The African Studies Review is edited by the Center for African Studies, University of Florida. All editorial correspondence and manuscripts should be sent to: R. Hunt Davis, Jr., Editor, African Studies Review, Center for African Studies, 470 GRI, University of Florida, Gainesville, Florida 32611, U.S.A.

Book reviews are edited by Frank A. Salamone, Associate Editor. All correspondence regarding book reviews should be addressed to Frank A. Salamone, Associate Editor, African Studies Review, Elizabeth Seton College, 1061 North Broadway, Yonkers, New York 10701, U.S.A.

All manuscripts should be submitted in triplicate. Manuscripts should be typed double-spaced (notes, excerpts, and references should also be double-spaced) and should be clear and dark. Please do not use erasable or onionskin paper. Maps, tables, charts, graphs, and other illustrations must be camera-ready. Manuscripts should conform to the recommendations of the latest edition of A Manual of Style (University of Chicago Press); a Review style sheet may be secured from the editors. Footnotes and references should appear at the end of the manuscript. Manuscripts will be submitted without the name of the author to outside readers; please include a removable cover page giving title, authorship, affiliation, and address; the article itself should carry only the title. The Review will only consider manuscripts that have not been published elsewhere and are not being considered by other journals.

NOTICE TO MEMBERS: The United States Postal System does not forward periodicals. We must receive written notification from you at least five weeks in advance of any change of mailing address. Failure to notify us of your correct mailing address will result in suspension of your membership until we receive such notification. We can make address changes only when current dues are paid. Domestic claims for non-receipt of issues must be made to the association's office within six months of the month of publication (overseas claims, one year). Copies of the Review damaged in the mail will be replaced without charge.

The African Studies Review is published four times a year (March, June, September, and December) by the African Studies Association, 255 Kinsey Hall, University of California-Los Angeles, 405 Hilgard Avenue, Los Angeles, California 90024, U.S.A. Articles in the Review represent neither the views of the African Studies Association nor those of its officers; responsibility for opinions expressed and for the accuracy of facts published rests solely with the individual authors. The publishers of the African Studies Review assume that contributors to the journal are literate in the English language, coherent in thought, and conversant with the principles of scholarship. The publisher has not copyedited this material; responsibility for copyediting is entirely the author's.

CONTRIBUTORS

THOMAS J. BASSETT is an assistant professor of geography at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana. He recently completed a major study of peasant production systems in northern Ivory Coast and has conducted research on changes in pastoral systems in the West African savannahs.

J. BARRON BOYD, JR. is associate professor and chair of the Department of Political Science at Le Moyne College, Syracuse, New York. His research interest is African international relations with a focus on Southern African politics. He has a chapter appearing in Third World Policies of Industrialized Nations (Greenwood Press, 1982).

DALVAN M. COGER is an associate professor of history at Memphis State University. A retired soldier, Coger is an African generalist. He is book review editor for the Liberian Studies Journal and currently is indexing African Affairs for Kraus Reprint.

AHMED R. DUMBUYA is senior lecturer in political science at Fourah Bay College, Freetown, Sierra Leone, on leave as Deputy Secretary General of the Mono River Union. His research interests are West African politics and integration. Dumbuya is at work on a study of political leadership in West Africa.

FRED M. HAYWARD is professor of political science at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. Recent work includes studies of political leadership, participation, symbolism, and political experimentation in Africa. Hayward is currently editing a book entitled Elections in Post-Independence Africa.

OGO A. OFUANI is a lecturer in English language and literature at the University of Benin, Nigeria. A specialist in the stylistics of East African poetry, he has published articles in Kunapipi, Research in African Literatures, and Meta: A Journal of Translation.

OYEKAN OWOMOYELA is a professor of English at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln. His research and teaching interests are in African theater, literature, and folklore. His article, "Proverbs: Exploration of an African Philosophy of Social Communication," appeared in V. 12, 1, Ba Shiru (1985).

MICHAEL J. WATTS is an associate professor of geography at the University of California, Berkeley, and Co-Director of the Berkeley-Stanford African Studies Center. Watts has worked on questions of food and famine in Nigeria (Silent Violence, University of California Press, 1983; State, Oil and Agriculture, University of California Press, 1986). He is currently engaged in a comparative study of irrigated rice production in The Gambia and northern California.
