PAST AND PRESENT

a journal of historical studies

“la plus grande revue d’histoire du monde anglophone”: Annales

“No historical periodical has done more than Past and Present to influence the study and teaching of history in British universities . . . It has proved extremely fertile in new interpretations, ideas and controversies . . . What makes Past and Present so invigorating is that it encourages historians to extend their horizons and ask new questions”: Times Higher Educational Supplement

Past and Present began publication in 1952. It now appears in February, May, August and November. It publishes a wide variety of scholarly and original historical articles primarily concerned with social, economic and cultural changes, and their causes and consequences, ranging in time from prehistory to the present day and world-wide in coverage. The Journal is designed to reach an audience that includes both specialists and non-specialists; to communicate the results of historical research in readable and lively form; to provide a forum for debate in which historians and scholars in allied subjects take part; to reach beyond the bounds of conventional history into nearby disciplines such as anthropology, sociology, literature and study of the visual arts and architecture; and to encourage the examination of particular problems and periods for the light they throw on wider issues of historical change.

Recent contributors to the Journal have included John Bossy, Robert Brenner, Peter Burke, David Cannadine, Samuel Clark, Stuart Clark, Linda Colley, Natalie Zemon Davis, Mark Elvin, John Hatcher, Douglas Hay, Christopher Hill, R. H. Hilton, E. J. Hobsbawm, Olwen Hufton, Martin Ingram, Mervyn James, Henry Kamen, Fergus Millar, Theodore K. Rabb, W. D. Rubinstein, W. G. Runciman, Eugene Schulkind, Joan Wallach Scott, T. C. Smout, Lawrence Stone, Enrique Tandeter, E. A. Wrigley, Eileen Yeo.

THE WORLD TODAY

For those who prefer knowledge over opinion

Written by the experts. Read by the experts.

'THE WORLD TODAY has excellent articles on subjects which are my political corner. The aim of the articles is to present facts systematically, not to express opinions.'

Denis Healey, M.P., shadow foreign secretary

'We turn automatically to THE WORLD TODAY when working on any kind of subject requiring commentary or updating...'

Charles Douglas-Home, editor of The Times

'THE WORLD TODAY is topical, to the point, a good halfway house between daily and weekly press and academic journals. I read it for useful background and insights.'

Andrew Knight, editor of The Economist

'THE WORLD TODAY taps the best available expertise on international subjects. I recommend it to anyone who wants greater depth and specialist expertise on a range of topics of current interest.'

John Tusa, BBC Newsnight

Read THE WORLD TODAY for commentaries, articles, book reviews.

THE WORLD TODAY is the monthly journal of international politics of the Royal Institute of International Affairs.

Images of Man and Death

PHILLIPE ARIÈS (translated by Janet Lloyd)

Phillipe Ariès has bequeathed us a magnificent book, as rich in ideas and learning as in the variety of its pictorial images. Conceived as an 'imaginary film', this book is a visual presentation of how individuals and society have reshaped their images of death to meet the prevailing beliefs and social realities of dying. A fascinating plunge into the sources of art, history, and, paradoxically, life, this is the first photographic book of the French school of history by one of its most distinguished founding fathers.

£19.95 until 31.3.86, thereafter, £27.50 Hardback 288pp illus. 0-674-44410-8

Medieval Households

DAVID HERLIHY

How should the medieval family be characterised? Who formed the household and what were the ties of kinship and law that bound the members together? David Herlihy explores these questions from ancient Greece to fifteenth-century Tuscany.

Reactionary Modernism

Technology, Culture, and Politics in Weimar and the Third Reich

JEFFREY HERF

Professor Herf explores how German nationalism and later National Socialism created what Joseph Goebbels called the "steel-like romanticism of the twentieth century" and documents evidence of a cultural tradition he calls "reactionary modernism" found in the writings of German engineers and the major intellectuals of the Weimar right. 288 pp. $29.95

The Rise of Market Culture

The Textile Trade and French Society, 1750-1900

WILLIAM M. REDDY

"This original work reinterprets the history of the French textile trade and, more importantly, the emergence of "market culture" in nineteenth-century France. There is no question that the book will be one of those breakthrough contributions, fundamentally altering the way historians have thought about an issue. William Reddy's distinctive trait as a social historian—the ability to turn details of technology, work organization, and wage scales into brilliant insight about social and work relationships—is evident at its best in these pages."
—Joan Scott, Brown University 352 pp. $37.50

From Peasants to Farmers

The Migration from Balestrand, Norway, to the Upper Middle West

JON GJERDE

"... an innovative and stimulating analysis of the transmission of culture across the Atlantic and of the changes in the demographic and socioeconomic behavior of immigrants in the New World. This excellent book should be required reading for anyone interested in nineteenth-century social or family history."—Maris Vinovskis, Professor of History, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Modern History

272 pp. $32.50

British Intelligence in the Second World War

Volume 3, Part 1

F.H. HINSLEY, E.E. THOMAS, C.F.G. RANSOM, R.C. KNIGHT, Eds.

This book is the only reliable account yet published of the part played by British Intelligence in World War II.

"... the fuller story is only now being provided... If it does not completely overturn the accepted history of the war, it certainly compels us to revise our judgements of many important campaigns."—Paul Kennedy in the Washington Post Book World 500pp. $39.50

The Swedish Imperial Experience, 1560-1718

MICHAEL ROBERTS

A discussion of Sweden's brief career as a great power in the seventeenth century.

"... a masterly, most readable new summary and analysis... the presentation is lucid, convincing, a tribute to the author, and a gain for the student of European history."

—American Historical Review

166 pp. Paper $12.95

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for presentation and discussion of new research into problems of change and stability that recur in human societies through time or in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance between specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Debate and review articles bring the general reader in touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions may be descriptive, analytical or theoretical. Any article not in itself comparative may be accepted if it lends itself to comment that will place it in comparative perspective. Correspondence with the editors prior to the submission of articles will help to enable them to obtain such comment or a companion study. Emphasis in comparative studies may be either on similarities or, if these are significant enough and call for some recasting of generalizations, on differences. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to the Editors, Comparative Studies in Society and History, Department of History, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109.

Two copies of each contribution, preferably accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope, should be submitted. Both text and footnotes should be clearly typed with double spacing and wide margins; footnotes should appear on separate pages at the end of the article. Illustrations may be included by arrangement with the editors.
