1966. 531 pages. (Methuen) Clo. 6.25 University Paperbacks 4.75

"A compressed but vivid history of a critical period is distinguished by a sardonic appreciation of character and wry understatement. . . . Excellent summary for the general reader or student." The Booklist and Subscription books Bulletin

1967. 272 pages. 7.50

"A scholarly, readable assemblage of information about what men ate and drank in England from the eleventh to the sixteenth century, together with much regarding table manners and social customs, and delightful illustrations from contemporary sources. Likely to be interesting reference reading for college classes in the history of foods." Journal of Home Economics

ENGLISH HISTORICAL DOCUMENTS, 1714-1815. Edited by D. B. Horn.

1967. 126 pages. (Methuen) 4.00

The teaching of history relies increasingly on the use of documents, and many teachers have felt the need for a convenient but wide-ranging presentation of original sources. This collection is intended to remedy the situation.

THE ORIGIN OF ENGLISH SURNAMES. By P. H. Reaney

1967. 415 pages. 8.75

"For good-sized genealogical collections and those with predominantly English clientele, also of value to etymologists and philologists." A. B. Bookman's Weekly

FROM CAMBRIDGE

1867: Disraeli, Gladstone and Revolution

MAURICE COWLING

$13.50

A detailed historical narrative explaining why Disraeli in 1867 passed a reform bill that seemed more extensive than the bill Gladstone failed to pass in 1866. The work is based on a wide range of archive material, including manuscript collections from both political sides.

This book is the first of a new series, Cambridge Studies in the History and Theory of Politics, which will include modern editions of important texts in the history of political theory and original works on the history of political thought, political history and the relationship between theory and practice. James Fitzjames Stephen's classic of Victorian conservatism, Liberty, Equality, Fraternity, which went out of print in 1914, will be published early in 1968 in an edition edited by R. J. White. The editors of the new series are Maurice Cowling, G. R. Elton, E. Kedourie, J. R. Pole and Walter Ullmann.

Newfoundland: Island into Province

ST JOHN CHADWICK

$9.50

A detailed study of constitutional development in Newfoundland from the introduction of responsible government to federation with Canada. Of interest beyond the history of a single colony, as Newfoundland is a microcosm of colonial and commonwealth history and of constitutional evolution.

The English Court in the Reign of George I

JOHN M. BEATTIE

$9.50

Dr Beattie provides concrete evidence of the size, composition, administration and finances of the household of George I, and discusses its social and political importance. His findings show that many familiar impressions of George I are misleading.

A Book of Masques

BEN JONSON and others

$12.50

Fourteen English court masques of 1600 to 1640, each specially edited with an introduction by a different scholar. There are 48 plates, many reproducing designs by Inigo Jones. The influence of the masque on the drama of the period is discussed in a final essay.

FROM CAMBRIDGE

The Journals of George Sturt, 1890-1927

Edited by E. D. Mackerness 2 volumes, $19.50 the set
George Sturt (1863-1927) of Farnham in Surrey was the author of several books including two classics: Change in the Village and The Wheelwright's Shop. He considered his journal "the best book I shall ever write."

Sturt was vitally interested in the changing order of English country life and the effect of that change on his own people. In these selections from his journals the reader can follow his formulation of beliefs and concepts about the nature of social life, of class, of the community, of tradition, all springing from his experience.

Of The Wheelwright's Shop (now available in paperback as well as cloth), The New Statesman wrote: "A delightfully urbane and informing book, full of valuable material for the social historian and a sheer pleasure to read, if only for the sake of its clear and rich polished sentences."

Romilly's Cambridge Diary, 1832-42

Edited by J. P. T. BURY
$12.50

An annotated edition of some of the diaries of the Reverend Joseph Romilly while he was Registrar of the University. He was a cultured and travelled man; his diaries give a record of Cambridge before the Royal Commission and of many aspects of nineteenth-century social and intellectual life.

A Mathematician's Apology

G. H. HARDY
Foreword by
C. P. SNOW $2.95

A reissue of a classic with a new foreword by C. P. Snow.

"I know no writing — except perhaps Henry James's introductory essays — which conveys so clearly and with such an absence of fuss the excitement of the creative artist." — Graham Greene,
The Spectator

Mark Pattison and the Idea of a University

JOHN SPARROW $5.50

Mark Pattison was Rector of Lincoln College, Oxford, from 1861 to 1864, and a rival of Jowett in the promotion of university reform. Mr Sparrow traces his career and relates his ideals to modern problems arising out of university expansion.

