Protestant Thought in the Nineteenth Century

Volume 1, 1799-1870

Claude Welch

This comprehensive study analyses the theological concerns of the major Protestant thinkers during the early part of the nineteenth century, ranging from such influential literary religious thinkers as Carlyle and Emerson to theological critics such as Feuerbach and Kierkegaard.

335 pp. Now in paper, £9.95

Protestant Thought in the Nineteenth Century

Volume 2, 1870-1914

Claude Welch

A comprehensive account of the principal Protestant theological concerns and writers from 1870 to World War I. Welch discusses both major and minor thinkers, placing them within such overarching themes as the nature of faith and the relationship of church and society.

327 pp. Now in paper, £9.95

Kabbalah

New Perspectives

Moshe Idel

In this major new interpretation of Jewish mysticism, Moshe Idel emphasises the need for a comparative and phenomenological approach to Kabbalah and its position in the history of religion. Idel provides fresh insights into the origins of Jewish mysticism, the relation between mystical and historical experience, and the impact of Jewish mysticism on Western civilization.

464 pp £30.00

The Mishnah

A New Translation

Jacob Neusner

The eminent Judaica scholar Jacob Neusner provides here the first form-analytical translation of the Mishnah. This pathbreaking edition provides as close to a literal translation as possible, following the syntax of Mishnaic Hebrew in its highly formalised and syntactically patterned language.

1200 pp. £45.00

Midrash and Literature

edited by Geoffrey H. Hartman and Sanford Budick

In this pioneering book a distinguished group of literary theorists, critics, and Judaica scholars consider the nature of midrash – the rabbinical exegesis of the Hebrew bible – and its influence throughout Western literature and religious thought.

429 pp. Now in paper, £12.95

Heaven: A History

Colleen McDannell and Bernhard Lang

In this copiously illustrated book the authors describe and interpret the ways in which believers — from biblical authors to medieval mystics, from theologians to women writers, from Jesus to present-day religious thinkers in Europe and America — have understood everlasting life. Placing the variety of beliefs about heaven in the context of the changing cultural, theological, and social worlds of the Christian era, the book sheds new light on both the private and public dimensions of western culture. 400 pp. 65 illus. £16.95

The Book of God

A Response to the Bible

Gabriel Josipovici

Is the Bible one book or a collection of writings? If it is a book, what kind of book is it and does it stand as a coherent piece of literature? Building on the recently renewed interest in biblical narrative associated with Erich Auerbach, Northrop Frye, and Robert Alter, Gabriel Josipovici here sets out to answer these and other equally fascinating questions. His beautifully written book constitutes a rethinking of the nature of the Bible and of our relation to it. 356 pp. £18.95

From Jesus to Christ

The Origins of the New Testament

Images of Jesus

Paula Fredriksen

How did Jesus of Nazareth become the Christ of the Christian tradition? Why did the early Christian communities develop different theological images of Jesus? In this exciting new book, Paula Fredriksen answers these questions by placing the various canonical images of Jesus within their historical context, providing new insights into such issues as the social and religious problems facing the various early Christian communities, the content of Jesus' ministry and the circumstances of his crucifixion. 264 pp. £14.95

In the Image of God

A Psychoanalyst's View

Stanley A. Leavy

This book explores what religion and psychoanalysis have to tell us about the human condition. Discussing from a psychoanalytic viewpoint the ways in which humans develop, suffer, love, hate and mourn, he explains that these can be better understood as approaches to and departures from our affinity with God. 128 pp. £10.95

Guilt and Desire

Religious Attitudes and Their Pathological Derivatives

Antoine Vergote · translated by M. H. Wood

In this fascinating book, Antoine Vergote demonstrates how psychoanalysis can illuminate both healthy and pathological religious beliefs and experiences. Citing contemporary case studies of extreme religious fervor as well as testimonies of saints and mystics, Vergote offers a Lacanian interpretation of religious phenomena and attitudes, seeing in them the convergences of culture, religion and psychology. 256 pp. £22.50

Between Heaven and Charing Cross

The Life of Francis Thompson

Brigid Boardman

Francis Thompson (1859-1907), Catholic poet and inspirational writer, wrote not for his own time but for future generations. This biographical reappraisal — based on his private notebooks and widespread new manuscript evidence — assesses his life and the continuing relevance of the work of a poet whose best-known piece, The Hound of Heaven, is a landmark in modern English religious literature. 352 pp. 16 illus. £19.95

The Book of Theodicy

Translation and Commentary on the Book of Job

Saadiah Ben Joseph Al-Fayyumi

translated from the Arabic with a philosophical commentary by L. E. Goodman

Philosopher and Arabist L. E. Goodman here presents the first English translation of Saadiah Gaon's important Book of Theodicy, a commentary on the Book of Job. 504 pp. £55.00

Now in paperback

Nineteenth-Century Religious Thought in the West

NINIAN SMART, JOHN CLAYTON, PATRICK SHERRY and STEVEN T. KATZ

'... these handsomely-produced volumes are the most massive result in English so far of the establishment of modern religious thought as an important area of study.'

