

the same day, Ruth P. Morgan, Southern Methodist University, who was President-elect in 1981-82, assumed the office of president, succeeding Irving O. Dawson of The University of Texas at Arlington, who served during 1981-82.

Officers elected for the 1982-83 year are: President-elect, Murray C. Havens, Texas Tech University; Vice-President and Program Chair, Robert M. Stein, Rice University; and Secretary-Treasurer, Janice C. May, The University of Texas at Austin (two-year term).

Newly elected Executive Council members are: Joyotpaul Chaudhuri, New Mexico State University; Michael W. Mansfield, Baylor University; and Kenneth R. Mladenka, Texas A&M University. They join the following members, whose terms expire in 1983: David W. Brady, Rice University; Robert L. Savage, University of Arkansas; and Mary R. Mattingly, Texas A&I University.

Two awards for the best papers at the 1981 annual meeting were announced. Receiving the SWPSA award was Roy E. Miller, Southern Illinois University, for his paper, "Literature Drops in County Level Political Campaigns: What Do They Accomplish?" The Pi Sigma Alpha award went to John R. Todd and John P. Bradley, both of North Texas State University, for their paper, "The Apprenticeship Norm in the United States Senate: A Longitudinal and Multivariate Analysis."

In addition, three undergraduate students were honored with $100 prizes for their papers: Kimberley Dello Russo, Southern Methodist University, whose paper, "The Fairness Doctrine: Is It Fair?" was nominated by Professor Philip Seib; Steven Heath of Loyola University for his paper, "United States Trade Policy Toward the Communist World: 1948-1981," nominated by Professor Conrad Raabe; and Van Wigginton of Lamar University for his paper, "Government Unemployment Programs in Western Europe," nominated by Professor Manfred Stevens. □

Calls for Papers

New York Group Seeks Paper Proposals

The 1983 Annual Meeting of the New York State Political Science Association will be held April 8-9, 1983 in New York City. Proposals for papers, panels, special meetings, or other activities should be directed to the Program Chair or to individual section convenors. Proposals or offers to serve as discussants are welcomed until December 15, 1982.

Program Chair: Jeffrey Ross, Department of Government, Hamilton College, Clinton, N.Y. 13323.

Public Policy: Regina Axelrod, Department of Political Science, Adelphi University, Garden City, N.Y. 11530.

Political Theory: Sondra Farganis, Department of Sociology, Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. 12601.

Judicial Process: Charles Lamb, Department of Political Science, SUNY/Buffalo, Buffalo, N.Y. 14226.

Teaching and Learning Political Science: Daniel Kramer, Department of Politics, Economics, and Philosophy, College of Staten Island, St. George Campus, 130 Stuyvesant Place, Staten Island, N.Y. 10301.

American Politics: John White, Department of Political Science, SUNY/Potsdam, Potsdam, N.Y. 13676.

International Relations: Basil Wilson, African-American Studies, John Jay College of Criminal Justice, 455 West 59th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Public Administration: Walter Balk, Graduate School of Public Affairs, SUNY Albany, 1400 Washington Avenue, Albany, N.Y. 12222.

State and Local Government and Politics: Joe Dean, 209 Forrester Village, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Comparative Politics: Marilyn Baissa, Department of Political Science, Utica College, Burrstone Road, Utica, N.Y. 13502.

News of the Profession

Several special topics panels are being considered and colleagues are invited to contact the appropriate section convenor:

Political Theory: Panels are being considered on contemporary developments in American political thought; political journals (e.g., Democracy, Telos, Commentary, Public Interest) and their ideologies; norms and values of reproductive technology; computer technology—implications for democratic theory; Huck Finn—a reappraisal of First Amendment freedom.

American Politics: Panels on (1) Perspectives on the Reagan Administration; (2) The 1982 Elections in New York State.

State and Local Government and Politics: Panels on (1) Reagan's Plan to Give States More Control: Federalism or Feudalism?; (2) Is the Reagan Urban Program of "Free Enterprise Zones" Dead-in-the-Water?