New views of history

SARAH DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH

By David Green

The definitive biography of one of the great ladies of English history, who played a central role in England's Augustan Age. Ancestor of Sir Winston Churchill, Sarah experienced Queen Anne's favor and disfavor, eminence and exile, in her long and eventful life. Drawing on the entire collection of Sarah's papers at Blenheim and never-before published letters and portraits of the period, David Green has written a distinguished book on a remarkable figure. "A full, new biography, bursting with information."—Publishers' Weekly $6.95

THE GLORIOUS REVOLUTION OF 1688

By Maurice Ashley

This is the first comprehensive study of the revolution since G. M. Trevelyan's work of 30 years ago. "A straightforward narrative of the last English revolution, based upon current scholarship and presenting current interpretations of this great achievement of English political history... Mr. Ashley is far more sympathetic to the Stuarts, to the complexities of politics, and to the limited accomplishments of the revolution than was Trevelyan. He is, therefore, the better history... Most highly recommended."—Library Journal $4.95

THE ESCAPE OF CHARLES II

After the Battle of Worcester

By Richard Ollard

King Charles' flight from England to France in 1651 is one of the greatest escape stories in all history. Here is the first full study of this episode, "a first class account written with a nice mixture of humour, observation and narrative skill, and—most important of all—based on meticulous and objective examination of the evidence. It really adds something not only to our knowledge of this exciting historical adventure, but to our understanding of Charles II himself."—C. V. WEDGEWOOD $4.50

ENGLISH SURNAMES

By C. M. Matthews

Ashcroft. Harriman. Lovelace. Bradley. How did these and more than 2500 other English surnames originate? Here is a thoroughly fascinating historical study of the subject, based on twenty years of research. With specially added material on surnames in America. $6.95

TWENTIETH-CENTURY BRITAIN

Second Edition

Alfred F. Havighurst

This compact yet comprehensive survey of British life starts with a chapter on the late Victorian era, to provide an understanding of England in 1900. The next nine chapters bring the reader through socialist Britain after the Second World War. The final chapter views the conservative decade that follows, up through 1961. "The only complete account from 1900 to 1961 is Twentieth-Century Britain . . . which is admirably wide and well informed." A. J. P. Taylor, England: 1914-1945. (on the first edition)

THE BRITISH IMPERIAL EXPERIENCE

Robert A. Huttenback

Here is a highly readable, scholarly, and selective analysis of the events, persons, and philosophical concepts that have altered the character of the British Empire and influenced its governing philosophy. The changing face of both the Dependent Empire and the Empire of Settlement, the scramble for Africa, and the evolution of the imperial organization from Empire to Commonwealth are examined. 225 pages. Britain and the Balance of Power in North America, 1815-1908

Kenneth Bourne. Professor Bourne describes the ways in which British naval and military experts in the nineteenth century planned the strategy of a possible war with the United States, and how these calculations affected the course of British foreign policy in North America. $9.50

*The First Rapprochement
England and the United States, 1795-1805*

Bradford Perkins. "This superlative monograph, based principally on American and British archives, is an irenic study of Anglo-American relations from the signature of Jay's Treaty in 1794 until the outbreak of the Napoleonic Wars in 1803 following the short-lived peace of Amiens." — Samuel Flaggs Bemis in The American Historical Review. $6.95

Others of the trilogy by Professor Perkins are Prologue to War: England and the United States, 1805-1812 ($7.95) and Castlereagh and Adams: England and the United States, 1812-1823 ($8.50), (awarded Bancroft Prize in American Diplomacy, 1965).

*The Working-Class Tories
Authority, Deference, and Stable Democracy*

Eric A. Nordlinger. "Nordlinger has made a welcome contribution to the little we know about the grounds on which various groups of voters choose the parties for which they vote." — James Douglas in New Society. $8.95

Britain and the Persian Gulf, 1894-1914

Briton Cooper Busch. The establishment of British control in the Persian Gulf provides the theme for this detailed analysis of British policy formation and execution. Professor Busch deals intensively with the French attempt to develop a foothold in Muscat; conflicts with the Ottoman Empire; the eastern terminus of the German sponsored railway; and relations with Russia. December $8.75

Morley and India, 1906-1910

Stanley Wolpert. From the Morley Papers, opened in 1959, Mr. Wolpert reinterprets John Morley's attitudes and policies as Secretary of State for India, and places in perspective the roles and basic incompatibility of His Majesty's Liberal Government and the Government of India. His treatment of the issues raised in this half-decade illuminates their significance for the subsequent development of India. $6.95

