LETTER TO THE EDITOR

from TIMOTHY DAY (Curator, Western Art Music)

IN HIS REVIEW of Stewart Craggs and Alan Poulton's William Alwyn—A Catalogue of his Music (TEMPO 159, p. 37), Malcolm Hayes comments that the Alwyn discography is 'surprisingly extensive, even if most of it is only accessible now in the BBC Sound Archive(s)'. He may be forgiven for imagining this to be so, as the catalogue itself does not make it clear that the BBC Sound Archives' discs and tapes can be listened to at the National Sound Archive, as well as the NSA's own recordings of BBC broadcasts listed.
