THE END OF THE WORLD

An Introduction to Contemporary Drama

MAURICE VALENCY, Director of Academic Studies, The Juilliard School. Depicting the crisis of faith at the turn of the century, Valency shows how Symbolism, in all its various manifestations, developed as a revolutionary movement rejecting Realism and affecting all forms of art. He traces the artistic and emotional ferment generated by this movement in the theater through an examination of the work of its most significant dramatic representatives—Mallarmé, Maeterlinck, Pirandello, Giraudoux, Artaud, Ionesco, and Beckett. 480 pp., $19.95

IMAGINING AMERICA

PETER CONRAD, Fellow of Christ Church, Oxford. "Cruelly perceptive, witty, frighteningly intelligent, and overwhelmingly eloquent. Imagining America is a penetrating inquiry into the challenge America poses to the British imagination. In probing this subject, Conrad displays a perceptiveness and intelligence that all might envy. He has written a brilliant, funny, and eloquent book and shown what criticism can do when it really looks at things."—Paul Fussell

336 pp., $12.95

A SOUTHERN RENAISSANCE

The Cultural Awakening of the American South 1930-1955

RICHARD H. KING, Professor of Philosophy and History, University of the District of Columbia. William Faulkner, James Agee, Thomas Wolfe, Cleanth Brooks, and C. Vann Woodward are just a few of the writers discussed in this study of the outpouring of fiction, poetry, memoirs, and historical writing that came out of the American South from 1930-1955. King shows how these writers transcended plantation culture, the Civil War, Reconstruction, and racial reaction to raise Southern tradition to historical awareness, making way for the vast changes in Southern culture in the 1960's and '70's. 320 pp., $13.95

NATURE AND CULTURE

American Landscape and Painting, 1825-1875

BARBARA NOVAK, Chairman of the Art History Department, Barnard College, Columbia University. "Barbara Novak's writing has had singular and wide influence on the field of American art scholarship. Her new book probes the crucial area of cultural ideas with both a depth and breadth that are bound to affect our thinking afresh."—John Wildmering, National Gallery of Art. "The most important contribution to the understanding of 19th-century American art that has been written in our generation."—John I. H. Baur, Director Emeritus, Whitney Museum of American Art 304 pp., 150 black & white illustrations, 8 page color insert, $30.00

"I am nothing but a literary lizard, warming myself all day in the bright sun of beauty.

Passionate, witty, analytical, and erotic, Flaubert's letters are a dazzling display of a writer's art and life.

They range from amorous, yet often sadistic, epistles to his beautiful mistress, to colorful accounts of his trips to the temples and brothels of the Mideast.

Most important, the letters chronicle one of the central events in literary history, the composition of Madame Bovary. And throughout this collection, Steegmuller provides a thoroughly satisfying critical and historical text.

It is, as Leon Edel says, "An enchanting book. Once one starts reading... it's difficult to put down." $12.50 illustrated.

HELEN VENDLER CLOSES THE POETRY

Helen Vendler's particular gift is to read poets well and make their significance plain - even poets who, though nearest to us in time, often seem remote and difficult.

In this volume, the poetry reviewer of The New Yorker turns her unerring ear toward such modern masters as Eliot, Lowell, Elizabeth Bishop, and Marianne Moore, as well as newer poets like Charles Wright, Louise Glück, and Frank Bidart.

Her voice will help you discover theirs.

General Editor: GEORGE McMICHAEL, California State University, Hayward

Advisory Editors: Frederick Crews, J. C. Levenson, Leo Marx and David E. Smith

paperback 1980

Volume I: COLONIAL THROUGH ROMANTIC

Volume II: REALISM TO THE PRESENT

The Second Edition of the leading anthology of American literature is even more inclusive than its predecessor.

It features a new 6 x 9 format—the pages now are easier to read and provide more margin for writing; the volumes are thinner and easier to carry, and the bindings are more durable.

