EDITORIAL POLICY

The British Journal of Political Science is an independent journal, whose policy is set by its editorial board. It is committed to no methodological orthodoxy over and above the normal canons of scholarship: clear and consistent use of words, logical and mathematical validity, and the use of appropriate evidence to substantiate empirical statements. Contributions are invited in all fields of political science, including political philosophy and political sociology. Work addressed to problems of general significance to students of politics will be published whatever the period(s) or place(s) drawn upon for evidence.

The Rise and Decline of Nations

Economic Growth, Stagflation, and Social Rigidities

Mancur Olson

The years since World War II have seen rapid shifts in the relative positions of different countries and regions. Leading political economist Mancur Olson here offers a new and compelling theory to explain these shifts. £8.95

Soviet Policy in East Asia

edited by Donald S. Zagoria

As the 1980s develop, a new cold war between the Soviet Union and the West looms on the horizon. In this comprehensive and up-to-date volume, well-known specialists provide analyses of Soviet economic, political, and military policies toward the countries of East Asia. £15.00

Forthcoming

The Transfer of Power in Africa

Decolonization 1940-1960

edited by Prosser Gifford and Wm. Roger Louis

This enlightening volume deals with decolonization in Africa from native, metropolitan, and international perspectives. It explains how in some cases colonial policies led to the peaceful transfer of authority and in others the transfer was marked by violence and a clean break with the colonial past. £25.00 Forthcoming

"Benevolent Assimilation"

The American Conquest of the Philippines, 1899-1903

Stuart Creighton Miller

American acquisition of the Philippines and Filipino resistance to it became a focal point for debate on American imperialism. In a lively narrative, Miller tells the story of the war and how it challenged America's sense of innocence. £19.50

The Struggle for the Falkland Islands

Julius Goebel

*with a preface and introduction
by J. C. J. Metford*

First published in 1927, this controversial but fundamental study is now reissued with an introduction by a leading British authority that brings the historical narrative up to recent times and discusses some of Goebel's arguments in the light of events since the book was first published.

Cloth £10.00 Paper £5.95

The Constitution, the Courts, and Human Rights

An Inquiry into the Legitimacy of Constitutional Policymaking
by the Judiciary

Michael J. Perry

Should the Supreme Court of the U.S.A. be confined to strict interpretation of the Constitution or should it make value judgements and policy choices? Perry argues in favour of constitutional policymaking in human rights cases where the Constitution is silent. £18.50

Britain Against Itself

The Political Contradictions of Collectivism

SAMUEL H. BEER

In his new book Professor Beer investigates the state of the British political system today – the factors that have come into play in the last two decades, the problems which threaten the stability of government, the prospects which lie ahead. What, indeed had happened to disrupt Britain's once prosperous and orderly system? Writing about it in The Times, David Watt described the book as 'majesterial . . . a distillation of detached judgements which clarifies and fortifies all the articles and books you can ever have read on the 'What's Wrong with Britain' theme, while in New Society David Lipsey called it 'a baseline book from which future work and thought will have to flow'. 249 pages. £9.50

Modern British Politics

Parties and Pressure Groups in the Collectivist Age

SAMUEL H. BEER

The third edition of 'quite the best account of the evolution of British politics from the 1870s to the 1950s' (Alan Ryan in the Times Educational Supplement) takes further the theoretical implications of Professor Beer's analysis in showing how the modernizing forces discernible in the past continue to shape British politics today. It should be required reading for all students of the subject. 462 pages. Faber Paperbacks £4.95

Faith and Power

The Politics of Islam

EDWARD MORTIMER

Political aims and conflicts in Muslim countries are often expressed in Islamic terms that are difficult for Westerners to understand. In this book Edward Mortimer decodes the Islamic vocabulary, analyses the political experience of past generations of Muslims, and describes in detail the role Islam plays today in the political life of six societies: Turkey, Saudi Arabia, Pakistan, the lands dominated by Arab nationalism, Iran and the Muslim regions of the Soviet Union. 'An elegant and comprehensive account' is how Fred Halliday described the book in New Society. £10.50; Faber Paperbacks £5.95

The Political System of the United States

JOHN D. LEES

This comprehensive introductory guide traces the interdependence of political institutions, constitutional practice and social forces in the political development of the United States. For the third edition of his book John Lees has completely revised the text and examines anew the political changes of the 1970s as a background to an understanding of national politics in America during the present decade. 424 pages. Faber Paperbacks £5.95
