British Journal of Music Education

Editors

Pamela Burnard, University of Cambridge, UK

Gary Spruce, Open University, UK

Now indexed in the Thomson Reuters Arts & Humanities Citation Index and the Social Science Citation Index, BJME aims to provide stimulating and readable accounts of current international research in music education, together with a section containing extended and useful book reviews. It strives to strengthen connections between research and practice, so enhancing professional development within the field of music education. The range of subjects covers classroom music teaching, individual instrumental and vocal teaching, music in higher education, comparative music education, teacher education, and music in the community. BJME is fully refereed and contributors include researchers and practitioners from schools, colleges and universities worldwide.

Popular Music

Co-ordinating EditorsNicola Dibben, *University of Sheffield, UK*Keith Negus, University of London, UK

Popular Music is an international multi-disciplinary journal covering all aspects of the subject - from the formation of social group identities through popular music, to the workings of the global music industry, to how particular pieces of music are put together. The journal includes all kinds of popular music, whether rap or rai, jazz or rock, from any historical era and any geographical location. Popular Music carries articles by scholars from a large variety of disciplines and theoretical perspectives. Each issue contains substantial, authoritative and influential articles, shorter topical pieces, and reviews of a wide range of books.

Instructions for Contributors

Submissions should be sent by email attachment in the first instance to the editor, Dr Charles Wilson, at <tcm@cardiff.ac.uk>, or by post to Dr Charles Wilson, twentieth-century music, Cardiff School of Music, Cardiff University, Corbett Road, Cardiff, CF10 3EB, UK. The preferred software (on PC or Macintosh platforms) is Microsoft Word; authors proposing to use different software are asked to consult with the editor, as are authors unable to set music examples themselves. Submitted files should include a cover sheet giving the author's name, postal address, telephone number, fax number (if available), and email address. To ensure anonymity during the refereeing process, the article itself should not display the name of the author. If articles are accepted for publication, authors will be asked to submit a final version both electronically and in hard copy. The publisher reserves the right to typeset any article by conventional means if the author's file proves unusable. Upon acceptance of a submission, the author will be asked to assign copyright (on certain conditions) to Cambridge University Press.

Articles should normally be between 6,000 and 9,000 words in length (main text); authors proposing longer or shorter submissions should seek the advice of the editor.

Unsolicited articles submitted by post cannot be returned unless a stamped envelope addressed to the author is also enclosed.

Submissions will be referred to two independent assessors, who may or may not be members of the Editorial Board.

Submissions are considered on the understanding that they have not been previously, and are not currently being, considered for publication elsewhere.

Authors will normally be notified within three months as to whether a submission has been accepted for publication.

Contributors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce any material for which they do not hold copyright and for ensuring that the appropriate acknowledgements are included in their typescript.

See <journals.cambridge.org/tcm> for an extended version of the instructions for contributors.
