maintaining its critical evaluation of significant Africanist publications. Edited by R. Hunt Davis, Jr. and Melvin E. Page.

ISSUE: A JOURNAL OF OPINION: Presents provocative and timely comment on critical developments in Africa and African studies. Guest edited by distinguished scholars and professionals. Recent editions have focussed on the Second Republic of Nigeria (C.S. Whitaker) and the Reconstruction of Zimbabwe (L. Suransky and A. Mazrui).

ASA NEWS: Reports current and future activities of the Association, bibliographical and news notes, employment notices, significant correspondence and announcements of concern to the world community of Africanists.

DUES: INSTITUTIONS: $48 domestic; $55 overseas surface, $90 overseas airmail.

DUES: INDIVIDUALS: $40 regular and sustaining members earning over $20,000 per year; $30 regular and sustaining members earning less than $20,000 per year; $15 student, retired and unemployed (3 year limit); $80 airmail (for addresses outside North America). Sustaining membership is available upon request after three years of consecutive regular membership.
