A History of Inner Asia

Svat Soucek

This accessible introduction to Inner Asia traces its history from the arrival of Islam, through the various dynasties to the Russian conquest. The contemporary focus rests on the seven countries that make up present-day Eurasia: Uzbekistan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, Sinkiang and Mongolia. Since the fall of the Soviet Union, renewed interest in these countries has prompted considerable debate. While a divergent literature has evolved, no comprehensive survey of the region exists.

The Modern Chinese State

David Shambaugh, Editor

The Modern Chinese State is the first book to examine systematically the evolution of the Chinese state from the late Ming Dynasty of the 17th century, through the Nationalist and Communist party states of the 20th century, and into the 21st century. Leading scholars on modern China carefully assess the internal organization of the Chinese state over time, the ruling parties that have governed it, the foreign and indigenous systems that have served as models for state-building and political development, and the array of concepts that have guided Chinese thinking about the state.

Korea's Globalization

Samuel S. Kim, Editor

This book, edited by Samuel Kim, presents the first sustained analysis of Korea's globalization and its ramifications for all aspects of the Korean state and society. Combining a broader conceptual framework with illustrative case studies, the authors critically probe the promise and performance and the myths and realities of Korea's globalization drive. More broadly, they examine how Korea, as a newly industrialized and newly democratizing country, is coping with the twin challenges of democratic consolidation from below and within and globalization from above and without.

Chinese Urban Life Under Reform

The Changing Social Contract

Wenfang Tang and William L. Parish

This book provides a rare glimpse into how the Chinese urban population is experiencing the rapid shift from a planned to a market economy. Using a dozen recent national surveys, the authors give voice to workers, civil servants, intellectuals, and women, who report their grievances and joys at home, at work, and in the public sphere. With fresh data on emerging patterns of economic inequality, labor-management relations, popular grievances, political participation, and gender inequality, the book analyzes how the shifting social contract influences ordinary people's lives and China's future direction.

Cosmology and Political Culture in Early China

Aihe Wang

This book offers a radical reinterpretation of the formative stages of Chinese culture and history, tracing the central role played by cosmology in the formation of China's early empires. By focusing on dynamic change in early cosmology, the book undermines the notion that Chinese cosmology was homogenous and unchanging. By arguing that cosmology was intrinsic to power relations, it also challenges prevailing theories of political and intellectual history.

The Ritual of Rights in Japan

Law, Society, and Health Policy

Eric A. Feldman

The Ritual of Rights in Japan rejects the traditional view that Japan is a nation where overt conflict and the assertion of rights are unacceptable. It examines both historical events and contemporary policy, particularly recent battles over AIDS policy and the definition of death—in concluding that rights-based conflict is an important part of Japanese legal, political, and social practice. This book describes a nation where rights have become weapons in battles over politics and policy, asserted by those seeking both individual remedies and social change.

The Indonesian Economy

Second Edition

Hal Hill

This book offers a balanced analysis, evaluation and explanation of Indonesia's economic performance over the past three decades of strong growth, from 1967 to 1996. Hal Hill highlights Indonesia's successes during this period—rapid industrialization, major achievements in the food crop sector and the adoption, from the mid-1980s, of outward-looking policies. In this revised edition, an extended postscript takes the story through the dramatic turnaround and political and economic crises since 1997, including the downfall of Suharto.

Marketization and Democracy

East Asian Experiences

Samantha F. Ravich

As the East Asian financial crisis continues to leave a path of economic and political destruction in its wake, people all over the world seek to know what went wrong. Many blame the illiberal markets of the countries involved, and many blame their political leadership. This book explores how strong, open, liberalized markets create a counterbalance to crony capitalism and corruption and form the basis for a foundation of political liberalization.

John Whitney Hall Book Imprint

The John Whitney Hall Book Imprint commemorates a pioneer in the field of Japanese studies and one of the most respected scholars of his generation. This endowed book fund, initiated with a generous gift from Mrs. Robin Hall on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the Center for Japanese Studies, enables the Center to publish works on Japan that preserve the vision and meticulous scholarship of a distinguished and beloved historian. The John Whitney Hall Book Imprint will be awarded to fine scholarly manuscripts in all fields of Japanese studies to help defray publishing costs. The Center particularly encourages submissions in Japanese history.

Manuscript submissions should be made to:

Bruce E. Willoughby, Executive Editor
Center for Japanese Studies, Publications
The University of Michigan
202 S. Thayer St.
Ann Arbor, MI 48104-1608

If you wish to contribute to the endowment fund in the memory of Professor John Whitney Hall, send a check made out to the University of Michigan to: Center for Japanese Studies, The University of Michigan, Suite 3063, 1080 S. University Ave., Ann Arbor, MI 48109-1106. Please specify that the check is for the John Whitney Hall Book Imprint.

The Life and Career of Hung
Ch'eng-ch'ou (1593–1665):
Public Service in a Time of Dynastic Change

by
Chen-main Wang

NOW AVAILABLE!

