

Race Relations and Immigration Law

By Ian Macdonald, M.A., LL.B., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

The Race Relations Act 1968 deals with discrimination on the grounds of colour, race, ethnic or national origin. This book is the first published annotated guide to this controversial Act—and to earlier legislation covering the entire field of race relations, aliens and immigration control.

The book runs to some 200 pages, the first half of which is in narrative form consisting of an outline of the scope and aims of the Act, a definition of the real meaning of "discrimination", the enforcement powers of the Race Relations Board, a definition of "incitement", control of immigration, etc. The remainder of the book consists of the full text of the Race Relations Act 1965 and 1968 and earlier legislation on this subject.

It will be an invaluable aid towards assisting full comprehension of this complicated Act, not only for legal practitioners and their clients, but also for employers and the general public.

It is also available in Butterworths Annotated Legislation Service.

Words and Phrases Legally Defined

Second Edition now in course of publication

Edited by John B. Saunders, Barrister-at-Law.

WORDS AND PHRASES is a unique work; in the courts of law a case may stand or fall over the precise meaning of a word or phrase, and to possess a work including definitions in the exact words used by a Judge will be of considerable help to all legal practitioners. This new edition has been transformed, as can be seen from its altered title. WORDS AND PHRASES JUDICIALLY DEFINED has become WORDS AND PHRASES LEGALLY DEFINED, and its scope is enormously broadened. As well as the judicial definitions of the First Edition, the Second Edition includes a selection of both text-book and statutory definitions.

Volumes 1 and 2 are now available. The remaining volumes will appear one by one, at intervals of approximately three months, and publication will be completed early in 1970. The work will be kept up to date with bound Supplements issued annually.

Illustrated brochure including specimen page and details of instalment terms is available on application.

UGANDA: The Development of its Laws and Constitution

H. F. MORRIS, M.A., LL.B., PH.D.

Lecturer in African Law, School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London, Lately African Courts Adviser, Uganda.

JAMES S. READ, LL.B.

Of Gray's Inn, Barrister-at-Law, Senior Lecturer, Faculty of Law, University College, Dar-es-Salaam.

Of all the Constitutions which have been adopted by newly-independent African states, Uganda's is in many ways the most interesting, representing as it does a delicate compromise between the unitary and federal state and between the forces of radical democracy and of traditionalism. This work, which was originally published in 1966, describes the development of the Constitution, considers its salient features and analyses the most important branches of the law of Uganda. It is now available in paperback form.

A GUIDE TO INCOME TAX AND CAPITAL GAINS TAX

P. G. WILLOUGHBY, LL.M.(London)

Solicitor of the Supreme Court of Judicature (Hons.), Barrister and Solicitor of the Supreme Court of Nigeria, Formerly Senior Lecturer, Nigerian Law School, Lagos.

BRIAN W. HARVEY, M.A., LL.B.(Cantab.), A.T.I.I.

Solicitor (England); formerly Senior Lecturer at the Nigerian Law School, Lagos.

This is the first textbook published on income tax and capital gains tax in Nigeria and as such it will be an invaluable handbook for all those in the legal, accountancy and commercial fields. The main purpose of the work, however, is to present a detailed, but concise and readable account of the law for students and for the newly qualified lawyer. The book abounds with practical advice and is fully up to date on income tax, capital gains tax, and the taxation of companies, to the 1967 legislation.
