The Limits of Partnership

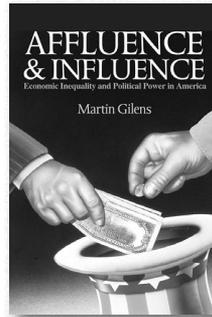

U.S.-Russian Relations in the Twenty-First Century

Angela E. Stent

"The Limits of Partnership offers a comprehensive overview of U.S.-Russian relations since the collapse of the Soviet Union. I know of no other book that explains why the post-Soviet bilateral relationship has never lived up to expectations."

Affluence and Influence

Economic Inequality and Political Power in America

Martin Gilens

"The best book in decades on political inequality. . . . Gilens's years of careful empirical research and his impressively fair and clear presentation of evidence mark a major step forward in the scientific study of political inequality in America."

Who Votes Now?

Demographics, Issues, Inequality, and Turnout in the United States

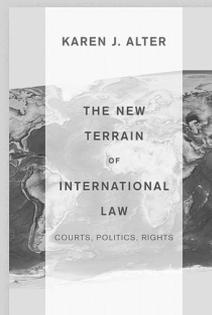

Jan E. Leighley & Jonathan Nagler

"This is the most thorough and sophisticated analysis of voting since Wolfinger and Rosenstone's definitive Who Votes?, published a quarter century ago. This becomes the new essential book for scholars and students on the demography of voters, their preferences, the context of voting laws, and choices presented by candidates."

The New Terrain of International Law

Courts, Politics, Rights

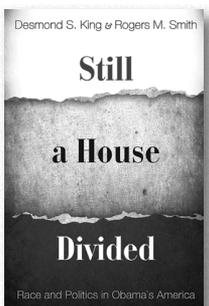

Karen J. Alter

"The New Terrain of International Law provides the most sophisticated account of how 'new style' international courts alter politics by reducing the monopoly power of governments to determine what the law requires. If you can read only one book on how international courts affect the politics of international law, this is the one to read."

Still a House Divided

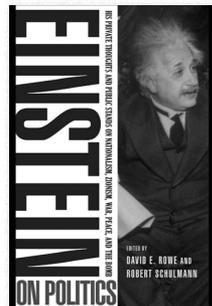

Race and Politics in Obama's America

Desmond S. King & Rogers M. Smith

"Still a House Divided deftly lays to rest the idea of postracialism in American politics and, through the concept of rival racial-policy coalitions, reveals the modern potency of the dispute between color-blind and race-conscious camps. This bold and meticulously researched book offers new and much-needed leverage on a frustratingly durable problem."

Why Can't Congress Negotiate?

New findings in the APSA Task Force Report demystify the reasons and offer realistic solutions—just in time.

Edited by:

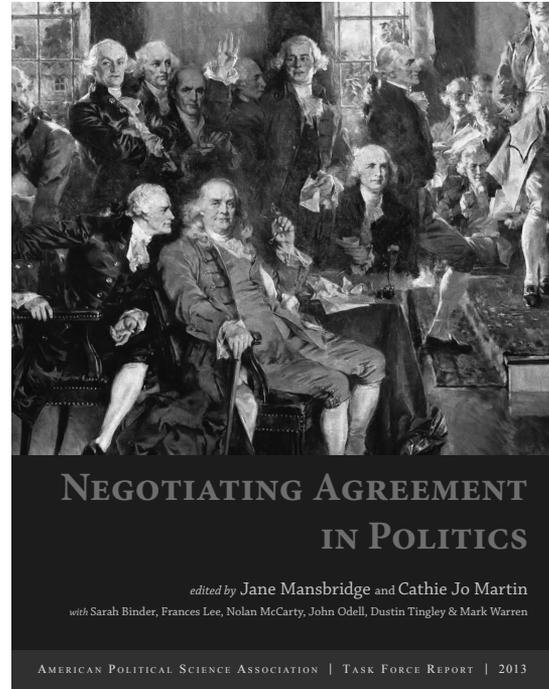

Jane Mansbridge, Harvard University,
APSA President, 2012-2013

Cathie Jo Martin, Boston University

with Sarah Binder, Frances Lee, Nolan McCarty,
John Odell, Dustin Tingley, & Mark Warren

The breakdown of political negotiation within Congress today is puzzling in several important respects. The United States used to be viewed as a land of broad consensus and pragmatic politics in which sharp ideological differences were largely absent; yet, today, politics is dominated by intense party polarization and limited agreement among representatives on policy problems and solutions. Americans pride themselves on their community spirit, civic engagement, and dynamic society, yet we are handicapped by our national political institutions, which often—but not always—stifle the popular desire for policy innovation and political reforms. The separation of powers helps to explain why Congress has a difficult time taking action, but many countries that have severe institutional hurdles to easy majoritarian rule still produce political negotiations that encompass the interests and values of broad majorities.

