Lessons from an Indian Day School

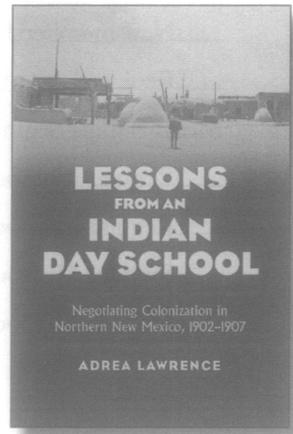

Negotiating Colonization in Northern New Mexico, 1902–1907

Adrea Lawrence

“Lawrence asks us to reassess how and with what consequences Native people encountered both the schools that were designed to destroy their cultures, and the officials who spearheaded the effort. In her hands, this is a complex tale of cross-cultural encounter that reveals a more complicated landscape than we have previously imagined.”—Clyde Ellis, author of To Change Them Forever: Indian Education at the Rainy Mountain Boarding School, 1893–1920

“A penetrating and insightful account of how two strong-willed individuals responsible for implementing federal Indian policy struggled and fought over the meaning of the colonialist enterprise and how a Pueblo community negotiated the ever-changing political and cultural threats to its existence.”—David Wallace Adams, author of Education for Extinction: American Indians and the Boarding School Experience, 1875–1928

312 pages, 17 photographs, 3 maps, Cloth $34.95

Voices from Haskell

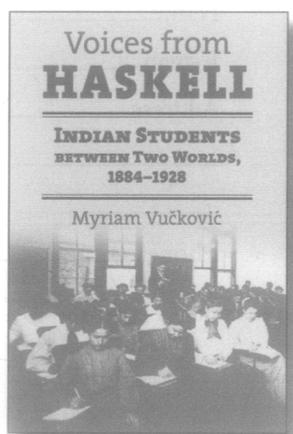

Indian Students between Two Worlds, 1884–1928

Myriam Vučković

“A nuanced and thoroughly researched story that elicits contradictory emotions. Essential reading for those interested in Indian education.”—Western Historical Quarterly

“A poignant account of native children’s boarding-school experiences.”—Journal of Interdisciplinary History

342 pages, 25 photographs, Cloth $34.95

A History of American Higher Education

SECOND EDITION

John R. Thelin

"Worthy of being the major new overview of U.S. higher education."

—Education Review

"Destined to be the standard work in this area for years to come."

—Journal of College Student Development

"A readable and concise introduction to this subject, it propels audience members to develop an appreciation for the heterogeneous . . . academe story as a whole."—Teachers College Record

$25.00 paperback

America's Public Schools

From the Common School to "No Child Left Behind"

UPDATED EDITION

William J. Reese

"A superb history of our public schools, one that is clearly and colorfully

written."—Journal of American History

"A brilliant contribution to the field."

—Paedagogica Historica

"Reese has delivered in one volume an analysis as synthetic, intelligent, and importantly, deeply engaged with the most enduring issues in popular education as we are likely to encounter for some time."—Journal of Social History

$25.00 paperback

BROWN'S BATTLEGROUND Students, Segregationists, and the Struggle for Justice in Prince Edward County, Virginia

JILL OGLINE TITUS

“Should be required reading for all those professional educators, school board members, and politicians who believe that public schools have outlived their usefulness. Titus’s gripping, masterful account of Prince Edward County’s closing its schools rather than integrating them is as timely as it is sobering. Quietly but eloquently, she makes the case that what went down in Virginia a half century ago speaks directly to our condition today.”

—John Dittmer, author of Local People
296 pages $34.95 cloth

INTEGRATING SCHOOLS IN A CHANGING SOCIETY

New Policies and Legal Options for a Multiracial Generation

EDITED BY ERICA FRANKENBERG AND ELIZABETH DEBRAY

“Frankenberg and DeBray have assembled an impressive collection featuring the work of important scholars whose perspectives capture the diversity of approaches and perceptions on school integration. This timely and insightful work is a must-read for educators, legal scholars, political analysts, activists, and researchers.”

—Jeffrey S. Brooks, author of The Dark Side of School Reform
360 pages $49.95

THE NEW ENCYCLOPEDIA OF SOUTHERN CULTURE

Volume 17: Education

EDITED BY CLARENCE L. MOHR

“The most comprehensive overview of southern education that we have. It provides a rich treatment of educational topics and themes that will define the field for further study.”

—Thomas G. Dyer, University of Georgia
400 pages $45.00 cloth / $24.95 paper

SCHOOLING THE FREED PEOPLE Teaching, Learning, and the Struggle for Black Freedom, 1861-1876

RONALD E. BUTCHART

“Rich in detail and strongly documented . . . argues persuasively for a more complex portrait of the first generation of teachers who actually taught in black schools. Butchart radically reshapes our understanding of Reconstruction educators with this pathbreaking book.”

—James D. Anderson, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
336 pages $39.95 cloth
