ARLIS/UK & Ireland Annual Conference 2003 University of Sussex at Brighton Thursday 3rd - Sunday 6th July 2003

Our conference this year is located in the heart of the South Downs in a Designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. Sympathetically landscaped, the University of Sussex campus has distinctive and stylish buildings, many of them (including the Library) designed by the celebrated architect Sir Basil Spence. Easily accessible from the University is the cosmopolitan town of Brighton. Often dubbed 'London by the sea' because of its vibrant atmosphere, the town also boasts some of the finest examples of Regency architecture in England.

Our conference theme touches on some of the most important issues currently facing art and design librarians: cross-sectoral and cross-agency working; collaboration and partnership with our users, our suppliers, our colleagues in other professions.

Programme highlights include:

- Tim Padfield, Curator of Photographs at the Public Record Office, on Copyright and the use of images
- Val Buchanan and Julia Gaimster, London College of Fashion, on the development of virtual learning environments
- Margaret Graham, Director of Research at the Institute for Image Data Research, on the work of IIDR
- Plus workshops, study visits, the opportunity to network with colleagues.