New York-Canada Study Group. The association is establishing a New York-Canada Study Group to be chaired by Martin Lubin of SUNY Plattsburgh. The Group is still in the early stages of formation but is tentatively planning panels at the 1983 meetings, a special issue of the Quarterly Journal of New York State Politics, and the like. Professor Lubin is currently on sabbatical, but colleagues interested in the work of the Group or in serving on panels sponsored by the Group are asked to contact Professor Henry Steck, Department of Political Science, SUNY Cortland, Cortland, N.Y. 13045. □

Health and Human Resources Plans Symposium on Displaced Workers

The Journal of Health and Human Resources Administration is seeking manuscripts for a special symposium entitled "Reemploying, Retraining and Relocating Displaced Workers."

To contribute a manuscript or request more information, interested persons should contact: Terry F. Buss, Director, Center for Urban Studies, Youngstown

State University, Youngstown, Ohio 44555. □

Abstracts Invited on Comparative Civilizations

The 12th Annual Meeting of the International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations (ISCSC) will be held May 26-28, 1983 at the SUNY State University College at Buffalo, New York. Local arrangements: Dean Vern L. Bulough, Buffalo, New York 14222.

1. Intercivilizational encounters and processes of modernization.
  2. Science and technology in intercivilizational perspective.
  3. Civilizational responses to challenges of the environment.
  4. Western 19th century ideologies (such as communism, liberalism) and their transformation in non-Western civilizations.
  5. Literature and art as civilizational keys.
  6. Schooling and the transmission of civilizational values.
  7. Civilizational codes and the preservation of the past.
  8. The life cycle—civilizational definitions of youth and aging.
  9. Natural hazards and the perception of risk.
  10. Dispute settlement—mechanisms for the resolution of conflict.
  11. Rituals of rebellion—acts of rebellion as system preserving violence.
  12. Religion and the state in civilizational perspective.
  13. Intercivilizational migration and population exchanges.
  14. The state and the growth of civilizations.
- Send five copies of the abstract by November 15, 1982 to: Professor Burkart Holzner, Chairman, ISCSC 1983 Program Committee, Center for International Studies, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15260. □

Urban Affairs Association Focuses on "Changing Frontiers"

The 1983 Annual Meeting of the Urban Affairs Association will have as its theme: Changing Frontiers in the Urban World. The meeting will be held in Flint, Michigan, March 23-26, and they invite one-page abstracts on: political/policy development, economic changes, social/demographic trends, role of technology, historical perspectives, and international/comparative aspects. Abstracts on other topics are also welcome.

Please send submissions before October 30 to: Dr. Frank Costa, Director, Center for Urban Studies, University of Akron, Akron, Ohio 44325. □

"New Technologies" Focus of Call for Papers

The Cornell Journal of Social Relations, an interdisciplinary publication, invites submission of articles on topics related to the new technologies, e.g., bio-technology, computer assisted design and machining, automation-robotics, re-industrialization policy, communications, etc. The editors welcome empirical, methodological, and theoretical papers, as well as literature reviews. Manuscripts should be submitted to, and style sheets may be requested from: Manuscript Editor, Cornell Journal of Social Relations, Department of Sociology, Uris Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York 14853. □

Women's Caucus to Set Panels for 1983 APSA Convention

The Women's Caucus is planning to convene several panels and roundtable sessions at the 1983 APSA Convention. If you are interested in participating in one of these panels please contact the relevant panel chairperson or Marian Lief Palley, President-Elect, Women's Caucus, Political Science Department,

University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

Panels

1. The Social Implications of Reagan's Economic Policies as they Affect Women. Joyce Gelb, Political Science Department, City College of New York, 135th Street & Amsterdam Avenue, New York, NY 10031.
2. The Burger Court, Women and Minorities (co-sponsored by the APSA Program Committee Section on "The Politics of Race, Gender and Ethnicity"). Leslie Goldstein, Political Science Department, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19711.
3. Has Women's Liberation Changed Traditional Political Socialization Patterns? Sara Silbiger, 90 Riverside Drive, New York, NY 10024.
4. The Women's Movement in Comparative Perspectives (co-sponsored by the APSA Program Committee Section on "The Politics of Race, Gender and Ethnicity"). Barbara Farah, Center for Political Studies, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI 48109.
5. Sex as a Variable in the 1982 Elections. Nancy Zingale. Political Science Department, College of St. Thomas, St. Paul, MN 55105.

