
WORDS AND PHRASES LEGALLY DEFINED

Second Edition now in course of publication

Edited by John B. Saunders, Barrister-at-Law

WORDS AND PHRASES is a unique work; in the courts of law a case may stand or fall over the precise meaning of a word or phrase, and to possess a work including definitions in the exact words used by a Judge will be of considerable help to all solicitors and barristers.

This new edition has been transformed, as can be seen from its altered title. WORDS AND PHRASES JUDICIALLY DEFINED has become WORDS AND PHRASES LEGALLY DEFINED, and its scope is enormously broadened. As well as the judicial definitions of the First Edition, the Second Edition includes a selection of both textbook and statutory definitions.

The new modernised presentation of WORDS AND PHRASES makes it easier to use and refer to. The arrangement of the new edition has been radically simplified by the re-grouping of material and the re-styling of main headings. Shorter main headings and inclusion of sub-headings make for greater clarity, and the words and phrases are now arranged logically under groups of definitions rather than under the strictly alphabetical arrangement of phrases adopted previously. The work will be kept up to date with bound Supplements issued annually.

Volume I is now available. The remaining volumes will appear one by one, at intervals of approximately three months, and publication will be completed early in 1970.

Illustrated brochure including specimen page and details of instalment terms is available on application.

HALSBURY'S STATUTES OF ENGLAND

Third Edition now in course of publication

Twenty years have passed since the last edition of HALSBURY'S STATUTES was published. In that time more than 1,100 additional public general Acts and Ecclesiastical Measures have passed through Parliament. The time has therefore come for this great work to be consolidated and re-issued in a Third Edition.

The Work, as before, comprises the entire living Statute law of England and Wales, fully annotated, from the earliest times to the present day. For this edition it has been carefully revised to meet contemporary needs. Some Titles have been dropped, superseded by others, and there are several which now fill a whole volume each. The whole appearance of the work has been brought up to date and given a new look with the help of modern typography.

When complete, the Third Edition will consist of 40 text volumes and a Consolidated Index Volume. Special arrangements will be made to keep all subscribers up to date during the transition period when both editions are running concurrently. The fully comprehensive Service includes Interim Service pages during the year, to be followed by bound annual volumes setting out the text of all new Acts appearing in that year. Annual Supplements will give information on any amendments and repeals affecting the published volumes.

Special instalment terms and a detailed prospectus are available on request.

BUTTERWORTHS, 88 Kingsway, London, W.C.2., England

COMMONWEALTH and COLONIAL LAW

Sir Kenneth Roberts-Wray

G.C.M.G., Q.C., M.A. (Oxon.) of the Middle Temple,
Barrister-at-Law ; lately Legal Adviser to the Commonwealth Relations Office and the Colonial Office.

FOREWORD BY LORD DENNING

Everyone who has dealings with the Commonwealth will find this a handbook to which he will turn continually. I know I will. FROM THE FOREWORD BY LORD DENNING

However one may attempt to analyse the Commonwealth, its history, politics, economics, geography, and other attributes, there is no doubt that identifiable legal rules apply to it and, to a large extent, define it. The answer to the question, 'What is the Commonwealth?', is basically a legal one and this emphasises the importance of this book. Written by a distinguished expert, the book is the first comprehensive statement of the general law relating to the Commonwealth and its value is enhanced by the large, complementary Appendix which contains summaries of the national law of all member countries.

1966

£8 10s net Postage 4s 6d

STEVENS

Mail orders to: North Way, Andover, Hants.

Personal purchases: 23 Chancery Lane, W.C.2.