

Information for Authors

The purpose of the Canadian Journal of Philosophy is the publication in Canada of international philosophical work of high quality, in English or French, in any field of philosophy. All submissions are given blind editorial review. As many submissions as possible are sent to external referees, with a response to authors within six months of submission. When submissions are not sent for external refereeing, CJP endeavours to respond to authors within three months.

Submissions may be sent to the Executive Secretary at cjp@uleth.ca in either Word or WordPerfect. Where submissions contain symbols or Greek letters, PDF files are preferable. Manuscripts should be double-spaced, including quotes and footnotes, in a standard (e.g., 12 point) font. CJP will not normally consider manuscripts longer than 10,000 words. Footnotes should be numbered consecutively and placed at the bottom of each page. The Journal follows The University of Chicago Manual of Style. Manuscripts should be prepared for blind review, which means they should contain no self-identifying references in either text or footnotes. An abstract of 150 to 250 words should also be included.

Authors will receive, without charge, 25 copies of their articles. Additional offprints may be ordered when the proofs are returned to the publisher.

All enquiries of an editorial nature should be directed to the Executive Secretary at the above address.

Avis aux auteurs

L'objectif du Canadian Journal of Philosophy est de publier au Canada des travaux philosophiques de grande qualité, en anglais ou en français, dans tous les domaines de la discipline. Toutes les soumissions sont évaluées à l'aveugle par le comité éditorial. La plupart des soumissions sont envoyées à des évaluateurs externes. Dans la mesure du possible, les auteurs sont avisés de la décision dans les six mois suivant la soumission. Quand les soumissions ne sont pas envoyées à des évaluateurs externes, le CJP se donne en principe trois mois pour rendre sa décision.

Les manuscrits doivent être soumis électroniquement en Word ou WordPerfect en les faisant parvenir à notre Secrétariat Administratif à l'adresse suivante: cjp@uleth.ca. Si toutefois les manuscrits contiennent des symboles ou des lettres grecques, il est alors préférable d'utiliser le format PDF. Les manuscrits doivent être rédigés à double interligne, y compris les citations et les notes, en utilisant un caractère de taille normale (soit de 12). Normalement, le CJP ne considérera pas les manuscrits excédant les 10,000 mots. Les notes doivent être numérotées de manière consécutive et se trouver au bas de chaque page. Le Journal se conforme au The University of Chicago Manual of Style. De plus, les manuscrits doivent être préparés pour être évalués à l'aveugle et ne doivent pas contenir de référence permettant l'identification de l'auteur dans le texte ou dans les notes. Veuillez aussi inclure un résumé de 150 à 250 mots.

Les auteurs recevront gratuitement 25 tirés-à-part de leur article. S'ils désirent en obtenir un plus grand nombre, ils sont priés d'en informer l'imprimeur lors du renvoi des épreuves.

Toute question de nature éditoriale doit être adressée au Secrétariat Administratif (voir ci-dessus pour l'adresse).

Belief and Agency

Canadian Journal of Philosophy
Supplementary Volume 35

Edited by David Hunter

374 pp, $39.95

ISBN 978-0-919491-35-9

ABOUT THE BOOK

Aristotle famously said that humans are rational animals and distinguished two forms or kinds of human rationality. Practical rationality strives to answer questions about how to live and about what sort of person one should be. It deals with human action and the will. Theoretical rationality strives to answer questions about the nature of our world and of our place in it. It deals with human knowledge and understanding. Philosophical work on rationality attempts to understand the similarities, differences, and relations between these forms of reasoning.

Traditionally, philosophers have placed the concept of belief at the heart of accounts of theoretical rationality but have seen it as of only secondary interest to accounts of practical rationality. Belief is relevant to action, in this view, only because one should consult one's beliefs before deciding how to act to satisfy personal desires and to form and carry out intentions.

The eleven papers which comprise this volume are all concerned in one way or another with this traditional philosophical conception of the relations between belief, as one view, and intention and action, as the other. The contributors are Jesse Steinberg, Robert Stalnaker, Eric Schwitzgebel, David Hunter, Sergio Tenenbaum, Matthew Boyle, Pamela Hieronymi, Nishi Shah, Sharon Street, Matthias Haase, and David Checkland.

ABOUT THE EDITORS

David Hunter is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Ryerson University. He completed his PhD at MIT. His research focuses on the nature of belief, with a special focus on its links with action and self-consciousness.

Truth and Values: Essays for Hans Herzberger

Canadian Journal of Philosophy
Supplementary Volume 34

Edited by Jamie Tappenden,
Achille Varzi, and William Seager

198 pp, $34.95
ISBN 978-0-919491-34-2

ABOUT THE BOOK

Hans Herzberger, now retired and emeritus professor of Philosophy at the University of Toronto, had a major influence over a generation of philosophers who knew him as a colleague or teacher. In his honour, and with appreciation for Dr. Herzberger's scholarship and personal influence, this volume is a collection of essays from a number of prominent philosophers who worked with him. Represented here are Isaac Levi, Calvin Normore, Jamie Tappenden, Alasdair Urquhart, Achille Varzi, and Steven Yablo.

