GOD, SCEPTICISM AND MODERNITY

KAI NIELSON

“ Belief in God in our time is irrational for someone who has both a good philosophical and a good scientific education.”

Kai Nielson raises fundamental questions about the reference and meaning of the concept of God in Judea-Christian-Islamic religions. He dismisses the idea of anthropomorphic God as untenable, and considers non-anthropomorphic conceptions to be so problematic as to be incoherent. He repudates natural theology, post-modernist conceptions, Wittgensteinian fideism, Christian revisionism and many of his contemporary critics. In this provocative and challenging work, he delineates his own form of atheism, and responds to a series of searching criticisms in its defence.

Praying Together

A revision of Prayers We Have in Common (ICET 1975).

Agreed common texts for key Christian prayers, Creeds, and the elements of historic liturgies, prepared by English Language Liturgical Consultation (ELLC)—ICET's successor established in 1985—are here offered for consideration and study by those who wish to keep abreast of current thinking and scholarship in the development of liturgical language.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. Contributions and books for review should be sent to the Editor, Professor S. R. Sutherland, King's College, Strand, London, WC2R 2LS.
2. Articles submitted to the journal should in general be between 5,000 and 10,000 words long, though articles outside these limits will be acceptable if there is some good reason for their exceptional length or brevity. Articles in two or more parts may occasionally be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible. They should normally be in English.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
4. Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing, preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. The typescript should be prepared to accord as closely as possible with the typographical conventions of the journal.
5. Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered in one sequence throughout the article, and should preferably be typed in double spacing at the end of the article.
6. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
7. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within ten days of receiving them.
8. Correction should be kept to an absolute minimum. It should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorises otherwise.
9. All contributors of articles receive 50 free offprints. Reviewers will receive five or more offprints of their reviews.
10. If rejected manuscripts are to be returned, stamps or international coupons should be sent to cover postage, but it would normally be simpler just to retain a copy.
11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
