

From the Editor

AL GINI, Loyola University Chicago, is ending a remarkable run of twenty-three years of continuous service to Business Ethics Quarterly as managing editor, associate editor, and book review editor. Since the journal's inception in 1990, Al has worked tirelessly on behalf of BEQ and served our constituents with remarkable good humor and friendly professionalism in a variety of roles essential to the functioning of the journal. The previous three editors and I are in his debt, as are the many BEQ contributors who have worked with Al over the years. I have always appreciated Al's generosity and support and am grateful for his long record of accomplished service to Business Ethics Quarterly and the broader community of business ethics and corporate social responsibility scholars.
