

News and Notes

Activities

James R. Agut, University of Miami, was awarded the University of Miami's John Barrett Prize for 1975, awarded for the best Master's thesis or Ph.D. dissertation on a Latin American topic. Dr. Agut's dissertation was "The Peruvian Revolution and Catholic Corporatism: Armed Forces Rule Since 1968."

Sidney Baldwin, California State University, Fullerton, will spend the fall 1975 academic semester in Israel, researching the diffusion of technological innovations in agriculture and rural community development. He will make his headquarters at the Settlement Study Center, Rehovot.

William B. Ballis, University of Michigan, attended a Wilton Park (England) Conference in June 1975 under the auspices of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office on "Trans-Atlantic Relations" and opened a session on "American Foreign Policy in the Seventies."

Donald D. Barry, Lehigh University, has been awarded a travel grant by the American Council of Learned Societies to attend an international conference on "The Principles of Strict Law" to be held in Bellagio, Italy, August 4-8, 1975. Barry will read a paper on "The Development of Soviet Tort Law."

Charles R. Beitz, Princeton University, has been awarded the Morris Abrams Award in International Relations. The non-sectarian award, given by the Jewish Vocational Service of Cleveland, was given to Beitz on the basis of his outstanding background, achievement, and meritorious dedication to furthering the ideals for which the Abrams Award was established.

Robert O. Blanchard, American University, was an invited participant in TIME magazine's seminar on "The Role of Congress" with a group of TIME and FORTUNE editors, political scientists and some members of the House and Senate held May 19 at the City Tavern Club in Washington. He also served on the panel of judges for the Seventh Annual Robert F. Kennedy Journalism Awards and is on the selection committee and academic adviser for the Sears Congressional Internship Program for Journalism Students.

Alan K. Campbell, Syracuse University, was elected president of the National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration on April 6 at the NASPAA Annual Conference.

John Chamberlin, University of Michigan, attended the International Colloquium on the Foundations and Applications of Decision

Theory, May 15-18, at the University of Western Ontario, London, Ontario.

Wayne A. Cornelius, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has returned from an eight-month research leave devoted to a study of interrelationships among migration, rural underdevelopment and public policy in Mexico.

Wilder Crane, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, spent the summer 1975 in Western Europe under a grant from the U.S. Government Committee on International Exchange of Scholars.

David J. Danelski, Cornell University, received the University's Arch Dotson Award which was established in memory of Professor Dotson for the social scientist "whose career at Cornell exemplifies the tradition of scholarly achievement" of the late chairman of the Department of Government.

Alfred Diamant, Indiana University, received an Amoco Foundation Award for outstanding teaching at Founder's Day, April 16, 1975.

Guy Dodge, Brown University, will be on sabbatical leave during Semester I, 1975-76, after which he will retire rounding out exactly 35 years at that institution.

Lee W. Farnsworth, Brigham Young University, is on leave from June to December 1975 on a Japan Foundation Fellowship. He is studying the nature and intensity of legislative conflict in Japan. He was also recently elected to the House of Representatives in Utah State Legislature.

Norman Furniss, Indiana University, has received a National Endowment for the Humanities faculty fellowship for 1975-76.

Lubomir Gleiman, Newton College, was awarded the honorary degree, Doctor of Humane Letters, on May 11, 1975. For the next two years Dr. Gleiman will hold an appointment as a "Newton Fellow" of Boston College.

Arthur B. Gunlicks, University of Richmond, Virginia, has received a Fulbright research grant for a study of local government reform in West Germany. He will be associated with the University of Goettingen for the 1975-76 academic year.

John H. Hallowell, Duke University, directed a seminar on Politics and Morality at Duke University from June 9 to August 2. This is one of the summer seminars for college faculty sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

William John Hanna, City University of New York, presented one of the eight papers on the program of the 22nd World Congress of the International Union of Local Authorities, Tehran, Iran, April 15-19, 1975. The paper was entitled "Urban Administrative Structures and Processes: A Citizen-Subjective Approach." Grants from NSF and UILA supported the trip. He also presented a paper at the Conference on Education and Politics in Africa held at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, May 12-13, 1975. This paper was entitled "University Students and African Politics: A Research Review and Preview."

Jerome Hanus, American University, will be on leave during 1975-76.

Lowell Hattery, American University, will be on leave during 1975-76.

Matthew Holden, University of Wisconsin, Madison, has been named by Governor Patrick Lucen to the State Public Service Commission.

Gerald L. Houseman, Indiana University, Fort Wayne, has been elected Vice-Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Fort Wayne Public Transportation Corporation. He is also now the National Chairperson of the Committee for Zero Automobile Growth.

