

CORRIGENDUM

The Rise of Women Vice-Presidential Candidates in Latin America – Corrigendum

Adrián Pignataro

Email: adrian.pignataro@ucr.ac.cr

DOI: <https://doi.org/10.1017/S1743923X25100123>. Published online by Cambridge University Press: 04 July 2025

Keywords: vice presidency; women; political parties; gender quotas; representation

Pignataro (2025) contains an error in the final paragraph of the Case Selection section.

In Costa Rica, TSE resolution 4757-E8-2021 does not require that at least one vice-presidential candidate be female. Instead, the resolution clarifies that parties must nominate at least one woman and at least one man among the three positions on the presidential ticket. This allows the nomination of two male vice-presidential candidates if the presidential candidate is a woman, and two female vice-presidential candidates if the presidential candidate is a man.

The mistake does not affect the statistical results, as the 2022 Costa Rican election –held after the resolution was enacted– was excluded from the regression models.

Reference

Pignataro, Adrián. 2025. “The Rise of Women Vice-Presidential Candidates in Latin America.” Politics & Gender 1–23. <https://doi.org/10.1017/S1743923X25100123>

Cite this article: Pignataro, Adrián. 2025. “The Rise of Women Vice-Presidential Candidates in Latin America – Corrigendum.” Politics & Gender 1. <https://doi.org/10.1017/S1743923X25100275>

© The Author(s), 2025. Published by Cambridge University Press on behalf of the Women, Gender, and Politics Research Section of the American Political Science Association.