CANADIAN COMMITTEE ON LABOUR HISTORY

LABOUR/LE TRAVAIL: JOURNAL OF CANADIAN LABOUR STUDIES

Labour/Le Travail is the official publication of the Canadian Committee on Labour History (CCLH). Since it began publishing in 1976, it has carried many important articles in the field of working-class history, industrial sociology, labour economics, and labour relations. Although primarily interested in a historical perspective on Canadian workers, the journal is interdisciplinary in scope. In addition to articles, the journal features documents, conference reports, an annual bibliography of materials in Canadian labour studies, review essays, and reviews. While the main focus of the journal's articles is Canada, the review essays and reviews consider international work of interest to Canadian labour studies. Many of Labour/Le Travail's articles are illustrated and each issue is book length, averaging 350+ pages. For a complete listing of volumes and articles, please visit the journal's website at <http://www.mun.ca/cclh/lt/>

RADICAL HISTORY Review

Punishment and Death

Issue #96

Ethan Blue and Patrick Timmons, special issue editors
single issue price $14

This special issue of Radical History Review considers the persistence of death and suffering in the history of punishment to be part of historical legacies created by slavery and colonialism. These essays focus primarily on the United States and contend that the most “modern” political systems of the twenty-first century still stand behind mechanisms of violence, sanctioning military use of torture and punishment to incapacitate their enemies and even their own citizens.

Topics include

- how Americans express outrage toward military torture at Abu Ghraib but not toward similar instances of torture against inmates of color within the U.S. prison system
- the alliance between anti-prison activists and the environmental justice movement in California, formed to halt prison building
- racial prejudices within disciplinary processes of Puerto Rico that result in unequal distribution of punishment
