According to Mark

PHILIP CARRINGTON

A running commentary on the oldest Gospel, and an interpretation of it within the setting of Christian worship in the Early Church. Particular attention is given to the part played by the oral tradition in the development of the text. 50s. net

Man as Churchman

NORMAN SYKES

This book prints the text of the Wiles Lectures for 1959. In them the late Dean of Winchester discusses a number of problems arising from the occasional conflict between church history and theology, such as occurred during the Reformation. 21s. net

Victor and Victim

J. S. WHALE

Dr Whale's new volume is on the Christian doctrine of the redemption. In it he states the essentials of Christian theology for people to-day with the clarity, directness and vigour that his readers have come to expect. 18s. 6d. net

English Religious Dissent

ERIK ROUTLEY

A new volume in the English Institutions series, showing the changing nature of dissent (and what was dissented against) from Wyclif and the early martyrs to the present-day non-Anglican churches. 18s. 6d. net

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

William Temple's Philosophy of Religion

O. C. Thomas

22s 6d net

This lucid and sympathetic, though sometimes usefully critical, commentary on Temple's religious philosophy gives the author the opportunity to develop some considerations relevant to the general concept of a philosophy of religion.

Studies in Josephus

R. J. H. Shutt

22s 6d net

Dr Shutt's book forms an admirable companion to the works of Josephus, of particular interest are his evaluations of Josephus as a man and as an historian, and his discussions as to how far Josephus was helped by collaborators.

The Christ of the Fourth Gospel

E. M. Sidebottom

27s 6d net

"Without doubt this book has something to say, and the manner in which it is said will command respect. . . . This is not a devotional book but it is written in a fine spirit, representing a great deal of toil on a subject of first importance" Baptist Times

Muslim Devotions

G. E. Padwick

35s net

"Miss Padwick's book represents so much that is most generous . . . and puts every ecumenical Christian in her debt. I cannot imagine that it will be superseded or that anyone will better delineate for us the facts of ordinary Muslim spiritually. . . ." Blackfriars