Yung-hwan Jo, Arizona State University, delivered a keynote address, "Changing Political Scenes in Asia and the Role of Intellectuals," to the members and invited guests of the Association for Korean Studies. He also read a paper at the Korean Political Science Association conference in Seoul, June 9-12 on "The Functions of Ideology in China and North Korea."

James R. Klonoski, University of Oregon, has been elected President of the Northwest Political Science Association for 1975-76. He has also been elected to a two-year term as State Chairman of the Democratic Party of Oregon for 1974-76.

Linda L. Lubrano, American University, has been awarded a grant from the Joint Committee on Soviet Studies of the American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council to study the "Professional Relationships and Policy Involvement of Soviet Scientists," July-December 1975.

Roger D. Masters, Dartmouth College, has been elected chairman of the Editorial Board of "Biology and Social Life" section of SOCIAL SCIENCE INFORMATION, published under the auspices of the International Social Science Council.

Douglas H. Mendel, Jr., University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, spent most of the summer 1975 doing research in Japan, South Korea, and Taiwan with support from the Republic of China and the Research Institute on Korean Affairs.

Manindra K. Mohapatra, Old Dominion University, received an International Travel Grant from the University Consortium of Comparative Legislative Studies to participate in a Conference on Legislative Development organized by the International Political Science Association, held in Penang, Malaysia, March 14-17, 1975.

Bruce F. Norton, American University, will be on a leave of absence for the academic year, 1975-76.

William H. Overholt, Hudson Institute, took a partial leave of absence to undertake research on "The Stability of Democratic Institutions" as a Senior Fellow at Columbia's Research Institute on International Change for 1974-75.

Paul L. Rosen, Carleton University, has been awarded a Canada Council research grant in support of a study of political dissent and disobedience.

Jack Rossotti, American University, will return as an assistant professor in the Washington Semester program for an additional year.

Gerard F. Rutan, Western Washington State College, testified before the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the Senate of Canada in May concerning Provincial-State relationships in general and British Columbia-Washington State relations in particular.

Steffen W. Schmidt, Iowa State University, conducted research in Colombia in February and March 1975 under an Iowa State University foreign travel grant and partial support from HEW-OE. He also presented the paper, "Politics Without Breakdown: Political Clientelism and the Colombian Party System in the National Front" at the Southwestern Political Science Association meeting, March 29, 1975.

Sheldon W. Simon, Arizona State University, delivered a talk on "A Communist Indochina and Asian Security" to the Advanced S.E. Asia Seminar of the Foreign Service Institute in Washington in June.

John H. Spurgin, Tyler State College, is serving as coordinator of the Political Science Program in the Department of Social Sciences of Texas Eastern University.

Otis Stephens, University of Tennessee, will spend the 1975-76 academic year at Harvard Law School as a Fellow in Law and Political Science.

Mark Tessler, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, conducted the annual U.N. summer institute which began at UWM and spent a month in New York.

New Appointments

Kristi Andersen, assistant professor, Ohio State University; formerly of University of Chicago.

Joseph Barnea, consultant, United Nations Institute for Training and Research.

Brian Barry, professor, University of British Columbia; formerly of Nuffield College.

Richard Bingham, assistant professor, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

Earl Black, associate professor, University of South Carolina; formerly of the University of South Florida.

John Booth, assistant professor, University of Texas, San Antonio; formerly of University of Texas, Austin.

Michael K. Brown, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Colin Campbell, assistant professor, York University, Toronto.

John DeGara, In-Service Fellow, United Nations Institute for Training and Research; formerly of University of Denver.

Soliman Demir, In-Service Fellow, United Nations Institute for Training and Research.

Terry D. Edgmon, assistant professor, University of New Mexico.

James Gibson, assistant professor, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee

John H. Hallowell, James B. Duke Professor, Duke University.

Jack W. Hopkins, professor, Indiana University.

Thomas L. Hurley, assistant professor, University of New Mexico.

Emma Jackson, assistant professor, Indiana University.

Robert M. Johnstone, assistant professor, Earlham College; formerly of Wilson College.

Judith Denton Jones, instructor, American University.

Cornelius M. Kerwin, instructor, American University.

David H. Koehler, American University.

David D. Laitin, assistant professor, University of California, San Diego.

Harvey Lieber, American University.

Stephen R. Lefevre, assistant professor, Texas Eastern University.

Ardithe Maney, assistant professor, Iowa State University.

Antonette Marzotto, assistant professor, Towson State University; formerly of Humboldt State University.

James McCormick, assistant professor, Iowa State University.

Vincent McHale, associate professor, Case Western Reserve University; formerly of University of Pennsylvania.

Michael Mitchell, lecturer, Princeton University; formerly of M.I.T.

David C. Paris, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Samuel L. Popkin, acting associate professor, University of California, San Diego; formerly of University of Texas, Austin.

