
The Letters and Diaries of John Henry Newman

Volume XXVII: The Controversy with Gladstone. January 1874 to December 1875

Volume XXVIII: Fellow of Trinity. January 1876 to December 1878

Edited by Charles Stephen Dessain and Thomas Gornall, S.J.

The main topic of Volume XXVII is Newman's controversy with Gladstone, who in a popular pamphlet The Vatican Decrees impugned the loyalty of Catholics now that papal infallibility had been defined. Newman's reply was, said William Froude, 'magnificent . . . almost the best thing he ever wrote'. During the period covered by Volume XXVIII Newman was asked to become the first honorary Fellow of the college he had entered sixty years earlier, and which he now revisited. £15 each

Experience and God

John E. Smith

The place of experience in the interpretation of religion has been a central topic for both philosophical and theological discussion. Experience and God argues for a new and wider concept of experience, one that can provide a compelling basis for religious belief. Religion and Revolution

Guenter Lewy

In this study of the relation between religious thought and action on the one side and revolutionary activity on the other, the author investigates the political consequences of the world's religions. He examines a broad range of historical situations involving the major religions of East and West, which resulted in such diverse political phenomena as revolutionary millenarianism and quietism and withdrawal. £10 OUP New York

The Iban of Sarawak

Erik Jensen

Many peoples of Indonesia believe in spirits, the spirits of the dead, the spirits that inhabit living things, inanimate objects, and natural phenomena, not least the spirit of rice. For the Iban of Sarawak the ritual acts, concepts, and myths associated with the rice cult are at the centre of religious life. This first systematic study of Iban religion shows its importance for an understanding of their social organisation and behaviour, their code of values, and of their whole agricultural system. Illustrated £4.50 Oxford Monographs on Social Anthropology

Reason and Belief

BRAND BLANSHARD

In this second volume of Blanshard's Gifford Lectures, which is independent of the first, the author examines the place of reason in religion through a detailed discussion of traditional Catholic and Protestant beliefs. Unable to accept any authority other than reason, he sketches his own rationalist view of the world, arguing that the same standards of belief must be held in religion as in philosophy and science.

GEORGE ALLEN & UNWIN

Oxford Books for Students

Oxford Bible Atlas

Herbert G. May, R. W. Hamilton, and G. N. S. Hunt

The new edition of this established reference work takes full account of the many discoveries of recent years in biblical geography, history, and archaeology. There are 26 full-colour maps, several occupying more than one page, and these now include a large-scale double-page map of the archaeological sites of Palestine. The two plans of Jerusalem in O.T. and in N.T. times, with their accompanying texts, have been carefully revised in the light of the latest discoveries.

Photographs appear throughout the text sections and include a number specially taken in the Holy Land for this edition. The gazetteer is an index to every name in the maps and contains additional biblical, historical, and archaeological information. Second edition 26 maps 92 illustrations £2.75
