AFRICA AND ITS EXPLORERS

Motives, Methods, and Impact
Edited by Robert I. Rotberg

*The contributors: Norman
 Robert Bennett, Roy C.
 Bridges, Robert O. Collins,
 Eric Halladay, James
 R. Hooker, Anthony Kirk-*

Greene, Caroline Oliver, and Wolfe W. Schmokel.

This new collection of essays coordinates for the first time the acts and deeds of the famous African adventurers and, in the light of modern scholarship, reassesses their individual and collective contributions, placing them in an African rather than European context. $12.95

TWO NEW TITLES IN THE IBADAN HISTORY SERIES :

Power and Diplomacy in Northern Nigeria 1804-1906

The Sokoto Caliphate and its Enemies

R. A. Adeleḡe

The rise and fall of the Sokoto Caliphate, the largest of the nineteenth-century states in West Africa, had far-reaching consequences—political, religious and cultural—for the whole of Nigeria. This study, the most comprehensive yet attempted, uses French, Hausa, Arabic and English sources to unfold and analyse the internal and external influences behind the establishment of the Caliphate in the early nineteenth century, its uneasy relations with its neighbours and its ultimate conflict with and conquest by the British colonialists.

Revolution and Power Politics in Yorubaland 1840-1893

Ibadan Expansion and the Rise of Ekitiparapp

S. A. Akintoye

In the history of most African peoples, the nineteenth century was an era of revolutions. Few were more profound in their effect than the revolution which, through a long series of wars between 1820 and 1893, transformed the face of Yorubaland; the complexities of the Yoruba political structure, demography and pattern of local loyalties are rooted in this upheaval. This book, marks the first attempt to place in the historical perspective of the Yoruba, the history of the eastern communities about which little or nothing has so far been written.

The Igbo-Igala Borderland

Religion and Social Control in Indigenous African Colonialism

By Austin J. Shelton

This ethnohistorical survey of the northern Nsukka borderland examines particularly one method of African colonial control. When, in the late 18th century, the Igala conquered the indigenous Igbo, they gained and held social control through monopoly of certain religious positions. However, despite conscious effort to maintain Igala religious lineages, these gradually became Igbonized. Dr. Shelton's description of religious activity in the borderland is clear and original. He makes extensive use of material gathered in the field.

Reaction to Colonialism

A prelude to the politics of independence in Northern Zambia 1893-1939

H S MEEBELO

The author maintains that the African independence movement can no longer be regarded as a phenomenon which arose during or after World War II, as it was essentially the end-product of political evolution which had taken place before the war.

RACE

A Journal of Race and Group Relations

The Institute of Race Relations, 36 Jermyn Street, London, S.W.1

The journal provides contributions to the study of race relations from a wide range of academic and applied disciplines. Some emphasis is placed on articles contributing to the debate on policy and structural change. As well as articles, the numbers include 'Quarterly Forum'—which carries discussion on methods, and reports on organizations, conferences, and programmes—Correspondence, Book Reviews and Books Received. One number in each volume will be devoted to a special issue: the April 1971 number will be on 'Race and Pluralism'.
