MACHINES AS THE MEASURE OF MEN

Science, Technology, and Ideologies of Western Dominance

Michael Adas

"Provocative and fascinating. . . . One learns things worth knowing on every page. . . . As an intellectual history of French and British assessments of Africa, China and India, the book is wonderfully informative and nuanced. It will alter the debate about the history of Europe's relationship to the rest of the world."

THE STAR RAFT

China's Encounter with Africa

Philip Snow

New in paper! "In recounting the centuries-long series of contacts between Chinese and Africans, Snow builds up with impressive detail a solid understanding of the pertinent historical, cultural, political, and economic forces at work in both areas. He imparts a feel for and awareness of Chinese perceptions of Africans, and vice-versa."

Magomero: Portrait of an African Village

Landeg White

"Beautifully written, with a novelist's feel for story-telling and a poet's sensitivity to people and place... a work of meticulous scholarship... a major work of Malawian history, the most informative account to have been published on economic and social change in any part of the country." — Journal of African History

An insider's view of African historians' principal concerns—the slave trade, Christian missions, colonialism, land alienation and nationalism—is presented through this personalized account of a Malawi village from 1859 to the present.

Beyond the Miracle of the Market

The Political Economy of Agrarian Development in Kenya

Robert H. Bates

Emphasizing the political and economic origins of institutions and their role in economic development, this book examines the political economy of Kenya from the Mau Mau rebellion of the 1950s to the tragic droughts of the 1980s. The author concentrates on rural Kenya, analyzing the role of property rights and the effects of policies of land distribution, resettlement, and pricing.

Asante in the Nineteenth Century

The Structure and Evolution of a Political Order

Ivor Wilks

"... a scholarly, original, and massive study of Asante that is unlikely to be surpassed... a major accomplishment for Wilks as well as for African studies. With the appearance of this book everything previously written pales in comparison." — American Historical Review

"With the publication of Asante in the Nineteenth Century, we possess a clearer and more detailed picture of the working of the Asante state than perhaps any other kingdom in tropical Africa." — Journal of African History

Wa and the Wala

Islam and Polity in Northwestern Ghana

Ivor Wilks

In the late seventeenth century Wala emerged as a small state in what is now northwestern Ghana. Ivor Wilks traces the history of Wala from its beginnings to the present, paying particular attention to the complex relations between the Muslim and non-Muslim elements in the population. He also examines the impact of Zabrima, Samorian, British, and French intrusions into Wala affairs.

Rural Communities Under Stress

Peasant Farmers and the State in Africa

Jonathan Barker

Drawing from case studies by anthropologists, political scientists, sociologists, and economists working in Senegal, Tanzania, Mozambique, Ghana, Kenya, and Uganda, this study examines the forces and pressures affecting peasant farming communities in sub-Saharan Africa. The author provides examples of how the communities cope with the stresses of economic exploitation, political subordination, and demographic and ecological pressures.

AFRICAN STUDIES ASSOCIATION

The AFRICAN STUDIES ASSOCIATION was organized in 1957 as a non-profit corporation to bring together persons with a scholarly and professional interest in Africa, to provide useful services to the Africanist community, and to publish and distribute scholarly materials on Africa. Membership is open to individuals and institutions.

An Annual Meeting each autumn provides an occasion for panels, plenary sessions and discussion groups, exhibits and films. Participants from North America, Africa and Europe gather for this Meeting which is held in different regions of the US in cooperation with major universities and museums, and under the program direction of a distinguished Africanist. The annual business meeting of the members of the ASA takes place at that time. ASA members register for the Annual Meeting and purchase copies of papers presented at the Meeting at discounted rates.

Members receive three regular publications:

AFRICAN STUDIES REVIEW, published three times yearly, includes review articles, essays of scholarly and bibliographical substance, and reviews of recent books in African studies. Editor: Carol B. Thompson. Book review editor: Mark DeLancey.

ISSUE: A JOURNAL OF OPINION, with two issues annually issues, presents provocative and timely comment on critical developments in Africa and African studies. Editor: Harvey Glickman.

ASA NEWS, a quarterly newsletter, reports current and future activities of the Association, bibliographical and news notes, employment notices, significant correspondence and announcements of concern to the world community of Africanists. Editor: Edna G. Bay.
