TO THOSE WISHING TO SUBMIT MANUSCRIPTS

Three copies of any article or note should be submitted, and at least one copy must be in a form suitable for sending to the printer. Footnotes should be double-spaced and placed at the end of the manuscript. Library of Congress transliteration should be used. In general, articles should not exceed twenty-five pages, except where especially justified, e.g., by extensive documentation, tables, or charts. Manuscripts will not be returned unless specifically requested and postage is provided. The policy of the Slavic Review is not to consider materials that have been published or that are being considered for publication elsewhere.

Publication of articles in the Slavic Review is ordinarily limited to those submitted by members of AAASS. Nonmembers wishing to submit manuscripts are asked to request a membership application.

Authors who wish to have their manuscripts considered anonymously should request so explicitly and prepare manuscript copies accordingly.

The Formal Method in Literary Scholarship

A Critical Introduction to Sociological Poetics

P. N. Medvedev and M. M. Bakhtin

translated by Albert J. Wehrle

"In view of the considerable interest in France, Germany, and elsewhere in Formalism and in Structuralism, the growth of such interest in the United States, and the many attempts made to wed these theories with Marxism, this translation not only makes available to the English-speaking world an important historical classic but also supplies a treatise on a very topical subject." — George Gibian, Cornell University.

"Clearly the best history of the movement in any language." — Richard Sheldon, Dartmouth College

In this introduction, Albert J. Wehrle relates this book to the other works produced by the Bakhtin circle and discusses the authorship controversy in its textual, biographical, and historical contexts. The translation is annotated, and references to formalist texts are correlated with French and German translations.

Soviet Semiotics

An Anthology

edited, translated, and with an introduction by

Daniel P. Lucid

"A well-compiled collection which excellently reflects the present state of Soviet semiotics." — Juri Lotman and Boris Uspenskij

The twenty-four essays in this volume discuss the foundations and general concepts of semiotics; modeling systems; communication studies; text analysis; the semiotics of art and literature; and the typology of culture. Soviet Semiotics provides background information on all these topics, plus a useful bibliography of books, articles, and journals — in English and other languages — of interest to semioticians.
