DVOŘÁK AND HIS WORLD

EDITED BY MICHAEL BECKERMAN

Despite an enormous amount of attention from scholars and critics, Antonin Dvořák remains an elusive figure. Comprising both interpretive essays and a selection of fascinating documents, this volume addresses fundamental questions about the composer while presenting an argument for a radical reappraisal. Essays are contributed by Leon Botstein, David Beveridge, Joseph Horowitz, Jan Smaczny, and Michael Beckerman.

The book also presents Dvořák's correspondence and reminiscences as well as unpublished reviews and criticism from the Czech press. It includes a series of documents from the composer's American years, many published in English for the first time.
