EDITORIAL POLICY

The British Journal of Political Science is an independent journal, whose policy is set by its editorial board. It is committed to no methodological orthodoxy over and above the normal canons of scholarship: clear and consistent use of words, logical and mathematical validity, and the use of appropriate evidence to substantiate empirical statements. Contributions are invited in all fields of political science, including political philosophy and political sociology. Work addressed to problems of general significance to students of politics will be published whatever the period(s) or place(s) drawn upon for evidence.

Stalin's Successors

Leadership, Stability, and Change in the Soviet Union

SEWERYN BIALER

' . . . a brilliant study of the Soviet leadership . . . In the next decade the world is likely to be a more dangerous place than anything we have known for at least a generation. In order to contain disorder, we had best try to understand the sources of Soviet conduct, and reading Seweryn Bialer is one of the best ways to begin.'

The Arab Predicament

Arab Political Thought and Practice since 1967

FOUAD AJAMI

This book highlights the major political ideas and trends debated and embraced in recent years in the Arab world. It is also an important enquiry into the performance and fate of the dominant political order and the ways it sought to cope with war and sudden wealth.

English Culture and the Decline of the Industrial Spirit, 1850–1980

MARTIN WIENER

Professor Wiener explores the English ambivalence to industrial society, suggesting that the present malaise has its roots deep in the nation's social and intellectual climate, and that, if England is to meet the challenges to new economic advancement, it must be with an understanding of the traditions which have weighed so heavily on the past.

£9.95 net

Dualism and Discontinuity in Industrial Societies

SUZANNE BERGER and MICHAEL J. PIORE

These essays analyse the fundamental political and macroeconomic structures of contemporary industrial society. Professor Piore examines the labour market and its relationship to technological innovation and capital investment. Professor Berger explores the social foundation of political parties and the formation of state policy as it emerges from competitive social forces.
