OVER 75 YEARS

Selections from the Raw Material of History

West Africa Publishing has brought out a book of material selected from West Africa magazine over the 75 years of its existence. It is a unique collection of documents, articles, news items and photographs concerning the West African sub-region over three quarters of the twentieth century.

Through its history, through dramatic political evolution, the Africanisation of its readership and changes of ownership, West Africa has maintained its reputation both as a paper of record and as a vehicle for opinion, ideas and perspectives. It has dealt comprehensively with the politics, economics, society and culture of the sub-region, in a way that makes it an unequalled resource on the history of West Africa.

This book, edited by Kaye Whiteman, is the first attempt by the magazine itself to mine that resource in all its richness. Selected by three distinguished researchers - Kole Omotoso (before 1960), Alfred Zack-Williams and Ferdinand Dennis (post-1960) - the 224 pages of material, including over 150 photographs, will be a constant source of fascination for all those interested in things West African.