Anthology of American Literature, Second Edition offers:

- All the full-length works of the first edition as well as these additional works in their entirety: Cooper's The Prairie, Chopin's The Awakening, Roth's Good-bye Columbus
- All the plays of the first edition as well as these additional plays in their entirety: Tyler's The Contrast, Williams's The Glass Menagerie
- Almost all the short works of the first edition and important new ones: Longstreet's The Fight, Thorpe's The Big Bear of Arkansas, Harris's The Snake-Bit Irishman, Freeman's A New England Nun, Jewett's A White Heron, Cable's Belles Demoiselles Planation, Bierce's An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge, Lardner's Some Like Them Cold, Wolfe's Only the Dead Know Brooklyn and The Far and the Near, Thurber's The Secret Life of Walter Mitty, Oates's How I Contemplated the World from the Detroit House of Correction and Began My Life Over Again—and others.
- Almost all the poetry of the first edition as well as substantial additions—especially to the works of Dickinson, Frost, and Cummings. Also, the new inclusion of works by Berryman and Ammons.

Literature and Negation

Maire Jaanus Kurrik. Drawing freely both from recent literary theory and from her own wide learning, Maire Jaanus Kurrik studies negation as a principle of division and difference, "the rupture without which thought cannot begin." The heart of this ambitious and wide-ranging work is the connection between the activity of negation and the development of the tragic form of the novel. 272 pages, $22.50

Virginia Woolf

Michael Rosenthal. Examining all Woolf's fiction—including such important novels as Mrs. Dalloway, To the Lighthouse, The Waves, and The Years—as well as many of her essays and critical works, Michael Rosenthal argues that Woolf's preoccupation with form was both her overriding artistic concern and the source of her greatest accomplishment. An "attentive and admiring survey of her novels."—New York Times Book Review. 272 pages, $15.00

Sombraventadora/Shadowinower

Agueda Pizarro, Translated by Barbara Stoler Miller with the author. This bilingual collection of poems chronicles in a rich, surrealistic voice the beauty, violence, and serenity of a woman's travels about the earth and through interior solitude. The first collection of Pizarro's poems to be published in the United States, this beautiful volume introduces the reader to a Spanish poetry in which, in the words of Jorge Guillén, "everything flows, evident, profound, true." 128 pages, $10.00 cloth, $4.95 paper

The Letters of John Masefield to Florence Lamont

Corliss Lamont and Lansing Lamont, editors. In 1916 John Masefield, in America to rally support for Great Britain and the allied war effort, was introduced to Florence Lamont, the engaging wife of a partner in the House of Morgan. There began a correspondence which lasted 36 years and, brought together here for the first time, reveals Masefield's keen interest in every aspect of his era—from Freud, Mexican bullfights, and the woes of New York City to Teddy Roosevelt, British royalty, and French fashions. 287 pages, $20.00

The Abbey, Ireland's National Theater

Hugh Hunt. Based in part on minute books and other classified documents in the theater's archives, this first authorized history of the Abbey Theater in over 25 years provides a unique chronicle of the renowned institution's tempestuous growth, along with first-hand portraits of the Abbey's founders and contributors, including W. B. Yeats, Lady Gregory, J.M. Synge, and "A.E." (George Russell). 306 pages, illus., $18.95

Twentieth-Century Russian Drama

From Gorky to the Present

Harold B. Segel. This first survey in English of Russian drama after Chekhov covers every aspect of Russian drama in this century, including the work of Andreev, Bely, Blok, Sologub, Mayakovsky, Tsvetaeva, Olesha, Solzhenitsyn, and many others. "This book is essential for any drama or Russian literature collection." Library Journal. 502 pages, illus., $27.50 cloth, $12.00 paper

Modern Japanese Drama

An Anthology

Ted T. Takaya. "Little modern Japanese drama has been translated, so this book is a breakthrough. Five very contemporary plays are presented . . . ranging from Mishima's modern Nō form, through Yashiro's realistic and earthy biography, to Betsuyaku's near-absurd portrayal of human existence." Library Journal. 424 pages, illus., $17.50

Metafictional Characters in Modern Drama

June Schlueter. "Schlueter chronologically examines the theme of double exposure and double consciousness in Pirandello, Genet, Beckett, Weiss, Albee, Stoppard, and Handke. Her book is so well prepared that it is a pleasure to swallow. The author, to use theater talk, 'does nice work.'" Library Journal. 143 pages, $15.00

Now in paperback:

Modern Hungarian Poetry

Miklós Vajda, editor. Presenting the finest works by writers active in the postwar period, this volume at last makes a complete selection of modern Hungarian poetry available in English. With translations contributed by such leading American, British, and Canadian poets as Donald Davie, Robert Graves, Ted Hughes, and Richard Wilbur, Modern Hungarian Poetry provides "a pungent record of the human spirit in our time."—Hudson Review 286 pages, illus., $6.95

RANDOM HOUSE NOW SPEAKS YOUR LANGUAGE!