Roundtables

1. Publication Opportunities. Susan Tolchin, Department of Public Administration, George Washington University, Washington, DC 20052.
2. Women in Academic Administration. Betty Nesvold, College of Arts and Letters, San Diego State University, San Diego, CA 92182. □

Fall Symposium on the Human Sciences Invites Papers

The University of Iowa announces a call for papers to be presented at its Symposium in the Humanities on the topic of "The Rhetoric of the Human Sciences," to be held in the fall of 1983. Although scholarship is conducted through argument, and argument is constructed through rhetoric, scholars seldom reflect on the repercussions of their rhetoric. Hence proposals are invited for papers on one or more of six issues. (1) What are the rhetorical roots and procedures of scholarship in the humanities and social sciences? (2) What do these rhetorical dimensions imply for the methods, media, aims, audiences, boundaries, results, and uses of inquiries conducted within and across academic disciplines? (3) What impact have rhetorical agreements and disagreements had on particular debates and projects within the humanities and social sciences? (4) What examples and phenomena evidence the rhetorical status of scholarship in the humanities and social sciences? (5) How do theories of rhetoric in speech and literature illuminate other disciplines? (6) What does rhetoric imply for relations of the humanities to the social sciences? No later than February 15, 1983, please direct inquiries or proposals to: John S. Nelson, Department of Political Science, University of Iowa, Iowa City, IA 52242. □

Participants Invited for Indiana Annual Meeting

The Indiana Political Science Association is inviting proposals for papers and panels for its Eighth Annual Meeting at Indiana State University in Terre Haute on April 8, 1983. Send proposals, before March 4, 1983, to William H. Harader, Director, Center for Governmental Services, Indiana State University, Terre Haute, Indiana 47809. □

Political Psychologists to Devote Attention to "People, Politics and War"

The International Society for Political Psychologists has issued a paper call for its sixth annual scientific meeting, to be held July 19-22, 1983, in Oxford, England. The meeting will have a dual focus: one series of sessions will be devoted to the issue of "people, politics and war" while a second series will be devoted to topics which more traditionally fit work in political psychology. The society is interdisciplinary and international in nature, and welcomes all paper proposals. Proposals—and completed papers—should be sent by December 31 to: Professor Betty Glad, Program Chair, ISPP, Department of Political Science, 702 S. Wright Street, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, Urbana, Illinois 61801-3696. □

Management Journal Requests Submissions

The California Management Review, the professional journal of the Graduate Schools of Management of the University of California, encourages the submission of manuscripts from political scientists in the general area of business and government relations, both domestic and international. Submissions may include scholarly research, review essays and perspectives on current domestic and international issues involving business. California Management Review's audience consists primarily of Business School faculty in both the United States and abroad. CMR has been in existence since 1958 and has a current circulation of approximately 3,000 subscribers.

All material should be submitted in triplicate and include a one-paragraph abstract. Individuals seeking advice about the appropriateness of their work for this journal are encouraged to contact the editor: David Vogel, California Management Review, School of Business, University of California, Berkeley, California 94720. □

Symposium Planned on the Presidency and Public Policy

Perhaps the most important and least understood policymaking institution in the U.S. is the presidency. To help fill this gap the Policy Studies Journal is planning a symposium on "The Presidency and Public Policy." Publication is tentatively scheduled for the spring of 1984, and a book in the Policy Studies Organization's Lexington series is expected to follow.

We encourage the submission of analytical treatments of the presidency and public policy. Our conception of the area is a broad one and includes work on the president's handling of substantive policy areas, research focusing on policy-making, including agenda-setting, advising, analysis of options, decisionmaking, and implementation, and essays focused on approaches to the topic of the presidency and public policy.

Papers ordinarily should be no longer than 20 double-spaced typed manuscript pages, including footnotes and references. The articles that appear in the symposium issue may be expanded for the Lexington book and additional articles may be added for that collection.