Robert Rakoff, assistant professor, University of Illinois, Chicago Circle; formerly of University of Washington.

James Lee Ray, assistant professor, University of New Mexico.

David Rosen, assistant professor, Cook College, Rutgers University.

Susan L. Shirk, assistant professor, University of California, San Diego; formerly of University of Texas, Austin.

R. Michael Stevens, assistant professor, University of Texas, San Antonio; formerly of Temple University.

Pauline Stone, assistant professor, Indiana University.

Thomas Sweeney, assistant professor, Coe College; formerly of Skidmore College.

David W. Taylor, instructor, American University.

Mary C. Thornberry, assistant professor, University of Arizona.

Bernadine Turpen, instructor, Livingston College, Rutgers University; formerly of University of New Mexico.

John Vasquez, assistant professor, Rutgers College, Rutgers University; formerly of Earlham College.

Ray Dearborn Whitman, assistant professor, American University.

Glynn Wood, American University.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

Stanley Bedlington, visiting assistant professor, Earlham College.

Aryeh Botwinick, visiting assistant professor, Swarthmore College, Fall 1975-76.

Charles N. Brownstein, Lehigh University, Program Manager in the Telecommunications Policy Program, NSF, RANN for 1975-76.

Edward G. Carmines, visiting assistant professor, Indiana University.

N. Joseph Cayer, visiting associate professor, Texas Tech University, 1975-76.

Bruce Cumings, visiting assistant professor, Swarthmore College, 1975-76.

Marius Deeb, visiting assistant professor, Indiana University.

Henry W. Ehrmann, visiting professor, University of California, San Diego, winter 1976, Dartmouth College.

Virginia Koontz, visiting lecturer, University of Illinois, Chicago Circle; formerly of University of Michigan.

Roger Carl Schaefer, visiting assistant professor, Texas Tech University, 1975-76.

Administrative Appointments

Henry J. Anna, associate professor and director, M.P.A. program, University of Dayton; formerly of the University of Cincinnati.

James B. Christoph, acting chairman, Indiana University, 1975-76.

James Clotfelter, director, Center for Public Service, Texas Tech University.

Otto A. Davis, dean, School of Urban and Public Affairs, Carnegie-Mellon University.

Philippe DeSeynes, Senior Special Fellow and Director, Project on the Future, United Nations Institute for Training and Research.

Robert V. Edington, associate dean of liberal arts for social sciences, Idaho State University.

Alan Feng, internal evaluator and chairman, Department of Related Social Sciences, Cheyney State College.

Robert O. Freedman, dean of graduate school and professor, Baltimore Hebrew College; formerly of Marquette University.

William P. Gerberding, executive vice chancellor, University of California, Los Angeles.

Charles V. Hamilton, president, Metropolitan Applied Research Center; formerly of Columbia University.

Murray Clark Havens, acting chairman, Texas Tech University.

Clifford E. Landers, chairman, Jersey City State College.

Emile A. Nakhleh, chairman, Mount Saint Mary's College.

John W. Outland, chairman, University of Richmond, Virginia.

Simon D. Perry, chairman, Marshall University.

Sheldon V. Simon, professor and chairman, Arizona State University.

Leonard Stitelman, director, public administration division, University of New Mexico.

Marvin Surkin, assistant professor and director, Independent Studies, Brooklyn College.

Susan J. Tolchin, director, Washington Institute for Women in Politics, Mount Vernon College; formerly of Drew University Washington Semester Program.

Promotions

Robert B. Albritton, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University: assistant professor.

Benjamin Barber, Rutgers University: professor.

Charles T. Barber, Indiana State University, Evansville: associate professor.

Elliott A. Brown, Park College: associate professor.

John Chamberlin, University of Michigan: assistant professor.

William J. Clark, Saint Mary's College, Minnesota: associate professor and chairman.

Clarke E. Cochran, Texas Tech University: associate professor.

David Collier, Indiana University: associate professor.

Terrence E. Cook, Washington State University: associate professor.

Ruben de Hoyos, University of Wisconsin, Oshkosh: associate professor.

Gerald A. Dorfman, Iowa State University: associate professor.

Alan Feng, Cheyney State College: professor.

Norman Furniss, Indiana University: associate professor.

Paul L. Hain, University of New Mexico: associate professor.

Richard S. Hartigan, Loyola University of Chicago: professor.

Richard Hofferbert, University of Michigan: professor.

Charles E. Jacob, Rutgers University: professor.

John R. Johannes, Marquette University: associate professor.

Nolan Jones, University of Michigan: assistant professor.

Arnold Kanter, University of Michigan: assistant professor.

John Kingdon, University of Michigan: professor.

Ellis S. Krauss, Western Washington State College: professor.