For over fifty years, people have looked to Random House as the publisher of great literature; and for the past twenty, as a major source of fine college texts in many disciplines. Now, we have applied that accumulated store of literary and scholarly expertise to the expansion of our foreign language list. This year, we take great pride in introducing to you new selections of carefully planned and developed titles in Spanish, German, and Italian, as well as a new edition of one of the most popular and respected beginning German texts.

Over the next five years, we will continue to build on this effort, bringing you texts for complete college-level programs, in introductory and intermediate Spanish, German, French, and Italian. We want you to look to Random House as the source for all your foreign-language teaching needs.

Italian

PREGO! AN INVITATION TO ITALIAN

Graziana Lazzarino, University of Colorado, with Antonella Pease, University of Texas at Austin; Annamaria Kelly, University of Arizona; and Luigi Romeo, University of Colorado

Written by an all-Italian team and monitored closely by a panel of over 40 coordinators of first-year courses nationwide, PREGO is a beginning text featuring an innovative communicative focus with a proven traditional approach to grammar. The text combines a thorough introduction to grammar with conversation, cultural information, humor, and entertaining creative activities. PREGO is a complete program featuring the basic text, a lab manual, a written workbook, and a communications supplement.

WRITING SKILLFUL SENTENCES

Philip Eggers, Manhattan Community College

This important new sentence grammar features the compactness and reference apparatus of a standard handbook together with the concentrated focus of a workbook to help students overcome basic writing problems. In a positive and sensitive tone, it helps students increase their grasp of standard written English through composing activities, self-help drills, and proofreading practice.

*Random House/December 1979/288 pages
paperbound/Order Codes: 32390, 32470 (I.M.)*

PLAIN ENGLISH PLEASE: A Rhetoric

Fourth Edition

Gregory Cowan and Elizabeth McPherson,
Forest Park Community College

This step-by-step composition text takes informal, non-technical approaches to developing clear and effective papers. The fourth edition has improved explanations of definition, comparison, and logic; many new, updated examples and exercises; a new chapter on the term paper; greater coverage of business letters; and expanded coverage of "The Longer Paper" (appendix III) that includes an annotated sample research paper.

*Random House/November 1979/490 pages
paperbound/Order Codes: 32367, 32471 (I.M.)*

READING AND WRITING SHORT ESSAYS

Morton A. Miller, University of Hartford

Seventy-seven brief and rarely anthologized essays, over 50% of them complete works, by such writers as Jack London, Virginia Woolf, Richard Wright, Somerset Maugham, Dorothy Parker, Anais Nin, and Ralph Ellison—fully introduced and annotated—provide superb models for your students' own essay-writing.

paperbound/Order Codes: 32214, 32468 (I.M.)*

THE BORZOI COLLEGE READER

Fourth Edition

Charles Muscatine, University of California at Berkeley, and Marlene Griffith, Laney College

All selections in this classic reader—whether by George Orwell or Dorothy Sayers, Walter Lippmann or Joan Didion—expose students to fresh ideas, attitudes, and assumptions, both classical and contemporary. In the new edition, more selections from pre-20th century authors are balanced by new sections on topics of current interest, including work, America as others see us, education, media and mass culture, and the search for identity.

*Alfred A. Knopf/March 1980/672 pages
paperbound/Order Codes: 32419, 32467 (I.M.)*

THINKING IN WRITING: Structures for Composition

Donald McQuade, Queens College, City University of New York, and Robert Atwan

An outstanding anthology of classic and contemporary writing that clearly illustrates rhetorical strategies while, at the same time, showing the realities of thinking and the composing process.

PREP: For Better Reading

W. Royce Adams, Santa Barbara City College

Tightly-structured and eclectic, this text develops reading comprehension and vocabulary skills in students who read at a 4th to 8th grade level. Based on a questionnaire sent to over 2000 reading instructors, it features a controlled reading level, check tests, and a wide variety of exercises.