The Elizabethan Court of Chancery

By W. J. JONES, University of Alberta. This is a study of the Chancery as a court of law at a time when both its officials and procedures were subject to a process of definition. The book deals first with the men who staffed the court and their problems, particularly the career of Thomas Egerton. The second section is concerned with the growth of procedural rules. Finally, an attempt is made to describe the status of Chancery, and its position with respect to the other courts at the end of the Elizabethan period. $14.40

Essays in Reform, 1967

A CENTENARY TRIBUTE

Edited by BERNARD CRICK. Containing essays by J. A. G. Griffith, Richard Hoggart, Peter Self, Samuel H. Beer, Peter Laslett, Michael Zander, Bernard Crick, and Michael Posner on subjects ranging from economic reform, to law, and state subsidy of the arts, this volume commemorates the Essays on Reform of 1867. Though wider in scope, like the earlier essays it strikes a balance between the immediately practical and the purely visionary. $4.80

The Complete Letters of Lady Mary Wortley Montagu

Volume III 1752-1762

Edited by ROBERT HALSBAND, Columbia University. The third and final volume of Lady Mary's complete letters reveals this indomitable lady during the final decade of her full life, until her death in 1762 at the age of 73. She was sustained to the end of her life by her abundant vitality, energy, and wit. Of the other newly discovered correspondences in this volume the most important is that with James Stuart Mackenzie. Concluding this volume are some of the greatest triumphs of her artistry as a letter writer: her letters to her daughter and the long series to Sir James Steuart, which is printed from a newly discovered accurate transcript. 4 halftones, index to all three volumes. $13.45

Great Britain and Germany's Lost Colonies 1914-1919

By WM. ROGER LOUIS, Yale University. This book is the first thorough study of British colonial aims during the First World War. Using previously unavailable sources in England, South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand, the author discusses why the British government and public convinced themselves that the colonies shouldn't be returned to Germany, and why the German colonies were not annexed, but were administered as mandates under the League of Nations. THE JOURNAL OF BRITISH STUDIES
TRINITY COLLEGE
HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT

The Journal of British Studies, founded in 1961, is published at Trinity College under the auspices of the Conference on British Studies. It was the result of the imaginative generosity of a Trinity alumnus, Frederick E. Hasler (Hon. LL.D. 1957) who contributed funds to the College for the specific purpose of establishing a learned periodical in the field of British history. Several Trinity alumni subsequently contributed to the fund and Trinity College now supports the publication of the Journal.

The Conference on British Studies is the official organization in the United States and Canada of scholars working in the field of British history and culture; its status as such is recognized by the American Historical Association of which it is an affiliate. Its nearly eight hundred members are drawn from forty-eight states and five provinces. It convenes twice each year at New York University, its permanent headquarters.

The Conference awards a prize triennially for the best first book by an American or Canadian scholar.

The Conference sponsors a considerable publications program. It publishes the Journal of British Studies at Trinity College; the British Studies Intelligencer, a newsletter, at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas; Studies in British History and Culture, an annual series of monographs, at the University of Bridgeport, Connecticut; Archives in British History and Culture, an annual series devoted to the publication of documents, at West Virginia University, Morgantown; and Current Research in British Studies, a quadrennial survey of research in progress in the United States and Canada, the next edition of which will appear in 1968 at Southern Methodist University. The Conference has undertaken to sponsor a series of bibliographical handbooks which will be published by the Cambridge University Press.

In addition to the Conference on British Studies, there are three affiliates: the Pacific Coast Conference on British Studies, the Midwest Conference on British Studies, and the Southern Conference on British Studies. Each of these vital autonomous groups has its own officers, program, and other activities. There are also local groups centered in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Detroit, and Pittsburgh.

The Journal of British Studies appears twice in the academic year, in the autumn and in the spring. The annual subscription is $5.00. Checks for subscriptions and enquiries concerning advertising rates should be directed to the Business Manager, British Studies, Box 1315, Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, 06106.

Volume VII, No. 2 will be published in May, 1968.

CONFERENCE ON BRITISH STUDIES PRIZE

The Conference on British Studies will award its fourth triennial prize of three hundred dollars in November, 1969. The prize will be given for the best book published between January 1, 1966 and December 31, 1968, by an American or Canadian scholar. It must be the author's first book. Its subject must lie either within the field of English History or Commonwealth History. The prize will be awarded by a panel of judges consisting of:

Arthur B. Ferguson, Duke University

John S. Galbraith, University of California

Thomas Peardon, Columbia University

Enquiries and recommendations should be addressed to the Chairman, Professor Arthur B. Ferguson, Duke University, Durham, North Carolina.

The past recipients of the prize are: Philip P. Poirier, Ohio State University, 1960; C. Warren Hollister, University of California, 1963; Melvin Richter, Hunter College, 1966.
