Call for Papers: Papers are invited for an anthology exploring the experience of philosophers who consider themselves to be feminists as well as participants in traditional religious faiths. Essays should explore the ways in which these three different commitments (philosophy, feminism, and faith) play out in the lives and scholarship of the authors. Religious faith and philosophical inquiry are often seen to be in tension; feminism and traditional religious faiths are widely thought to be incompatible; and commitment to the discipline of philosophy is considered by some to belie a firm commitment to feminist principles. This collection of essays will enable the contributors to reflect critically on the tensions and awards that arise from the interplay of these three vital aspects of their identities.

Two copies of completed papers (15-20 pages in length) should be sent to E. Marya Bower, Philosophy-Drawer 61, Earlham College, 801 National Road West, Richmond, IN 47374-4095, by May 1, 1998. E-mail submissions are also welcome; please send them to bowerma@earlham.edu. For further information, please contact Marya Bower (1-765-983-1438/ bowerma@earlham.edu) or Ruth Groenhout (1-616-957-6412/ rgroenho@calvin.edu).