Theology

'... these twenty-seven essays are likely to shape the study of nineteenth-century religious thought for some time to come.'

Medicine, Miracle and Magic in New Testament Times

HOWARD KEE

Healing played a prominent part in Jesus' ministry, and Howard Kee explains this vital aspect of his appeal in the context of how it was understood by the Greeks, Romans and Jews at the time when Jesus and the apostles were spreading the Christian message and launching Christian communities in the Graeco-Roman world.

It Is Written. Scripture Citing Scripture

Essays in Honour of Barnabas Lindars

Edited by D. A. CARSON and H. G. M. WILLIAMSON

This festschrift aims both to survey and advance research on the use of Hebrew scripture within the bible as a whole. An international team of scholars cover between them the major divisions of the Old Testament. A major contribution to such areas of current interest as midrash, apocalyptic, understanding of canon, and literary genres used by biblical writers.

The Virginia Statute for Religious Freedom

Its Evolution and Consequences in American History

Edited by MERRILL D. PETERSON and ROBERT C. VAUGHAN

A colourful examination of the famous Jeffersonian document which set the precedent for the US Constitution's guarantee of religious liberty. The Statute's history reflects two revolutionary principles: absolute freedom of religious conscience; and the separation of church and state. Both principles remain lively topics on the contemporary religious and political scene.

Religions of Immigrants from India and Pakistan

New Threads in the American Tapestry

RAYMOND BRADY WILLIAMS

Landmark changes in the American immigration law in 1965 admitted to the United States large numbers of immigrants from India and Pakistan. The religious groups formed by these new immigrants have exerted and will continue to exert significant influence upon the fabric of American religious life. This book is the first to investigate comprehensively the patterns of adaptation and assimilation developed by these groups.

Beyond the Written Word

Oral Aspects of Scripture in the History of Religion

WILLIAM A. GRAHAM

Beyond the Written Word explores the nature and function of 'scripture' as a global phenomenon. It considers the oral functions of scriptural texts in several of the major literate traditions of history, and examines the problem of scripture and the importance of the holy writ and holy word in religious life.

The British Discovery of Buddhism

PHILIP C. ALMOND

It was only during the nineteenth century that the Buddha emerged from the realm of myth, and Buddhism became, in the Western mind, an independent religion. This book demonstrates the way in which the Victorian interpretation of Buddhism illuminates the nature of nineteenth-century Britain

The Hidden Balance

Religion and the Social Theories of Charles Chauncy and Jonathan Mayhew

JOHN CORRIGAN

Boston Congregationalist ministers Charles Chauncy and Jonathan Mayhew were among the most influential social and religious thinkers in Boston in the mid-eighteenth century. This study argues, against the interpretations of some previous historians, that they produced a complex but coherent body of ideas, organised closely and self-consciously around the principle of 'balance'.

Visionary Republic

Millennial Themes in American Thought, 1756-1800

RUTH H. BLOCH

An account of the role of millennial thinking in the age of the American Revolution. This study, unlike most previous works, extends well beyond the social and demographic perimeters of the New England clergy and is based on a wide range of secular as well as religious literature.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. Contributions and books for review should be sent to the Editor, Professor S. R. Sutherland, King's College, Strand, London, WC2R 2LS.
2. Articles submitted to the journal should in general be between 5,000 and 10,000 words long, though articles outside these limits will be acceptable if there is some good reason for their exceptional length or brevity. Articles in two or more parts may occasionally be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible. They should normally be in English.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
4. Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing, preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. The typescript should be prepared to accord as closely as possible with the typographical conventions of the journal.
5. Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered in one sequence throughout the article, and should preferably be typed in double spacing at the end of the article.
6. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
7. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within ten days of receiving them.
8. Correction should be kept to an absolute minimum. It should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorises otherwise.
9. All contributions of articles receive 50 free offprints. Reviews will receive five or more offprints of their reviews.
10. If rejected manuscripts are to be returned, stamps or international coupons should be sent to cover postage, but it would normally be simpler just to retain a copy.
11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
