

New Journal

Religion and American Culture: A Journal of Interpretation

Edited by Conrad Cherry, Rowland Sherrill, Jan Shipp

Religion and American Culture explores the interplay between religion and other spheres of American culture. The journal embraces a diversity of methodological approaches and theoretical perspectives. Although concentrated on specific topics, articles illuminate larger patterns, implications, and contexts of American life. RAC is, thus, devoted to promoting the ongoing discussion of the nature, terms, and dynamics of religion in America.

RAC is published twice a year by Indiana University Press and is priced at $15 for individuals and at $30 for institutions (plus $7 for foreign surface post).

Volume 1, Number 1

will include David Brion Davis' review essay of the Encyclopedia of the American Religious Experience: Studies of Traditions and Movements; Dennis E. Owen, Kenneth D. Wald, and Samuel S. Hill on "Authoritarian or Authority-Minded? The Cognitive Commitments of Fundamentalists and the Christian Right"; William Dean on "Religion and the American Public Philosophy"; Louis Weeks on "The Incorporation of American Religion: The Case of the Presbyterians"; Jonathan Butler on "Prophecy, Gender, and Culture: Ellen Gould (Harmon) White and the Roots of Seventh-Day Adventism"; and Irena Makarushka on "Subverting Eden: Ambiguity of Evil and the American Dream in Blue Velvet."

Volume 1, Number 2

will include a forum on "The Decline of Mainline Religion in America" with essays by William R. Hutchison, Catherine L. Albanese, Max L. Stackhouse, and William McKinney; David Chidester on "Saving the Children by Killing Them: Redemptive Sacrifice in the Ideologies of Jim Jones and Ronald Reagan"; D.G. Hart on "American Learning and the Problem of Religious Studies"; David Harrington Watt on "The Private Hopes of American Evangelicals, 1925-1975"; Richard W. Cogley on "John Eliot and the Millennium"; and Mark Y. Hanley on "The New Infidelity: Northern Protestant Clergymen and the Critique of Progress, 1840-1855."

THE CHURCHILL-EISENHOWER
CORRESPONDENCE,
1953–1955

Edited by Peter G. Boyle

Within weeks after his inauguration as president in 1953, Dwight D. Eisenhower began a correspondence with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill that would continue until Churchill's retirement in April 1955. The correspondence, written personally by Churchill and Eisenhower and published here for the first time, provides fascinating insights into the relationship between the two statesmen and their countries as well as their hopes and fears about the postwar world.

Cowboys of the Americas

Richard W. Slatta

Lavishly illustrated with photographs, paintings, and movie stills, this engrossing book explores what life was actually like for the working cowboy, from the Great Plains to Hawaii and from the Yukon to Patagonia. Richard W. Slatta takes the reader along with the cowboy to roundups and trail drives, horse races, campfires, saloons, and brothels. He also discusses the harsh reality of frontier racial conflict and Indian wars, and he explains the cowboy's decline in the early twentieth century as farmers, immigrants, and technology pushed across the plains.

Introducing Radical History Review

Published for MARHO: The Radical Historians' Organization

Now published by Cambridge University Press, Radical History Review presents innovative scholarship and commentary that looks critically at the past and its historians from a non-sectarian perspective drawn from the political left. It scrutinizes conventional history and seeks to broaden and advance the discussion of crucial issues such as the role of race, class and gender in history. The journal offers original articles, review essays that examine the uses and abuses of history in the popular media, history museums and other public forums, and interviews with leading radical historians.

Each volume is illustrated with drawings, cartoons, photographs and other graphic art. Issues are often thematic and cover a wide range of geographic areas and subjects from sociology, politics, history and feminism to culture, literature, art and film. Recent themes have included: History from South Africa, The Women's Story, Film and History, Art and Ideology, and European Modernism.

Introducing Studies in American Political Development

Edited by KAREN ORREN, University of California, and STEPHEN SKOWRONEK, Yale University

Now published as a semi-annual journal by Cambridge University Press, Studies in American Political Development presents high quality scholarship covering American political change and institutional development from a historical perspective. Articles focus on government institutions and their social, economic and cultural environment.

The journal features in-depth original articles, which allow scholars to elaborate on the complex patterns of state-society relations. These longer articles also encourage an interdisciplinary approach, tying in relevant issues and related themes. Recent volumes of Studies in American Political Development have recognized the importance of comparative politics to the study of American institutions. Write to Cambridge University Press for details of forthcoming topics and further information.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

- 1 All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of American Studies, School of English and American Studies, University of Sussex, Falmer, Brighton, BN1 9QN, England.
- 2 Articles should generally contain about 5,000 words. Longer or shorter articles, or articles in two or more parts, may be accepted by arrangement with the Editors.
- 3 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, and is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
- 4 Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing (including footnotes), preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. Diagrams, maps and illustrations may be included.
- 5 Spelling may conform either to British or American usage, providing it is consistent throughout.
- 6 Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered consecutively, and may most conveniently be placed, in double spacing, at the end of the article.
- 7 For guidance on matters of style, contributors should refer either to The Chicago Manual of Style (13th edition, 1982) or to the Journal of American Studies Style Notes, copies of which may be obtained from the Editors.
- 8 Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
- 9 Notes intended for the Editors or Printer should be on a separate sheet.
- 10 First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within three days of receiving them.
- 11 Corrections should be kept to an absolute minimum. They should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorizes otherwise.
- 12 Contributors of articles and review essays receive 25 free offprints. Extra copies may be ordered according to a scale of charges.
- 13 Contributors need not be members of the British Association for American Studies. Unsolicited typescripts can only be returned to overseas contributors who send International Reply Coupons (not postage stamps).
- 14 Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.

Books for review should be sent as follows: History, Political Science and Social Studies to Dr Michael Heale, Department of History, Furness College, University of Lancaster, Bailrigg, Lancaster LA1 4YG. Literature, the Fine Arts and other books to Professor Stephen Fender, School of English and American Studies, University of Sussex, Falmer, Brighton BN1 9QN.