ISBN 0-03-047011-0/1980, 288 pages

READINGS IN TECHNICAL COMMUNICATION

W. Steve Anderson, Northern Montana College, and Don Richard Cox, University of Tennessee

Many actual examples of major types of reports from business, science, and technology make this introductory reader a uniquely valuable resource for teaching technical writing. It also gives background readings about aspects of technical writing, including the process of shaping raw information into a report. ISBN 0-03-048771-4/1980, 416 pages

THE PRACTICAL RESEARCHER
A Step-by-Step Guide to Writing
Research Papers

Edward P. Bailey, Jr., Philip A. Powell, and Jack M. Shuttleworth, United States Air Force Academy

Using a structured, practical, step-by-step approach that avoids the "clutter" of more comprehensive reference books or style manuals, this text teaches students how to write a research paper. It features an informal style and many interesting examples and exercises. ISBN 0-03-045641-X/224 pages
Coming in 1981

FROM SENTENCE TO PARAGRAPH

A Writing Workbook in English as a Second Language

Robert G. Bander

Emphasizing the paragraph's outline, topic sentence, controlling idea, unity, and coherence, this text gives extensive practice in the structural principles of writing an English paragraph. It features a simple vocabulary and supplies a needed link between controlled sentence and developed essay skills. ISBN 0-03-050626-3/1980, 264 pages

THE COPY BOOK

Mastering Basic Grammar and Style

Thomas Friedmann and James MacKillop, Onondaga Community College, Syracuse

This book begins by asking the student to copy short (150-250 word) essays, then asks him to substitute or change one type of word or construction at a time. In successive units, the student gradually assumes greater control of his own writing. Students learn by doing, developing their ability through the practice of correct examples.

ISBN 0-03-051026-0/1980, 288 pages

A CONCISE GUIDE FOR WRITERS,
Fifth Edition

Louis E. Glorfeld, University of Denver, David A. Lauerman, Canisius College, Buffalo, and Norman C. Stageberg, University of Northern Iowa

Flexible, simple, and concise, this guidebook concentrates on 50 of the most frequent writing faults of college freshmen — but also gives advice on writing themes and on broader rhetorical problems. This new edition features revised sections on writing research papers and taking tests.

ISBN 0-03-048356-5/1980, 224 pages

HANDBOOK FOR WRITERS
Grammar, Punctuation, Diction, Rhetoric, Research

Celia Millward, Boston University

This new descriptive handbook does more than tell the student what is right and what is wrong: it explains why English works the way it does. It is, therefore, both useful and interesting for students at all levels.

ISBN 0-03-017796-0/1980, 512 pages

WORKBOOK FOR WRITERS

Linda Bowie

Brief explanations of the basics of grammar and rhetoric help students tackle a wide variety of exercises in this workbook. It follows the Handbook for Writers in organization, but may be used independently. Each chapter features a troubleshooting section that concentrates on the specific areas of greatest difficulty.

ISBN 0-03-040721-4/1980, 264 pages

SUCCESSFUL READING
Key to Our Dynamic Society,
Third Edition

Maxwell H. Norman, assisted by Enid S. Kass Norman, MiraCosta College, Del Mar, California

By emphasizing techniques for sharpening study skills, this test/workbook for developmental reading helps students in the 25-75 percentiles become more effective readers. It gives exercises on vocabulary, comprehension, reading techniques and their applications, outlining, summarizing, and more. Half the readings are new in this edition.

ISBN 0-03-049621-7/1980, 264 pages

BREAKTHROUGH
From Reading to Writing

John W. Presley, Augusta College, and William M. Dodd, Augusta Youth Development Center

A workbook and reader for developmental English, with extensive work on essay organization, vocabulary, and reading comprehension. Controlled readings and informal, professional essays are followed by questions on vocabulary and reading comprehension as well as detailed writing assignments. ISBN 0-03-048776-8/1980, 336 pages

FROM SIGHT TO INSIGHT
Steps in the Writing Process

Jeff Rackham, Capital University, Columbus, Ohio

Each unit of this freshman composition text follows the natural steps of the writing process — subject, audience, form, first draft, rewriting, editing. Successive units lead students step by step from a personal, imaginative, and concrete approach towards objective, critical, and abstract writing.

ISBN 0-03-047566-X/1980, 500 pages

STUDIES IN THE SHORT STORY,
Fifth Edition

Virgil Scott, Emeritus, Michigan State University, and David Madden, Louisiana State University

25 new stories bring the total from 44 to 54 in this widely-used short story anthology's new edition. A new section on authors' revisions, with two examples, shows students the creative process. Also featured are more modern and unconventional stories and more stories by women and minorities.