This eclectic set of essays covers a large range of issues, including rational choice theory, Frege scholarship and interpretation, the nature of truth, the inexpressible and the unknowable, and fundamental ontology. Each essay is original and appears here for the first time. They are fresh, illuminating, and accessible explorations of topics of central importance in philosophy, and all dear to the heart of Hans Herzberger.

This is the only book devoted to themes drawn from the work of Hans Herzberger, and it covers a range of topics of central importance in philosophy, across value theory, metaphysics, philosophy of language, and logic.

ABOUT THE EDITORS

Jamie Tappenden is Associate Professor of Philosophy at the University of Michigan. His current research is principally concerned with historically informed philosophy of mathematics, with special attention to shared themes in Riemann's complex analysis/algebraic geometry and the mathematical foundations developed by Frege and Dedekind.

Achille Varzi is Professor of Philosophy and Chair of the Department of Philosophy at Columbia University. His main research interests are in logic and metaphysics.

William Seager is Professor of Philosophy at the University of Toronto. His work is primarily in the philosophy of mind, especially on issues raised by the problem of consciousness.

Reasons to Be Moral Revisited

Canadian Journal of Philosophy
Supplementary Volume 33

Edited by Sam Black and Evan Tiffany

6 x 9/paper/300 pages/$34.95S
ISBN 978-0-919491-33-5

ABOUT THE BOOK

H.A. Prichard argued that the "why should I be moral?" question is the central subject matter of moral theory. Prichard famously claimed to have proved that all efforts to answer that question are doomed. Many contributors to this volume of contemporary papers attempt to reconstruct Prichard's argument. They claim either explicitly or implicitly that Prichard was mistaken, and philosophy can contribute to meaningful engagement with the 'why be moral?' question. A theme to emerge from these papers is that arguments like Prichard's rely on numerous philosophical presuppositions. The volume therefore touches on a wide range of topics and treatments. Is there one kind of practical reason or multiple kinds of reasons? Are there separate facts that determine the rationality and reasonableness of persons? Does the conception of a practical reason found in classical philosophy have the resources to undercut Prichard's argument? Does it make sense to hold people morally accountable for their actions if it cannot be demonstrated that there are reasons to be moral? Does applied ethics have anything to contribute to the debate on morality's rational authority?

ABOUT THE EDITORS

Sam Black is Associate Professor of philosophy at Simon Fraser University. He has published papers in ethics, political philosophy, and the history of philosophy.

Evan Tiffany is Associate Professor of philosophy at Simon Fraser University. He has published papers in meta-ethics, moral psychology, and Kant's ethics.

THE MODULARITY OF EMOTIONS

edited by Luc Faucher
and Christine Tappolet

288 pp, 5.5 x 8.5 inches
including notes and index
ISBN 978-0-919491-32-8
$34.95 (pb)

CJP Supplementary, volume 32

ABOUT THE BOOK

Can emotions be rational or are they necessarily irrational? Are emotions universally shared states? Or are they socio-cultural constructions? Are emotions perceptions of some kind? Since the publication of Jerry Fodor's The Modularity of Mind (1983), a new question about the philosophy of emotions has emerged: Are emotions modular? A positive answer to this question would mean, minimally, that emotions are cognitive capacities that can be explained in terms of mental components that are functionally dissociable from other parts of the mind. But depending on the kind of modules that are considered, be they Chomskyan, Fodorian, Darwinian, and so on, the answer to this question might well be different. The twelve new essays in this volume address the question of whether emotions, or at least some of them, are, in some sense of the word, modules, and explore how this could potentially influence our understanding of emotional phenomena.

ABOUT THE EDITORS

Christine Tappolet is the Canada Research Chair in Ethics and Meta-ethics and an associate professor in the Department of Philosophy at the Université de Montréal. She is the author of Émotions et Valeurs (2000) and the co-author, with Ruwen Ogien, of Les Concepts de l'éthique (2008) and of several articles in meta-ethics, moral psychology and the philosophy of emotions.

Luc Faucher is an associate professor in the Department of Philosophy at the Université du Québec à Montréal. He has published many papers on emotions, racial cognition and evolutionary psychology. In 2006, he edited a volume of Philosophiques on philosophy and psychopathologies.

GLOBAL JUSTICE, GLOBAL INSTITUTIONS

CJP Supplementary Volume 31

Edited by Daniel Weinstock

ISSN 0229-7051
ISBN 978-0-919491-31-1
$44.95 CDN $44.95 US

ABOUT THE BOOK

Defining the principles of justice that ought to govern the global economic and political sphere is one of the most urgent tasks that contemporary political philosophers face. But they must also contribute to working through the institutional implications of these principles. How might principles of global justice be realized? Must the institutions that aim to implement them be transnational, or can global justice be attained within the context of the state system? Can institutions of democratic self-governance be imagined beyond the nation-state? These are just some of the questions that still face political philosophers even when issues of abstract principle have been addressed.

