

ERRATUM

The following erratum is printed at the request of authors, who indicated that the original author lineup was incorrectly submitted to the INS.

The poster entitled "The Inter-Rater and Test-Retest Reliability of the Design Fluency and Ruff Figural Fluency Tests" (JINS, 2(1), p. 3) had the following authors listed incorrectly as T.P. Ross & B.N. Axelrod. The correct author listing is as follows: T.P. Ross, B.N. Axelrod, R.A. Hanks, R.S. Kotasek and R.D. Whitman.

The poster entitled "The Reliability and Validity of a Modified Cognitive Estimation Test" (JINS, 2(1), p. 3) was listed incorrectly as T.P. Ross. The correct author listing is T.P. Ross, R.A. Hanks, R.S. Kotasek & R.D. Whitman.

Both of the aforementioned posters were presented during Poster Session 1 (Assessment I, Language I, and Memory I) on Wednesday, February 14, 1996, 4:30 p.m.–7:00 p.m. All other printed information pertaining to these abstracts is correct.

ERRATUM

Polster, M.R. and Rapesak, S.Z. Representations in Learning New Faces: Evidence From Prosopagnosia. Journal of the International Neuropsychological Society (1996), Vol. 2, No. 3, 240–248.

The following erratum was inadvertently introduced during the publication phase of the above-referenced manuscript. In Figure 2, page 243, the lowermost MRI scan was inadvertently reversed. Shown is the corrected figure as it should have appeared. The Editor-in-Chief and Publisher regret this inadvertent mistake.

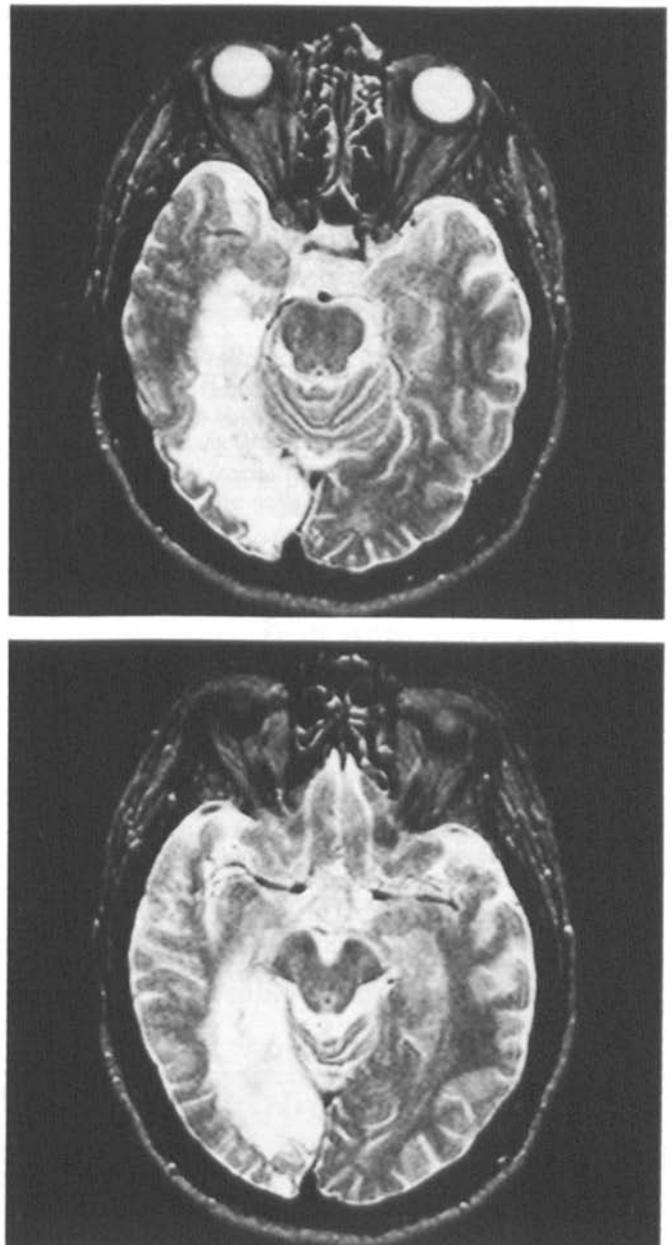

Fig. 2. MRI scans showing right mesial temporo-occipital infarction in patient R.J.