Prospective contributors should send each of the editors a letter indicating their interest in submitting an article, and they should enclose a one-page summary of their research, indicating its substantive focus, methodology (if appropriate), and anticipated findings. We have established April 1, 1983 as the cutoff date for accepting such proposals.

Editors are: George C. Edwards III, Department of Political Science, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX 77843; Steven A. Shull, Department of Political Science, University of New Orleans, New Orleans, LA 70148; and Normal C. Thomas, Department of Political Science, University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, OH 45231. □

Journal Welcomes Manuscripts, Reviewers

Politics and the Life Sciences welcomes the submission of articles, review essays, and research notes. The journal would also like to receive the names of individuals interested in reviewing manuscripts and books.

The editors are interested in manuscripts from all subfields of the discipline of political science but especially the following: (1) policy-related works on medical technologies, human ecology, health and environment, aging, food and population policy, and reproductive technologies; (2) papers on the influence of biological factors such as psychophysiology, drugs, gender, and age on political behavior; (3) papers on the relationship of ethology and sociobiology to the concerns of traditional political science and ethics; and (4) works on the relationship of biopolitics to other perspectives in political science and other social science disciplines, for example, phenomenology, critical theory, ethnomethodology, general systems theory, and decision making. Data-based empirical studies are especially welcome.

Address all correspondence concerning book reviews to Dr. Carol Barner-Barry, Book Review Editor, Politics and the Life Sciences, Department of Political Science, University of Maryland-Baltimore County, Catonsville, Maryland 21228, and all other correspondence to Thomas C. Wiegele, Editor, Politics and the Life Sciences, Association for Politics and the Life Sciences, Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, Illinois 60115. □

"Benefits and Burdens for Women" Is the Theme of Special Symposium

We are co-editing a special symposium issue of the journal Women and Politics. The theme of this issue will be "Criminal Justice Politics: Benefits and Burdens for Women of Legally Mandated Change." We seek to examine practical ramifications and policy implications for women of legislated or court ordered changes in a variety of current or historical criminal justice areas. Papers may deal with: (1) the impact of new or revised legislation such as that dealing with sentencing, battering, rape, narcotics; (2) the effect of lawsuits concerning employment discrimination, equal opportunities for women prisoners, the differential application of seemingly gender-neutral laws; (3) a combination of the above.

Manuscripts should discuss specific legislation or judicial decisions and analyze how the enforcement, or lack thereof, has affected women. For example, in the legislative area, the Mann Act was passed to protect women from being lured into white slavery by men. As a consequence, who was arrested and punished? In the judicial area, state laws mandating sex based differential sentencing have been declared unconstitutional. As a consequence how has the sentencing of women been affected?

This issue will also be published as a hard cover, supplemental text.

Send four copies of each submission to: Professor Claudine Schweber, Criminal Justice Program, Buffalo State University College, 1300 Elmwood Avenue, Buffalo, New York 14222; or Professor Clarice Feinman, Department of Criminal Justice, Trenton State College, Trenton, New Jersey 08625.

Articles should be a maximum of 20 double-spaced pages, including footnotes. Each article will be anonymously reviewed by two readers, therefore only the title of the article should appear on the first page of the manuscript. An attached cover page must contain the title, authorship, credentials; a 100-word abstract should accompany the manuscript. University of Chicago Manual of Style format must be used. Manuscripts can be returned only if a self-addressed stamped envelope is included.

Deadline for submission of manuscripts: February 1, 1983. Notification of decision: May 1, 1983. □

Librarian Journal Requests Articles on Current Topics

The Behavioral and Social Sciences Librarian is interested in receiving articles on publishing trends in the social sciences, analytic reviews of journals or reference works within particular sub-disciplines, and notes on types of resource materials often neglected by libraries. Examples in this latter category might include: legislative handbooks and political directories, codebooks, games, film strips and video tapes. Prospective authors with substantive proposals are urged to contact the editor: Peter B. Allison, Head, Social Science/Documents Center, Elmer Holmes Bobst Library, New York University, 70 Washington Square South, New York, New York 10012. □

Social Relations Journal Invites Submissions

The Cornell Journal of Social Relations, an interdisciplinary publication, invites submission of articles on topics related to general social science interest. The editors welcome empirical, methodological, and theoretical papers, as well as literature reviews. Manuscripts should be submitted to, and style sheets may be requested from: Manuscript Editor, Cornell Journal of Social Relations, Department of Sociology, Uris Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York 14853. □

Conference on Third World Solicits Participation

The Association for the Advancement of Policy, Research and Development in the Third World is soliciting paper abstracts, panel proposals, roundtable and plenary session presentations for possible inclusion in a 3½-day semi-annual conference to be held in Washington, D.C. from June 2 through 4, 1983.

