

Religious Studies

VOLUME 5 NUMBER 2 DECEMBER 1969

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

Editor

PROFESSOR H. D. LEWIS

Editorial Board

MR K. D. D. HENDERSON
PROFESSOR J. HICK
PROFESSOR D. M. MACKINNON
PROFESSOR E. L. MASCALL
PROFESSOR B. MITCHELL

DR GEOFFREY PARRINDER
RT REVD. I. T. RAMSEY
DR E. I. J. ROSENTHAL
PROFESSOR NINIAN SMART
PROFESSOR R. C. ZAEHNER

Editorial Advisors

Carmen Blacker, Newnham College, Cambridge.
Fred Berthold, Professor of Religion, Dartmouth College.
Peter Bertocci, Professor of Philosophy, Boston University.
S. G. F. Brandon, Professor of Comparative Religion, University of Manchester.
C. A. Campbell, Emeritus Professor of Logic and Rhetoric, University of Glasgow.
W. Cantwell Smith, Head of the Centre for the study of World Religions, Harvard University.
Ian Crombie, Lecturer in Philosophy, Wadham College, Oxford.
Professor J. N. Findlay, Professor of Philosophy, Yale University.
D. W. Hamlyn, Professor of Philosophy, Logic and Ethics, Birkbeck College, London.
J. Harrison, Professor of Philosophy, University of Nottingham.
R. Hepburn, Professor of Philosophy, University of Edinburgh.

E. O. James, Emeritus Professor, University of London and Fellow of All Souls College, Oxford.
W. G. Maclagan, Emeritus Professor of Moral Philosophy, University of Glasgow.
J. Macmurray, Emeritus Professor of Moral Philosophy, Edinburgh University.
Kenneth W. Morgan, Professor of Religion, Colgate University.
T. R. V. Murti, Director of the Centre of Advanced Studies in Philosophy, Benares Hindu University, Varansi 5, India.
D. A. Rees, Lecturer in Philosophy, Jesus College, Oxford.
N. H. G. Robinson, Professor of Systematic Theology, St. Andrews University, Scotland.
Robert Slater, Emeritus Professor of World Religions, Harvard University.
John Smith, Professor of Philosophy, Yale University.
G. Widengren, Professor of the History of Religions and Psychology of Religion, Uppsala University, Sweden.

Religious Studies is concerned with the main problems that present themselves in various fields of religious study. It provides a means of sustained discussion of the issues that have been sharpened by the course of recent philosophy and by the new findings of the historical and comparative study of religions. The psychology and sociology of religion, as they bear on major religious questions, come also within our scope. Space is reserved mainly for articles but there will also be extended book discussions, surveys of recent literature and book notes. It is hoped from time to time to publish replies to articles published in the journal and to provide in these and kindred ways a forum for debate of questions of importance in the study of religions today. Although authors will sometimes be encouraged to develop their views at some length the highest standards of precision and clarity are to be maintained.