ISBN 0-03-043131-X/1980, 636 pages

BETTER WRITING
From Paragraph to Essay

Gene Stanford, Utica College of Syracuse University, and Marie N. Smith

Paragraph development and organization, coherence, unity, essay organization, proof-reading — this basic composition workbook breaks down all the basic skills of writing into small, logical steps. Its self-teaching, self-checking format allows students to move ahead at their own pace.

ISBN 0-03-051161-5/1980, 224 pages

AN AMERICAN RHETORIC,
Fifth Edition

William W. Watt, Emeritus, Lafayette College

This completely redesigned edition adds a section on prewriting and a glossary of grammatical and rhetorical terms. But it retains its lively style, many examples and exercises, and emphasis on good as well as correct writing, thereby reflecting the author's philosophy that a guide to good writing should itself be well written.

Lionel Trilling

CRITICISM AND POLITICS

William M. Chace

For fifty years Lionel Trilling was a major critical presence in America. "He believed passionately," wrote Irving Howe, "and taught a whole generation also to believe, in the power of literature—its power to transform, elevate, and damage." In this first comprehensive study of Trilling's criticism and fiction, Professor Chace demonstrates the range of Trilling's influence and examines his part in America's search for a sense of its cultural self. "Reading Chace is rather like reading Trilling's essays for the first time: one experiences the same sense of a sinuous, resourceful mind at work upon concerns which are as central to our age as they are delicate, elusive, and resistant to simple formulation."—Thomas Flanagan. "A fine study, lucid and gracefully written, of one of the two or three critics in mid-century America that mattered the most."—M. H. Abrams. $12.95

An Introduction to Old Irish

R. P. M. and W. P. Lehmann

Written by two distinguished linguists, this important new book enables the reader to learn the Old Irish language while studying its literature. The basic text consists of a notable Old Irish story supplemented with poems, glosses, and annotations. The grammatical information in the annotations is summarized in separate sections dealing with specific syntactical constructions and forms. The book includes a glossary, facsimiles of Old Irish manuscripts, and discussions of word formation, pronunciation, metrics, and other subjects necessary for a full appreciation of Old Irish, its literature, and the culture that produced it. Vahan D. Barooshian

Slavistic Printings and Reprintings, Vol. 301
1979, XII + 158 pp. Pb.
DM 48.00 / US$ 30.00

Osip Maksimovich Brik was one of the most elusive, mysterious and legendary figures in the history of Russian 20th-century literature. The recent death of his wife, Lilya Brik, has once again focused attention on the creative triangular relationship which they shared with the Soviet poet, Vladimir V. Mayakovsky. The story of that relationship, the Briks' efforts to find a place for Mayakovsky in the history of Soviet literature, and the ironic fate of the Briks in the Soviet Union today are treated extensively in this study.

The only known original East Slavic apocrypha – one of the most important works of Old Russian literature – is presented in this critical edition. This volume gives the original text, with an English translation, together with a detailed linguistic study and study of the literary sources.

Marc Eli Blanchard

Description: Sign, Self, Desire

Approaches to Semiotics, Vol. 43
1980, VIII + 300 pp. Cloth Approx. DM 72.00 / US$ 45.00

A wide-ranging survey of the linguistic, philosophical and psychoanalytical implications of the development of a science of signs, based on the premises of Peirce, de Saussure and others. It both discusses general semiotic premises and investigates specific applications to literary texts, combining a solid knowledge of linguistics and, more generally speaking, of structural methods, with a good background in philology and literary scholarship.

The University of Tulsa's Graduate Faculty of Modern Letters announces the establishment of the Center for the Study of Women's Literature and the appointment of Germaine Greer
as Professor of Modern Letters and Director of the Center

The Center is to be an integral part of the University's Graduate Program in Modern Letters, offering courses which will complement the regular degree offerings at both the master's and the doctoral level. Besides the resident faculty, distinguished visitors will also be invited to teach, lecture, and carry on research in connection with the Center.

The aim of the Tulsa Center for The Study of Women's Literature is to provide the resources and environment for the development of a coherent and scholarly approach to the problems of description and evaluation of the vast body of literary work by women. The avenues of enquiry will be threefold: bibliographical, critical, and historical. Critical editions of work by better-known women writers will be prepared and presented, definitive texts of important works established, and authentic texts of works now misattributed and virtually lost recovered. Texts will be elucidated, and their relation to the mainstream of literary tradition explained with attention to influences both exerted and undergone, and with the aim of refining a critical vocabulary which is neither prejudiced nor propagandist. Cultural conditions governing women's literary work, such as the attitude of the publishing industry, the vicissitudes of literary reputation and the direction of women's interest to specific literary forms and themes, will be researched and described.

