
Mughal Administration in Golconda (1687-1724)

J. F. Richards

This book makes a significant contribution to the 'Aligarh' interpretation of Mughal institutions and history. Dr. Richards supplies a coherent narrative account of major political and economic events from the fall of Golconda to the founding of Hyderabad State in 1724. He shows how the imperial system fell apart and how a new regional political system was created by the last Mughal Governor Mubariz Khan. £10

The Politics of Belonging

Political Changes in Sabah and Sarawak

Margaret Clark Roff

Sabah and Sarawak gained independence from Great Britain in 1963 with the formation of Malaysia. This study is concerned with developments in these two Bornean states since then. The portrayal of the political mobilization of their peoples, the rapid establishment of political parties, and the emergence of new leaders, will be of interest to scholars in a variety of disciplines. £7.85

Japan's Greater East Asia Co-Prosperity Sphere in World War II

Edited by Joyce C. Lebra

Until recently, scholars in the West, and even more in Japan, have neglected the ideology and rationale behind Japan's economic wartime policies. This volume attempts to remedy the situation by bringing together translations from Japanese sources and articles by both Asian and Western writers. £10

The Erosion of a Relationship

India and Britain since 1960

Michael Lipton and John Firn

This book measures the erosion of Indo-British links since 1960, and weighs its causes. The usual economic categories are examined first. Then, numerous statistical indicators are provided for more directly political relationships. By providing the first comprehensive statistical abstract of a post-colonial relationship between a rich and a poor nation, the authors have produced an essential source for future studies of any such link. £14

China's Imperial Past

An Introduction to Chinese History and Culture

Charles O. Hucker. A panoramic survey of Chinese civilization from prehistory to 1850, this unique work emphasizes patterns of change and development rather than factual details. Each of the three major epochs of Chinese history is examined in topical chapters on general history, political institutions, socioeconomic organization, literature and the arts, and religion and thought. Modern Asian Studies is concerned with the history, geography, politics, sociology, literature, economics and social anthropology of South Asia, South-East Asia, China and Japan.

Contributions should be based on original research or field-work. They should be between 2000 and 8000 words long. Two typed copies should be submitted. Each author will receive twenty-five free offprints of his article and a copy of the Journal in which it appears.

Submission of an article will be taken to imply that it has not been previously published and that it is not on offer to any other publisher. In the interests of authors, copyright is normally assigned to Cambridge University Press. The editor welcomes expression of all shades of opinion, but responsibility for them rests with their authors.

All correspondence should be addressed to Dr Gordon Johnson, Selwyn College, Cambridge CB3 9DQ, England.