This report explores the problems of political negotiation in the United States, provides lessons from success stories in political negotiation, and offers practical advice for how diverse interests might overcome their narrow disagreements to negotiate win-win solutions.

DUTY

Memoirs of a Secretary at War

Robert M. Gates

From former secretary of defense Robert M. Gates—a strikingly candid, vividly written account of his experience serving Presidents George W. Bush and Barack Obama during the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. In frank and poignant vignettes, Gates conveys the human cost of war, and his admiration for those brave enough to undertake it when necessary. Duty tells a powerful and deeply personal story that allows us an unprecedented look at two administrations and the wars that have defined them.

REIGN OF ERROR

The Hoax of the Privatization Movement and the Danger to America's Public Schools

Diane Ravitch

“Diane Ravitch . . . takes the myths surrounding public education head on and provides her readers with logic and reasoning sorely missing from the current debate. Diane is a fierce warrior against the so-called reformers whose ideology exacerbates the problems of poverty and inequity. . . . [Reign of Error] provides the solutions that will change the trajectory away from so-called destructive innovation towards equitable, high quality education for all children.” —Karen GJ Lewis, president of the Chicago Teachers Union

“American educational reformers have fashioned a narrative that has become so pervasive that it has effectively silenced alternative accounts. In this courageous book Diane Ravitch persuasively challenges both the narrative's presentation and analysis of data and its underlying value system.” —Howard Gardner, Harvard Graduate School of Education

Knopf | Cloth | 416 pages | $27.95

THE BLOOD TELEGRAM

Nixon, Kissinger, and a Forgotten Genocide

Gary J. Bass

“A dark and amazing tale, an essential reminder. . . . Devastating. . . . Shocking. . . . Nixon and Kissinger spent the decades after leaving office burnishing their images as great statesmen. This book goes a long way in showing just how undeserved those reputations are.” —The New York Times Book Review

—The New York Times Book Review

“[A] gripping and well-researched book. . . . Sheds fresh light on a shameful moment in American foreign policy. . . . Admirable clarity.” —The Economist

“A profoundly disturbing account. . . . Bass has defeated the attempted coverup through laborious culling of relevant sections of the Nixon White House tapes, declassified State Department documents and interviews with former officials, American and Indian, who were involved.” —The Washington Post

Knopf | Cloth | 528 pages | $30.00

MAXIMALIST

America in the World from Truman to Obama

Stephen Sestanovich

From a writer with long and high-level experience in the U.S. government, a lively, provocative, and eminently readable reexamination of American foreign policy, capturing not only its extraordinary achievements but the diplomatic missteps, intellectual confusion, and political discord from which they usually emerge.

“One of the most important books ever written about U.S. foreign policy. It will immediately join George F. Kennan's classic American Diplomacy as essential reading for all students of America's behavior in the world. In fact, it should replace it. Sestanovich is a brilliant and insightful writer. His book couldn't be more timely.”

—Robert Kagan, author of The World America Made

Knopf | Cloth | 416 pages | $28.95

THE CONTEST OF THE CENTURY

The New Era of Competition with China— and How America Can Win

Geoff Dyer

China's rise has entered a new and critical phase where it seeks to turn its economic heft into global power and influence. In this deeply informed book, former Financial Times Beijing bureau chief Geoff Dyer makes a lucid and convincing argument that China and the U.S. are now embarking on a great power-style competition that will dominate the century. This balanced and far-seeing analysis of the emerging competition between China and America that will dominate twenty-first-century world affairs is both an inside account of Beijing's new quest for influence and an explanation of how America can come out on top.

THE IDEALIST

Jeffrey Sachs and the Quest to End Poverty

Nina Munk

“Jeffrey Sachs is a global phenomenon: no one thinks as big, makes a more passionate case for foreign aid, and works as hard to make the dream of ending global poverty a reality. This terrific book gives you a ringside seat on Sachs's tireless global quest to get donors, governments, international agencies, private firms, and poor farmers to buy into his vision of economic development. Nina Munk's portrayal goes beyond the man and his dream; it is a clear-headed depiction of the challenges the world's poorest face as they struggle to improve their lives.”
