📖 The Leo Baeck Institute and the New York Public Library, with the support of the National Endowment for the Humanities, have obtained microfilm copies of about 8,000 books and 600 periodicals from the Wiener Library, formerly of London and now located at the University of Tel Aviv. The Wiener Library focuses on the history of National Socialism, including the Holocaust, and other totalitarian regimes of the twentieth century. Microfilms of Wiener Library holdings dealing with German-Jewish history up to 1945 are available at the New York Leo Baeck Institute; microfilms of material relating to other totalitarian regimes are now held by the New York Public Library. None of these items are listed in the National Union Catalogue or the Union List of Serials (2d ed.), and they are therefore in all probability not available in the United States.

These microfilms are available within the interlibrary loan arrangement of the Research Libraries Group. Positive copies, reproduced by Archival Micrographics, Inc., can be purchased through either the Leo Baeck Institute or the New York Public Library. Two microfilm index reels—one for book titles ($27.50) and another for periodicals ($11.25)—can be purchased from the Photographic Service of the New York Public Library. These index reels are not available on interlibrary loan.

Charges are $20 per 35mm reel and $13 per 16mm reel, plus shipping expenses. Charges for material requiring half a reel or less will be reduced by 50 percent. If copyright questions arise, the ordering party will be advised and must clarify the status.
