This journal provides a focus for philosophical research with a direct bearing on areas of practical concern which are capable of being illuminated by the critical analytical approach characteristic of philosophy, and by direct consideration of questions of value. These areas include law, politics, economics, science-policy, medicine and education, but are not confined to these. The journal, published under the auspices of the Society for Applied Philosophy, aims to foster and promote philosophical work which is intended to make a constructive contribution to problems in these areas and to the identification, justification and discussion of values capable of transcending narrow or local interests.

Studies in History & Philosophy of Science is essential reading for those working in the areas of the philosophy and methodology of science and of the historical, social and intellectual contexts of science. It publishes philosophically oriented studies of material in the history of science as well as studies of the history of scientific method and epistemology, and of the interactions between science and philosophy. The papers published are of the highest quality, and, since the journal's inception, it has proved an indispensable literary source for students of the philosophy of science. Relevant papers are welcomed for editorial consideration.

Philosophy & Public Affairs

"PHILOSOPHY & PUBLIC AFFAIRS was created to promote the discussion of matters of public concern, and to bridge the gap that exists between philosophers and those in other disciplines who are working on questions that raise philosophical issues. The journal has maintained a high level of discussion from the start."

— Peter Singer,

The New York Times Magazine

Public Choice

Senior Editor

Gordon Tullock, Center for Study of Public Choice, George Mason University, Fairfax, VA, USA

Editor

Peter H. Aranson, Dept. of Economics, Emory University, Atlanta, USA

Public Choice deals with the intersection between economics and political science. It started when economists and political scientists became interested in the application of essentially economic methods to problems normally dealt with by political scientists. It has retained strong traces of economic methodology, but new and fruitful techniques have been developed which are not recognizable by economists. In general, Public Choice can be viewed as a field of interest to both economists and political scientists who are interested in theoretical rigor, statistical testing, and applications to real world problems.

PRAXIS INTERNATIONAL

Edited by
Seyla Benhabib and Svetozar Stojanović

In its first five years of publication, Praxis International has emerged as the voice of humanist, democratic socialism, providing a forum for the critical analysis of existing social systems, of their institutions and ideologies, of new social movements and of social theories. Distinguished contributors to past volumes have included J. Habermas, C. Taylor, A. Giddens, R. J. Bernstein, C. Offe, M. Marković, A. Heller, R. Rorty, M. Jay, R. Falk, and M. Löwy.

Forthcoming issues will address new currents in political and democratic theory; social movements east and west; political refugees and the right of asylum; Yugoslav federalism today; and debates on Marx and Heidegger, Lyotard, Rorty and Gadamer, and on Habermas's Theory of Communicative Action.

Praxis International is published in April, July, October and January

All contributions to Social Philosophy & Policy through Volume 5 will be solicited by the editors. We regret that unsolicited manuscripts cannot be considered for these issues. As stated on the back cover of this issue, Volume 6 will be comprised largely of unsolicited manuscripts (approximately 80 percent). Our readers will be notified of the submission policy on subsequent issues.

CALL FOR PAPERS

The editors of Social Philosophy & Policy are pleased to announce that Volume 6, Issues 1 and 2 will be open to unsolicited manuscripts. Issue 1 will be devoted to the theme "Capitalism" and Issue 2 to "Socialism." Papers can address such themes as: the morality of capitalism (or socialism); the defensibility of either system; the morality or efficiency of a particular aspect or doctrine of either system; or they may critically examine either system. These are broad suggestions only, and paper topics ought to be more narrowly defined. The deadlines for the two issues are:

	Submissions of papers	Notification of authors of acceptance or rejection	Publication date
Capitalism	June 1, 1987	January 1, 1988	Fall 1988
Socialism	January 1, 1988	July 1, 1988	Spring 1989

Papers should be double spaced with all footnotes collected at the end of the paper, and footnotes must conform to the Chicago Manual of Style. Papers exceeding 30 typewritten pages cannot be considered. Three copies should be submitted: they will not be returned unless accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope. Since papers will be blind-reviewed, authors should only be identified on a removable coversheet, and all references to the author should be in the third person. All papers should be accompanied by a 100-word summary, also in triplicate. Only successful papers will receive detailed referees' comments. Please send papers to:

John Ahrens, Managing Editor
Social Philosophy & Policy
Social Philosophy and Policy Center
Bowling Green State University
Bowling Green, OH 43403

Please feel free to contact the editors if you would like additional guidance.
