

Contributors

J. MERTON ENGLAND, a member of the history department of the University of Kentucky from 1946 to 1961 and managing editor of the Journal of Southern History (1953–58), was on the staff of the National Science Foundation after 1961 and NSF historian from 1972 until his retirement in 1986.

JOHN W. JOHNSON is Professor and Head of the Department of History at the University of Northern Iowa. He is a specialist in U.S. legal history and twentieth-century U.S. history. Johnson is the author of Insuring Against Disaster: The Nuclear Industry on Trial (1986) and American Legal Culture, 1908–1940 (1981) and editor of the forthcoming Encyclopedia of Historic U.S. Court Cases, 1690–1990. He is currently working on another book on nuclear power.

FREDERIC S. LEE is an associate professor in economics at Roosevelt University. He is currently doing research on Gardiner Means's contribution to Post-Keynesian price theory. He is also working on a book dealing with Oxford economics and economists from 1922 to 1978.

WILLIAM OLEJNICZAK teaches history at the College of Charleston. He has published several articles on late eighteenth-century French state policies toward the poor.