Topics and sessions include:

- Foreign Scholars and the Retention, Promotion and Tenure Crises
- The Middle East and Africa
- International Scholars and Scholarship: People, Power and Politics
- Foundations and the Funding of International Research for Development
- Careers in International Affairs
- Uses of International Data in Domestic Policies
- Budget Cutting and Cutback Effects on International Education
- The U.S.-Soviet Presence in the Third World
- The Defense Build-up and the International Economy
- Immigration Laws and the Mobility of Scholars
- Attitudes Toward Foreign Scholars at American and European Institutions
- Africa and the Caribbean
- The Brain Drain Revisited
- Scholarly Freedom and Responsibility
- Foreign Students and the Future of Higher Education

- Area Programs at American and European Colleges and Universities
- Africa and the Black Diaspora Reconsidered
- International Strategic Studies and Arms Control
- International Labor Policies and Unemployment
- New Monopoly: Causes and Implications of Political Misinformation
- The U.S.-South African Connection
- How Will Technical Assistance Survive?
- The Future of the United Nations
- Comparative Performance of the OAS and the OAU
- Comparative Politics, Personalities and Power
- Relations Among Industrializing and Developing Countries
- Europe and the Third World
- China and the Third World
- Asia and the Third World
- The Third World Revisited

Deadline for proposals: April 15, 1983.
 Deadline for conference papers: May 15, 1983.

Contact: Mekki Mtewa, Ph.D., Association for the Advancement of Policy, Research and Development in the Third World, P.O. Box 24234, Washington, D.C. 20024; (202) 636-6720/21. □

Manuscripts Requested on Women in Education

Women Educators announces the Sixth Annual "Research on Women in Education" Award, to be presented at the American Educational Research Association meeting in Montreal, April 11-15, 1983. Published or unpublished research reports in journal article format on any aspect of women in education are eligible if conducted or written up during 1981-82. The deadline for entries is December 1, 1982. Send five (5) copies of the entry (on four of which the author is not identified) and five (5) copies of a 200-250 word abstract of the entry to: Kathryn Scott, Research Award Chair, 115 Education, Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida 32306; (904) 644-5458. □

Announcements

Public Administration Features Government Service and Action

Charles H. Levine
 University of Kansas

At a time when the public service and government intervention in social and economic affairs are under attack, the American Society for Public Administration has chosen to take its name literally in selecting a theme for its 1983 Annual Meeting. By adapting "Pride, Performance, and Professionalism" as the meeting's theme, the conference committee expects that major speakers, panelists, and paper presenters will focus on the positive contributions of government and public servants to the public's well being.

The program will center around 10 plenary and mini-plenary sessions featuring prominent individuals from government, business, the media, foundations, and the arts. In addition, there will be up to 20 highlight panels including presentations and discussions among well known public officials, policy experts, and scholars. The bulk of the program will be devoted to 200 panels divided into tracks paralleling the society's 16 sections as well as special tracks concentrating on (1) the experiences of New York City following its fiscal crisis; (2) the society's Centennial Agendas Project; and (3) Professional Standards and Ethics.

The 1983 Program will also include three special features: five conversations with prominent public officials conducted in an interview format that are being coordinated by Susan J. Tolchin, George Washington University; 80 roundtables on research issues and exemplary practices in public administration coordinated by Donald Stokes, Princeton University, and Jewell Scott, City of Kansas City, Missouri; and four Doctoral Student Colloquia coordinated by Hal Rainey, Florida State University.

The Doctoral Student Colloquia are intended to expose advanced doctoral students from different schools to one