

Who gets? Who does not? Who decides?

In a world of limited resources,
society faces difficult moral choices.
The basis for these choices is the theme of this series. First delivered at Syracuse University, the lectures are now available in a series of compelling, thought-provoking volumes.
Syracuse University Press,
1600 Jamesville Avenue, Syracuse, NY 13210.

BIOETHICS

---

a new quarterly journal from Basil Blackwell

CALL FOR PAPERS

In January 1987, Basil Blackwell is launching a new journal, Bioethics, which will provide an international forum for the study of ethical issues raised by medicine and the biological sciences. The journal will be interdisciplinary and contributions are equally welcome from those working in philosophy, medicine and the health sciences, law, sociology, economics, public policy, education, and other related fields. Topics in bioethics may be approached from the vantage point of concrete ethical, legal and policy problems, or in terms of the basic ethical concepts, principles and theories used in discussions of such problems.

Information for contributors

1. Manuscripts should be submitted to:

Helga Kuhse and Peter Singer (Editors)
Bioethics
Centre for Human Bioethics
Monash University
Clayton
Victoria
Australia 3168

Contributors are recommended to send manuscripts by airmail if possible, as surface mail can take two months.

2. Manuscripts, preferably in triplicate, should be double spaced throughout and typed on one side only on white A4 or American quarto paper. Footnotes should be clearly numbered and follow the text.
3. All papers will be sent anonymously to two referees. Contributors should prepare their manuscripts so that after removal of the title page there remains no indication of the identity of the author. It is intended that decisions will be made within two months of receipt of a submitted manuscript.

J. Duncan M. Derrett/'Honour thy Father and thy Mother . . . ' A comment on Rosenthal's 'The Filial Art'

This journal provides a focus for philosophical research with a direct bearing on areas of practical concern which are capable of being illuminated by the critical analytical approach characteristic of philosophy, and by direct consideration of questions of value. These areas include law, politics, economics, science-policy, medicine and education, but are not confined to these. The journal, published under the auspices of the Society for Applied Philosophy, aims to foster and promote philosophical work which is intended to make a constructive contribution to problems in these areas and to the identification, justification and discussion of values capable of transcending narrow or local interests.

The journal is published twice a year, in March and October. These two annual issues constitute one volume. An annual index and title page is bound in with the October issue. Volume 2—1985. ISSN 0264-3758.

Subscription rates (post free): one year (one volume) £34.00 (UK), US$82.00 (Rest of the World). Individuals receiving the journal at a private address may subscribe at a 50% discount—i.e. £17.00 (UK), US$ 41.00 (Rest of the World).

The Political Forms of Modern Society

Bureaucracy, Democracy, Totalitarianism
CLAUDE LEFORT

Edited and introduced by John B. Thompson

What is bureaucracy and how does it affect those societies which claim to be socialist? What was the 'democratic intervention' and what relation does it bear to the totalitarian exercise of power? What is the role of symbolism and ideology in modern societies? Claude Lefort, one of France's leading political theorists, addresses such key questions in this selection of some of his most important writings from the last thirty years.

Marxism or Politics?

Marxist Theory and Democratic Practice
CHRISTOPHER PIERSON

Christopher Pierson explores the troublesome relationship between Marxism and democracy paying particular attention to the problems of representation and political rights. Surveying Marxist traditions from Marx onwards, he stresses the need to reconcile current theories of rights with the Marxist tradition.

The Future of Democracy

NOBERTO BOBBIO

This erudite volume reflects Bobbio's conviction that democracy is the only alternative to a social order maintained by force. He suggests that socialism might employ aspects of liberal theory to provide a viable picture of a democratic socialist future.

Teaching Philosophy

"Useful and original ideas on how and what to teach...- articles of high quality by authors of reputation.... Reviews are honest and informative."

—Bill Hay (University of Wisconsin)

"Has had considerable impact on the profession and promises more.... High quality in both content and format."

—Michael Hooker (Bennington)

"A unique and important publication.... High standards of quality and judgment."

—Terry Bynum, Metaphilosophy

"Because it provides invaluable aid to everyone involved in philosophic instruction and because its extensive review section is unique in the field, I strongly recommend this journal to every academic library supporting philosophy as part of its curriculum."

—Lou Tenzis, Serials Review

"What we know of philosophy began in teaching and what we pass on will be carried by teaching. Join me in supporting the only journal in philosophy devoted to its teaching."

CALL FOR PAPERS

The editors of Social Philosophy & Policy are pleased to announce that Volume 6, Issues 1 and 2 will be open to unsolicited manuscripts. Issue 1 will be devoted to the theme "Capitalism" and Issue 2 to "Socialism." Papers can address such themes as: the morality of capitalism (or socialism); the defensibility of either system; the morality or efficiency of a particular aspect or doctrine of either system; or they may critically examine either system. These are broad suggestions only, and paper topics ought to be more narrowly defined. The deadlines for the two issues are:

	Submission of papers	Notification to authors of acceptance or rejection	Publication date
Capitalism	June 1, 1987	January 1, 1988	Fall 1988
Socialism	January 1, 1988	July 1, 1988	Spring 1989

Papers should be double spaced with all footnotes collected at the end of the paper, and footnotes must conform to the Chicago Manual of Style. Papers exceeding 30 typewritten pages cannot be considered. Three copies should be submitted; they will not be returned unless accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Since papers will be blind-reviewed, authors should only be identified on a removable coversheet, and all references to the author should be in the third person. All papers should be accompanied by a 100-word summary, also in triplicate. Only successful papers will receive detailed referees' comments. Please send papers to:

John Ahrens, Managing Editor
Social Philosophy and Policy
Social Philosophy and Policy Center
Bowling Green State University
Bowling Green, OH 43403

Please feel free to contact the editors if you would like additional guidance.