This volume establishes a dialogue between philosophers working at all levels of abstraction. Some of the authors are concerned with the grounds and scope of the obligations that bind the citizens and governments of rich countries to those of poorer nations. But many examine the question of how these obligations can be satisfied, both within existing institutional frameworks and beyond. Together their essays constitute a major contribution to the advancement of both the theoretical understanding and the practical requirements of global justice.

ABOUT THE EDITOR

DANIEL WEINSTOCK holds the Canada Research Chair in Ethics and Political Philosophy in the Department of Philosophy of the University of Montreal. He is also the Founding Director of the Centre de recherche en éthique de l'Université de Montréal. He has written extensively on a wide range of issues in political philosophy, including democratic theory, multiculturalism and global justice. He was awarded the Pierre-Elliott-Trudeau Prize in 2004, and the André-Laurendeau Prize in 2006.

What might we know if we knew that the mind is an adaptation? What could knowledge of history or circumstances tell us about the individuation of content or the nature/rôle of vision? What can science—evolutionary theory in particular—tell us about the metaphysics of mind?

This collection of new essays concerning the mind explores the prospects for, and limits of, appealing to facts about evolutionary history and current environment-organism interaction in explaining the nature and workings of the mental. Each paper addresses empirical data from evolutionary theory, ethology, psychology, or neuroscience, though they vary with regard to their optimism as to what such discoveries can tell us about particular issues in the philosophy of mind.

Wittgenstein at the Movies

Cinematic Investigations

Wittgenstein at the Movies is centered on in-depth explorations of two intriguing experimental films on Wittgenstein: Derek Jarman's Wittgenstein and Péter Forgács's Wittgenstein Tractatus. The featured essays look at cinematic interpretations of Wittgenstein's life and philosophy in a manner bound to provoke the lively interest of Wittgenstein scholars, film theorists, students of film aesthetics and artistic modernism, and those concerned with the world of Cambridge in the first half of the twentieth century.

Call for Papers: 'Aging and the Elderly'

Special issue of Philosophical Papers

Guest editors: Samantha Vice and Tom Martin (Rhodes University)

Our understanding and experience of aging, both of ourselves and others, is fraught with ambivalence, fear, and suspicion. Despite the ethical challenges raised by aging and the elderly, old age 'is a topic that philosophers by and large have ignored', wrote Mary Mothersill in her Presidential Address to the American Philosophical Association in 1998. This special issue of Philosophical Papers takes up Mothersill's challenge to encourage reflection on aging and the philosophical issues it raises.

Questions and topics for discussion include, but are not limited to:

- The concept of aging: What is aging? What are its distinctive features?
- How should we understand the process of aging in our attempts to lead a worthwhile life?
- Aging and the narrative self; aging in the narrative of a life.
- Aging and the virtues: can one age in better or worse ways?
- The phenomenology of aging: aging and the body; aging and the sense of self.
- What effects, if any, does aging have on autonomy and self-control? Can current theories of autonomy accommodate the process of aging?
- What, if any, is the significance of the relationship between aging and sexuality?
- Aesthetics and aging: norms of beauty and the view of the aging body; the politics and ethics of representations of the aging body.
- Is longevity valuable in itself?
- What, if any, is the significance of the relationship between aging and death?
- The meaning and challenges of retirement.
- What are our duties – of care, and otherwise – to the elderly, and how do we best meet them?
- Relations between the young and the old: inter-generational conflict, respect, and veneration.
- Political and social discrimination against the elderly.
- What are the economic, social and political challenges of an aging population, and how do we best meet them?

The deadline for receipt of submission is 30 June 2012. This special edition of Philosophical Papers, which will contain both invited and submitted papers, will appear in November of 2012.

Further enquiries can be addressed to Samantha Vice (s.vice@ru.ac.za) or Ward Jones, Editor, Philosophical Papers (w.jones@ru.ac.za).

Teaching Philosophy

AN AWARD-WINNING JOURNAL DEDICATED TO THE TEACHING OF PHILOSOPHY*

Michael Cholbi, Editor

Teaching Philosophy is a peer-reviewed journal devoted entirely to the practical and theoretical discussion of teaching and learning philosophy. Since 1975 it has published over 2,000 articles, discussions, and reviews that help philosophers master the unique challenges they face in the classroom. Subjects frequently covered include:

- * Teaching methods and the use of new instructional material
- * Experimental and interdisciplinary courses with philosophical content
- * Evaluation of teaching and assessment of learning in philosophy
- * Critical examination of pedagogical problems
- * Reviews of books, software, instructional media, and Web-based resources

Electronic access includes all issues (volume 1 to the present)

Transactions

OF THE CHARLES S. PEIRCE SOCIETY

A quarterly journal in American philosophy

EDITED BY DOUGLAS R. ANDERSON AND CORNELIS DE WAAL

Transactions has been the premier peer-reviewed journal specializing in the history of American philosophy since its founding in 1965. Although it is named for the founder of American pragmatism, American philosophers of all schools and periods, from the colonial to the recent past, are extensively discussed. The journal regularly includes essays, and every significant book published in the field is discussed in a review essay. A subscription includes membership in the Charles S. Peirce Society.
