Security and International Law

Edited by Mary E Footer,
Julia Schmidt, Nigel D White
and Lydia Davies-Bright

Of the many challenges that society faces today, possibly none is more acute than the security of ordinary citizens when faced with a variety of natural or man-made disasters arising from climate and geological catastrophes. States continue to be faced with a range of security issues arising from contested territorial spaces, military and maritime security and security threats relating to energy, infrastructure and the delivery of essential services. The theme of the book encompasses issues of human, political, military, socio-economic, environmental and energy security and raises two main questions. To what extent can international law address the types of natural and man-made security risks and challenges that threaten our livelihood, or very existence, in the twenty-first century? Where does international law fall short in meeting the problems that arise in different situations of insecurity and how should such shortcomings be addressed?

Mary E Footer is Professor of International Economic Law, Julia Schmidt is a Lecturer in Law, Nigel D White is Professor of Public International Law and Lydia Davies-Bright is a PhD student, all at the University of Nottingham.

Indigenous Peoples and Human Rights

International and Regional Jurisprudence

Ben Saul

This book explores how general human rights standards have enabled, empowered and constrained indigenous peoples in claiming and defending their essential economic, social, cultural, civil and political interests. The book examines the jurisprudence of United Nations treaty committees and regional human rights bodies (in Africa, the Americas and Europe) that have interpreted and applied human rights standards to the special circumstances and experiences of indigenous peoples. It focuses particularly on how human rights laws since the 1960s have been drawn upon by indigenous activists and victims.

Ben Saul is Professor of International Law at the University of Sydney.

Human Rights Obligations of Non-State Armed Groups

Daragh Murray

This book is concerned with the international regulation of non-state armed groups. Specifically, it examines the possibility of subjecting armed groups to international human rights law obligations. First addressed is the means by which armed groups may be bound by international law. The attribution of international human rights law obligations to armed groups is then addressed in light of potential ratione personalis restrictions. Finally, if international human rights law is to be applied to armed groups, its application must be effective in practice. A context-dependent division of responsibility between the territorial state and the armed group is proposed.

Daragh Murray is a lecturer in the School of Law & Human Rights Centre at the University of Essex.

NEW 2ND EDITION Economic, Social and Cultural Rights in International Law

Manisuli Ssenyonjo

Since the first edition (published in 2009), there have been several important treaty developments, including the entry into force of the Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (ICESCR) on individual communications, and significant developments in the case law on economic, social and cultural (ESC) rights. The second edition addresses these developments and explores ESC rights from foundational issues to substantive rights and systems of protection. It has been fully updated to include new material and up-to-date coverage of the case law of human rights bodies and national courts on ESC rights. In addition to the rights to health, education and work covered in the first edition, the second edition analyses new developments, such as the rights to adequate food, water and sanitation, adequate housing, social security and cultural rights.

Manisuli Ssenyonjo is Professor of International Law and Human Rights at Brunel University.

The International Journal of Law in Context now features an exciting new section entitled 'Law in other contexts'. This section is dedicated to making available specially commissioned reports of socio-legal research in places where English is not the first language. In this way the journal hopes to bring attention to work which may not be easily accessible to those without knowledge of the relevant language (and culture).

Asian Journal of Comparative Law

Published on behalf Law Faculty, National University of Singapore

Editors

Andrew James Harding, NUS Faculty of Law, Singapore

Wang Jiangyu, NUS Faculty of Law, Singapore

The Asian Journal of Comparative Law (AsJCL) is an initiative of the Asian Law Institute (ASLI), an association established by thirteen leading law schools in Asia and with a rapidly expanding membership base across Asia and in other world regions. The journal provides a forum for research and discussion of the law and legal systems of Asia, and aims to encourage and ventilate new scholarship on Asian legal issues. It embraces work that is theoretical, empirical, socio-legal, doctrinal or comparative that relates to one or more Asian legal systems. In practice Asia is defined as including East, Central, South East, and South Asia, as well as articles that compare one or more Asian legal systems with non-Asian systems. The journal seeks articles which display an intimate knowledge of Asian legal systems, and thus provides a window to the way they work in practice.

The World Trade Review was established at the initiative of the Secretariat of the World Trade Organization (WTO) in close cooperation with Cambridge University Press. It is an independent journal - the Editor and all but one member of the Editorial Board are drawn from university faculties - that includes articles written from economic, legal, political and inter-disciplinary perspectives on issues of relevance to the multilateral trading system. Priority is given to papers that, along with being academically rigorous, are also accessible to government policy officials and the wider public. The journal also includes shorter articles seeking to rebut or challenge published papers.

Ecclesiastical Law Journal

Published for The Ecclesiastical Law Society

Editor

Will Adam, St Paul's Vicarager, UK

The Ecclesiastical Law Journal publishes articles on all aspects of ecclesiastical law. Particular emphasis is given to the regulation of the Church of England and worldwide Anglican Communion, but the range of coverage includes comparative studies of the laws of other faiths and of the interface between law and religion in a global perspective. Through its regular Comment section, the journal provides a critical analysis of emergent trends written by distinguished scholars and practitioners in Europe and North America. The journal also includes book reviews and summaries of recent ecclesiastical cases determined by both secular and church courts, together with a parliamentary report, a brief summary of the proceedings of national Synods, and resumés of major international conferences.

BIICL PARTNERSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

The demand for our work in a constantly changing world is growing and is limited only by our resources. We rely heavily on funding from law firms, corporations, international bodies, foundations, individuals and others. By supporting our work, donors and funders have an opportunity to make a positive and lasting difference around the world whilst raising their profile with our global network of legal practitioners, academics, in-house counsel, government officials, NGOs and students.

- BIICL Fund: Shaping our Future

This Fund provides an opportunity for members and friends to make unrestricted donations, enabling us to expand our team, refurbish our premises and promote our work to a wider audience. It also gives us the flexibility to respond more quickly to global events and to embark on projects or recruitment without waiting for funding.

- Funding for Research Fellowships

We are very grateful to the Vivmar Foundation, the Dorset Foundation and to Herbert Smith Freehills LLP for their ongoing support for Senior Research Fellowships. We are currently seeking funding for further research fellowships. Please see details on our website.

- The Bingham Appeal

The Bingham Centre for the Rule of Law was launched in 2010 and for the promotion and enhancement of the rule of law worldwide. We are aiming to raise £5million by 2020 to fund the Centre's growing network of talented research fellows and portfolio of applied research projects.

- The Arthur Watts Appeal

The Arthur Watts Senior Research Fellowship in Public International Law was founded in memory of the late Sir Arthur Watts, one of the leading international lawyers of his generation. The establishment of the Fellowship has been made possible by the generosity of numerous benefactors.

- Research Projects

Our core funders may also choose to support a specific research project in an area of interest to them. This could be any subject which has an international and comparative law or rule of law focus and can be global, regional or sector specific.

- Internship programmes

BIICL is fortunate to have the assistance of high quality interns from all over the world, and is seeking funding for a number of internships in all areas of BIICL's work.

Events and Sponsorship

BIICL runs a dynamic and topical programme of events throughout the year. Our events attract high profile speakers, many of whom are leaders in their field. Events are generally open to all BIICL members and the public. Sponsorship is available for many of our events including conferences, lectures, dinners and seminars in the UK and overseas.

When founded in 1952, the International and Comparative Law Quarterly was the only journal which offered the reader coverage of comparative law as well as public and private international law as well as European Union law. Membership of the British Institute of International and Comparative Law brings with it a subscription to the International and Comparative Law Quarterly, or it is available as a personal annual subscription from the distributor Cambridge University Press.