This book focuses upon the controversial character and activities of Hung Ch'eng-ch'ou, who first won distinction for his role in suppressing indigenous peasant armies in northwestern China. After being given command of the vital northeastern frontier military district, Hung was captured by the Manchu—and eventually joined his captors to assist them in conquering China and establishing the new Ch'ing dynasty. Although Hung has traditionally symbolized treachery and disloyalty, this book adopts a quite different focus. It brings mid-seventeenth century China to life in new ways, deepening our sense of the historical complexity of the era.

"Without sentimentalizing Hung Ch'eng-ch'ou, [the author] nonetheless forces us to see him as a quite understandable figure, one whose choice to serve the conqueror . . . was not without its principled underpinnings, and whose service was of decisive impact on the success of the Manchu conquest. In short, Hung can no longer be seen as a cardboard figure symbolizing political treachery, but must be recognized as a complex human of great capacities, striving and brilliantly succeeding in doing a job that he felt must be done."

Reading ZEN in the Rocks

THE JAPANESE DRY

François Berthier

TRANSLATED AND WITH A PHILOSOPHICAL ESSAY BY GRAHAM PARKES

“Here, at last, is a truly fine book on the Japanese ‘Zen’ garden. Perhaps it is the nature of such gardens that they are meant to resist a definitive description in prose, but Reading Zen in the Rocks comes as close as we are ever likely to get in terms of giving a satisfying account of why these magnificent forms fascinate us so.”

JAINS IN THE WORLD

Religious Values and Ideology in India

JOHN E. CORT

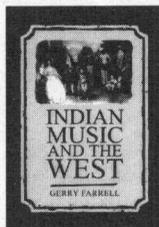

This book presents a detailed fieldwork-based study of the ancient Indian religion of Jainism. Drawing on field research in northern Gujarat and on the study of both ancient Sanskrit and Prakrit and modern vernacular Jain religious literature, John Cort provides a rounded portrait of the religion as it is practiced today.

THE TIBETAN ASSIMILATION OF BUDDHISM

Conversion, Contestation, and Memory

MATTHEW T. KAPSTEIN

In recent years, Tibetan Buddhism has attracted more attention than at any time in its history. While there are several studies of individual Tibetan texts, there has never been a scholarly work that explores the rich variety of types of Tibetan discourse. Kapstein's book fills this gap, offering the reader access to the broad domain of Tibetan religious and philosophical thought.

Imagining India

Ronald Inden

"An important book, a major work, that must be read and absorbed by those involved in scholarship, or any critical enterprise." —The Independent

In this controversial and widely praised book, Inden argues that the West's major depictions of India as the civilization of caste, villages, spiritualism, and divine kings—and as a land dominated by imagination rather than reason—have had the effect of depriving Indians of their capacity to rule their world, which has consequently been appropriated by those in the West who wish to dominate it.

Chinese Literature, Ancient and Classical

André Lévy

Translated by William H. Nienhauser, Jr.

André Lévy provides a "picture of Chinese literature of the past." He does so not in lengthy dissertations, but by blending the colors of approximately 120 vivid translations with his personal insights, and then framing these readings in innovative historical accounts.

The Nanjing Massacre in History and Historiography

Foreword by Charles Maier

The Rape of Nanjing was one of the worst atrocities committed during World War II. In December, 1937, the Japanese army captured the city of Nanjing. In all, 200,000 people were killed. This carefully researched, intelligent collection considers the post-World War II treatment in China of the Nanjing Massacre and Japan.

Passport Photos

“Passport Photos is a meditation on the modalities of the immigrant: on language as law and record of living immigrant dailiness; on place as a world one loses that gives rise to identity and belonging; on knowledge as the possession of some and not others, as what the immigrant can be but cannot have.”

Becoming Chinese

Passages to Modernity and Beyond

This volume evaluates the dual roles of war and modernity in the transformation of twentieth-century Chinese identity.

Drawing upon new archival sources, these theoretically informed, thoroughly revisionist essays focus on topics such as Western-inspired modernity, urban cosmopolitanism, consumer culture, gender relationships, interchanges between city and countryside, and the growing impact of the state on the lives of individuals.

Of Battle and Beauty

Felice Beato's Photographs of China

With a Historical Introduction by Lyman P. Van Slyke

Accompanying the British Army during its decisive foray into China in 1860, Felice Beato (1820–1907) was the first photographer to document a military campaign in progress.

In addition to providing a strikingly beautiful glimpse of nineteenth-century China, these images also reveal how photography functioned as an integral component of British imperialism by shaping perceptions about a distant country and its culture.

Harukor

An Ainu Woman's Tale

Translated by Kyoko Selden

With a Foreword by David L. Howell

In this vivid tale, Honda Katsuichi reconstructs the life of an Ainu woman living on the northern island of Japan over five hundred years ago. Harukor's story, created from surviving oral accounts of Ainu life and culture as well as extensive scholarly research, is set in the centuries before the mainland Japanese nearly destroyed the way of life depicted here.

Revolutionizing the Family

Politics, Love, and Divorce in Urban and Rural China, 1949–1968

In 1950, China's new Communist government enacted a Marriage Law to allow free choice in marriage and easier access to divorce. In this comprehensive study of the effects of that law, Neil J. Diamant draws on newly opened urban and rural archival sources to offer a detailed analysis of how the law was interpreted and implemented throughout the country.