One of the projects to be undertaken by the Center is the publication of a semi-annual journal, Tulsa Studies in Women's Literature, under the editorship of Germaine Greer. Graduate students and other scholars working in the Center will have the opportunity to participate in the development of this journal.

All applicants to the Center, whether degree candidates or post-doctoral scholars, will be expected to meet normal requirements for admission to the Graduate Program in Modern Letters. All those admitted, except post-doctoral researchers, will be expected to fulfill normal requirements for a degree. Professor Greer will be in residence during the fall term each year.

A limited number of fellowship appointments, entailing teaching, research or editorial responsibilities, will be available to graduate students participating in the Center.

DIDEROT

inside, outside & in-between

Jack Undank

"A consistently lively, elegant, original work. Professor Undank's study of the transactions of Diderot's literary subjectivity and its world is at once erudite and critically acute; it is a truly significant contribution to literary studies."

Leo Bersani, Univ. of California, Berkeley

"The beauty of Undank's work appears not simply in its breath-taking style or in its sustained analyses but, more significantly, in its ability to highlight suggestively in passing more in a few lines than entire books do over many ponderous pages."

Daniel O'Hara, boundary 2

In the course of a phenomenological investigation which guides him through a reconsideration of mimesis and mimetic acts, of sentimentality and "sympathetic imagination," Undank studies the origins and ramifications of reactive shifts of consciousness in the work of Diderot and his contemporaries and, in the process, reveals the power structures underlying eighteenth-century rhetoric.

Essays and Discussions about the Beginnings of Prose Fiction in the West

Arthur Heiserman

"Arthur Heiserman has given us the best short study of ancient prose fiction in any language, scholarly, well-informed, concise, and extremely stimulating . . . The vitality of invention and formal experiment within the genre of ancient fiction has never been revealed so freshly as in this book . . . A lasting monument to its author."—Brian Vickers, Times Literary Supplement

Modern Latin American Narratives

The Dreams of Reason

Alfred J. Mac Adam

Focusing on writings by Machado de Assis, Adolfo Bioy Casares, Julio Cortázar, Gabriel García Márquez, and José Donoso, among others, Mac Adam persuasively develops the controversial thesis that satire, not the novel, is the dominant form of the Latin American narrative.

The Cornell Wordsworth

General Editor: STEPHEN PARRISH

Wordsworth's practice of leaving his long poems unpublished for years after their completion, and his lifelong habit of revision, have obscured the original – often the best – versions of those poems. This series, inaugurating a fresh approach to Wordsworth scholarship, presents for the first time full and accurate texts of Wordsworth's long poems, together with all variant readings from original drafts down to the final printing in the poet's lifetime, or the first posthumous printing.

The Ruined Cottage and The Pedlar

Edited by JAMES BUTLER. “Good books, like good characters, are difficult to write about – and good editions are a great deal more so. In his presentation of the different stages and versions of The Ruined Cottage for the Cornell Wordsworth, James Butler has done an exemplary job.... His introduction, and the various notes and headnotes, are clear and to the point. The complicated story of the origins and development of The Ruined Cottage is told simply and told concisely. Mr. Butler's prose is lucid, his evidence is honestly presented, and his judgments are right.”

The Prelude, 1798-1799

Edited by STEPHEN PARRISH. “The formidable resources of modern scholarship are on impressive display in this, the second volume of ‘The Cornell Wordsworth’ – an undertaking that will unquestionably become the standard edition of Wordsworth's long poems.... No one can henceforth write on any portion of The Prelude without consulting this work, which brings us excitingly close to Wordsworth's creative process.” –Choice. $19.50

The Salisbury Plain Poems of William Wordsworth

Edited by STEPHEN GILL. “Stephen Gill has produced a wonderful edition: complex yet lucid, and with a high degree of accuracy.” –PAUL F. BETZ, The Wordsworth Circle. $20.00

Home at Grasmere

Edited by BETH DARLINGTON. The ingenuity, critical tact, scholarly thoroughness, and yes, the sheer monumental labor behind this book once again amply justify the series of which it now forms a distinguished part.” –Modern Language Notes. $25.00
