FROM CHICAGO

Happiness and the Law

John Bronsteen, Christopher Buccafusco, and Jonathan S. Masur

“In this provocative, bold, and highly original book, Bronsteen, Buccafusco, and Masur argue that, in numerous areas, our legal system would do much better if it focused on what social scientists have learned about happiness and well-being. It’s a major contribution with implications not only for public policy but also for our daily lives.”—Cass R. Sunstein, Harvard University

Judicial Politics in Polarized Times

Thomas M. Keck

“This is a robust, measured, and ultimately very persuasive book that places judicial review in the United States in context, insisting—and providing compelling evidence to support—the conclusion that judicial review is neither savior nor threat. It is, instead, a vital and still-important cog in our government machinery. Judicial Politics in Polarized Times could not be more timely.”—Gordon Silverstein, Yale Law School

Reclaiming Accountability

Transparency, Executive Power, and the U.S. Constitution

Heidi Kitrosser

“Secrecy breeds power, and power demands secrecy. Kitrosser shows how this dynamic has changed the American presidency and threatened our democracy. She provides a nuanced and compelling diagnosis of the problem secrecy creates and concrete proposals for how to get accountability back.”

—David Cole, Georgetown University
