

FROM THE EDITOR

B*usiness Ethics Quarterly* normally has not included comments from the editor in each issue. But for this issue, comments are in order, specifically to offer thanks to a number of people who have helped make Business Ethics Quarterly the highly respected journal that it is. First among those people is George Brenkert, who finished his term as editor-in-chief in August 2005. Under his leadership, BEQ reached out to, and gained recognition from, a growing number of scholars in an increasing number of disciplines. He was indefatigable in his work on behalf of the journal, and all BEQ readers and authors owe him many thanks. Thankfully, he will remain with the journal as a member of the editorial board.

A number of editorial board members completed their service to the journal, and we also would like to thank them for their efforts and support. These include Antonio Argandoña; Joseph Badaracco, Jr.; Rogene Buchholz; Gerald F. Cavanagh, S.J.; Robin Derry; Amitai Etzioni; Alex Michalos; Sandra Rosenthal; David Vogel; and Donna Wood.

We are pleased to announce the addition of a number of other scholars to the editorial board. These are Robert Audi, Andrew Crane, Ronald Jeurissen, Dirk Matten, Douglas May, Lori V. Ryan, Andreas Georg Scherer, Marshall Schminke, Ann E. Tenbrunsel, and James Weber.

Finally, we have made several editorial changes at the journal. Norman Bowie has taken on the associate editor position that I previously held, while Al Gini will continue his dedicated service to the journal in the other associate editor position. Patrick Murphy has stepped down from his position as area editor for marketing, and is being replaced by N. Craig Smith. I am pleased to be able to work with such a qualified and dedicated editorial team.

Gary Weaver
Editor-in-Chief