CAMBRIDGE

The New Cambridge History of India

General Editor: GORDON JOHNSON

Associate Editors: C. A. BAYLY and JOHN F. RICHARDS

Cambridge University Press is pleased to announce a completely new history of India which will be published as a series of thirty short, self-contained volumes, each dealing with a separate theme and written by a single person.

The first three published volumes:

The New Cambridge History of India I.1

The Portuguese in India

M. N. PEARSON

Laying particular stress on social, economic and religious interaction between Portuguese and Indians, Dr Pearson argues that the Portuguese in fact had a more limited impact on everyday life in India than is sometimes supposed. Their imperial effort was characterised throughout more by reciprocity and interaction than by any unilateral imposition of Portuguese mores and political structures.

The New Cambridge History of India II.1

Indian Society and the Making of the British Empire

C. A. BAYLY

This volume provides a synthesis of some of the most important themes to emerge from recent work on India's transition to colonialism and seeks, in particular, to reassess the role of Indians in the politics and economics of early colonialism. It discusses new views of the 'decline of the Mughals' and the role of the Indian capitalists in the expansion of the English East India Company's trade and urban settlements.

The New Cambridge History of India II.2

Bengal: The British Bridgehead

Eastern India 1740-1828

P. J. MARSHALL

Professor Marshall explores the social, cultural and economic changes that followed the imposition of British rule on eastern India and seeks to assess the consequences for the peoples of the region; emphasis is given throughout as much to continuities rooted in the history of Bengal, as to the more obvious effects of British domination.

All articles (text, notes and references) must be clearly typed in double spacing throughout on one side only of the paper—preferably A4. Two copies should be submitted. Spelling, dates, references and footnote numbers should be checked for accuracy. The use of diacritical marks, italics and capital letters should be kept to a minimum. References repeated in the footnotes should be by author and short title; or the Harvard system of citation may be used.

The title of the article and the author's name and affiliation should be typed on a separate page at the beginning of the article.

Tables should be clearly laid out and numbered consecutively. Vertical lines between columns should be omitted. All figures and totals should be checked for accuracy.

Maps and figures should be clearly legible in every detail. The spelling of place names should be consistent with that used in the text.

Every table, map and figure should have a title and at least one reference in the text to indicate its location.

First proofs only will be sent to the author who will be expected to return them to the Editor within three days. Excessive alterations and additions may be charged to the author.

Each author will receive twenty-five free offprints of his article and a copy of the part of the journal in which it appears.

Submission of an article will be taken to imply that it has not been previously published and that it is not on offer to any other publisher. In the interests of authors, copyright is normally assigned to Cambridge University Press. The editor welcomes expression of all shades of opinion, but responsibility for them rests with their authors.
