

VICTORIAN COUNTRY PARSONS

By Brenda Colloms

The variety of experience and the achievements of the Victorian country parson were astonishing; the lives of some of these marvelously individualistic characters are the subject of this book. Brenda Colloms begins with a brief historical outline of the status, social and economic, of the cleric since Chaucer's day, culminating in the high noon of his prosperity in the latter part of the nineteenth century. This period sheltered and encouraged an immense flowering of talent: the budding naturalist, scientist, poet, artist, eccentric, and black sheep prospered and developed in the atmosphere of ordered calm and comparative leisure.

FOUR FINE GENTLEMEN

By Hester Chapman

Depicted in these pages are four seventeenth-century patricians, whose lives seem to form a pattern underlying a comparatively short period of English history. The careers of all four, the first Earl of Shaftsbury, Sir William Temple, Sir John Resesby, the Duke of Shrewsbury, are connected; and their characters are in strong, almost violent contrast with one another. From these men's memoirs, diaries, and letters, one glimpses kings and queens, ambassadors and statesmen. Hobnobbing with the great, they were equally unconstrained in the company of spies, prostitutes, and broken men.

THE JOURNAL OF BRITISH STUDIES
TRINITY COLLEGE
HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT

The Journal of British Studies, founded in 1961, is published at Trinity College under the auspices of the Conference on British Studies. It was the result of the imaginative generosity of a Trinity alumnus, Frederick E. Hasler (Hon. LL.D. 1957) who contributed funds to the College for the specific purpose of establishing a learned periodical in the field of British history. Several Trinity alumni subsequently contributed to the fund and Trinity College now supports the publication of the Journal.

The Conference on British Studies is the official organization in the United States and Canada of scholars working in the field of British history and culture; its status as such is recognized by the American Historical Association of which it is an affiliate. Its nearly eight hundred members are drawn from fifty states and five provinces. The national Conference convenes once each year, in the autumn, usually with one of the regional Conferences.

The Conference awards a prize every five years for the best first book by an American or Canadian scholar.

The Conference sponsors a considerable publications program. It publishes the Journal of British Studies at Trinity College; the British Studies Intelligencer, a newsletter, at Western Washington State College, Bellingham, Washington; Archives in British History and Culture, a series devoted to the publication of documents, at West Virginia University, Morgantown; and Current Research in British Studies, a quadrennial survey of research in progress in the United States and Canada, published at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas and edited at Western Washington State College. The Conference also sponsors a series of short monographs, Studies in British History and Culture, edited at Wittenberg University, Springfield, Ohio and published by the Shoe-String Press, Hamden, Connecticut. Under the aegis of the Conference, Cambridge University Press continues to publish a bibliographical series. Albion prints the proceedings of the Conference in its regional and national meetings. Published four times a year at Appalachian State University, Boone, North Carolina, Albion is sent to all members of the Conference. The national Conference on British Studies has fostered the growth of a number of regional Conferences: the Pacific Coast Conference, the Pacific Northwest Conference, the Rocky Mountain Conference, the Midwest Conference, the Southern Conference, the Mid-Atlantic Conference, and the New England Conference. Each of these active and autonomous associations has its own officers, programs, and other activities.

The Journal of British Studies appears twice in the academic year, in the autumn and in the spring. The annual subscription is $8.00. Checks for subscriptions and enquiries concerning advertising rates should be directed to the Business Manager, British Studies, Box 1315, Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, 06106.

Manuscripts, not exceeding 8,000 words of text, should be sent to the Editor-Designate, Bentley B. Gilbert, Department of History, University of Illinois at Chicago Circle, Chicago, Illinois 60680. Please send two copies and a self-addressed return stamped envelope.

Volume XVIII, No. 1 will be published in the fall of 1978.
