EUROPEAN SOCIOLOGICAL REVIEW

Editor: Karl Ulrich Mayer, Max-Planck Institute for Human Development and Education

The European Sociological Review presents the work of an emergent generation of European sociologists who have in common a commitment to empirical research and an interest in comparative studies. Covering all fields of sociology, its style of sociological analysis is distinct from that characterising specific national traditions as well as from the reigning North American paradigms.

Recent and forthcoming articles include:

Jan O. Jonsson: Class Origin, Cultural Origin and Educational Attainment

Wout Ultee, Jos Dessens and Wim Jansen: Why Does Unemployment Come in Couples?

Jens Alber: Is There a Crisis in the Welfare State?

Subscription rates for 1989 (Volume 5):
