

Notes on Contributors

Jonathan Harrison

Emeritus Professor of Philosophy at the University of Nottingham. He is author of books, articles and a collection of readings with an introduction and top-notes on Moral Philosophy; books on David Hume; two collections of articles on Metaphysics and the Theory of Knowledge; and two collections of philosophical fables.

Martin Warner

Senior Lecturer in Philosophy at the University of Warwick; he was founding Programme Director of its Centre for Research in Philosophy and Literature. Related publications include Philosophical Finesse: Studies in the Art of Rational Persuasion, and a number of edited volumes and articles on the relations between philosophy, rhetoric and literature.

William Grey

Reader in Philosophy, University of Queensland. His interests include the metaphysics of time and environmental philosophy. For more details see his web page <http://www.uq.edu.au/~pdw-grey/>.

Sophie Botros

Fellow in the Department of Philosophy at Birkbeck College, University of London. Her previous publications for this journal include 'Acceptance and Morality' (1983), and 'Acts, Omissions and Keeping Patients Alive in a Persistent Vegetative State' (1995).

Michael McGhee

Lectures at Liverpool University and teaches mainly ethics, aesthetics and philosophy of religion.

Ray Monk

Reader in Philosophy and Head of the Philosophy Department at the University of Southampton. His publications include the biographies Ludwig Wittgenstein: The Duty of Genius, Bertrand Russell: The Spirit of Solitude, and, with Anthony Palmer, an edited collection of articles entitled Bertrand Russell and the Origins of Analytical Philosophy.

Bryan Magee

One-time drama critic for The Listener, and on BBC Radio 3. Now Visiting Professor at King's College, London. Author of The Philosophy of Schopenhauer, Popper, and Confessions of a Philosopher.