Henry Krisch, University of Connecticut: associate professor.

Martha Kumar, Towson State College: associate professor.

Jong R. Lee, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University: assistant professor.

C. Richard Lehne, Rutgers University: associate professor.

Kenneth Lieberthal, Swarthmore College: associate professor.

Robert D. Loevy, Colorado College: professor.

Ronald Montaperto, Indiana University: associate professor.

William F. Mullen, Washington State University: associate professor.

Victor Olorunsola, Iowa State University: professor.

Robert Putnam, University of Michigan: professor.

Gerard F. Rutan, Western Washington State College: professor.

Farouk Sankari, University of Wisconsin, Oshkosh: associate professor.

Gordon J. Schochet, Rutgers University: professor.

David C. Schwartz, Rutgers University: professor.

Lee P. Sigelman, Texas Tech University: associate professor.

Charles L. Taylor, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University: professor.

Stuart J. Thorson, Ohio State University: associate professor.

James A. Thurber, American University: associate professor.

Timothy Tilton, Indiana University: associate professor.

Rudolf L. Tokes, University of Connecticut: professor.

Donald S. Van Meter, Ohio State University: associate professor.

Corey B. Venning, Loyola University of Chicago: associate professor.

Francis Walsh, Saint Mary's College, Minnesota: professor.

Nelson Wikstrom, Virginia Commonwealth University: associate professor.

Fred H. Willhoite, Coe College: professor.

Richard W. Wilson, Rutgers University: professor.

Dina A. Zinnes, Indiana University: professor.

Retirements

Nicholas J. Barabolak, chairman, Department of Political Science, Saint Mary's College, Winona, Minnesota.

Eleanor C. Isbell, editor of ITEMS since its first issue in 1947 and a member of the Social Science Research Council's staff since 1940, retired on April 1, 1975.

Harold H. Roth, Professor Emeritus of Government and Public Administration, American University.

Corrections

Frederick Hartman, Texas Tech University, was incorrectly spelled as Frederic K. Hartmann.

Chae-Jin Lee is not acting chairman of the Department of Political Science, but acting chairman of the East Asian Studies Program, University of Kansas, as formerly listed in the winter 1975 PS.

PS regrets these errors.

In Memoriam

William Anderson

William Anderson, Emeritus Professor of Political Science, University of Minnesota, died on May 14, 1975, at the age of 86. He was a leading American authority in the areas of local government, public administration, intergovernmental relations, and the history of political science, and did much to shape teaching and research in these fields not only at his own university but throughout the country. He had also an intense devotion to public service, which led him to give much time and energy to advisory and research commissions at all levels of government, where his grasp of principle coupled with detailed knowledge of governmental operations enabled him to make important contributions. His professional achievements were recognized by a succession of honors including the University of Minnesota's Outstanding Achievement Award and the naming of a classroom building after him, election as an honorary member of the International City Management Association and as Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the National Municipal League's Distinguished Citizen Award "for exceptional and devoted community service." In 1929 he became First Vice President, and in 1942 President, of the American Political Science Association.

Professor Anderson was born in Minneapolis in 1888. He graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1913, where he showed early promise in political science by winning first prize in the Harris political science prize contest for 1912-1913 with an essay on the work of the New York public service commissions. He went on to Harvard University, where he served as an instructor in 1915-1916 and took his Ph.D. degree in 1917. He then returned to the University of Minnesota, where he was a member of the Department of Political Science continuously from 1916 until retirement in 1957 and Chairman from 1927-1932 and 1935-1947. It was during this period that the Department emerged as one of the leading political science faculties in the country.

Professor Anderson's early work was in local government. He became the director (1919-1928) of the University of Minnesota's Bureau for Research in Government, maintained a close relationship with the League of Minnesota Municipalities, which has its offices and Municipal Reference Bureau at the University, and was president of the Minneapolis Research Bureau (1941-1947). Much of his research was in conjunction with one or another of these organizations. His interest in Minneapolis Charter reform led to a Charter amendment to force ward redistricting long before the Supreme Court threw its weight behind the principle of one-man, one-vote. In 1936 the League of Women Voters published his review of Minneapolis Charter Problems and made it a handbook for its political efforts. For this and many other contributions to its work the Minnesota League of Women Voters later made him an honorary life member, the first male to be so honored.

This basic groundwork soon led Professor Anderson to broader treatments of local government. His text, American City Government (1925; revised ed., with Edward W. Weidner, 1950), was the standard introductory book on that subject for a whole generation of students. His Local Government and Finance in Minnesota (1935) was a remarkable monograph that has been much used by local government officers throughout the State and deserves to be emulated in other states. In 1934 he published a pioneering study issued by the Public Administration Service, The Units of Government in the United States, an Enumeration and Analysis